TO CLARENCE S. BRIGHAM, LIBRARIAN OF
THE AMERICAN ANTIQUARIAN SOCIETY, WHO HAS COOPERATED SO GENEROUSLY IN THE PREPARATION OF THE LATER PARTS OF
THIS VOLUME, BOTH BY SHARING THE RESULTS OF HIS OWN RESEARCH, AND BY OPENING TO THE EDITOR THE RESOURCES OF THE LIBRARY

STATEMENT

HALF a century and more ago a New York bookseller, born in England and with a long life of praiseworthy service in his adopted country to his credit, had a dream. Out of this dream appeared in January, 1867, the first part of "A Dictionary of Books relating to America, from its discovery to the present time. By Joseph Sabin."

The "Notice" prefixed to volume I, dated September 1, 1868, told how he intended to print a preface to the whole work with the last volume, and how with the first volume he would do no more than reproduce the Prospectus issued December 5, 1866. This Prospectus told of his fifteen years of research, of the four years spent in preliminary foundation work for the first volume, and then went on to say that

"Had the magnitude and extreme difficulty of the undertaking been presented to my mind in full proportions at the outset, I should never have attempted it; and, indeed, I may remark, that I have more than once almost determined upon its abandonment; but a deep sense of its importance, however imperfectly it may be executed, and a strong partiality for bibliographical pursuits, have stimulated me to continue my labor."

On the 5th of June, 1881, Joseph Sabin died in Brooklyn, and soon after his death a young Brooklyn bookseller, aged twenty-six, offered to continue the work carried on for the past fifteen years by Sabin. The debt American scholarship owes Wilberforce Eames and Joseph Sabin is not lightly reckoned or paid.

For the next decade Wilberforce Eames carried on this voluntary task, with never a cent of financial reward as payment, seeing parts 83/4 of volume XIV through 115/116 of volume XX off the press from 1884, when the first appeared, until 1892. By that time increasing responsibilities had come on him. He had been made Librarian of the Lenox Library, and paid the penalty of all who try to add research to administrative duties.

Help came from the Carnegie Institution of Washington with a grant (no. 343) of $3,600 for "completion" of the work, with the understanding that two years would suffice. Leonhard Felix Fuld began on June 15, 1906, and later was succeeded by Frederick C. Bursh, the principal part of their task being the whipping into shape for the printer the copy slips already on hand. With the end of the grant came an end to the work, and the Dictionary fell to sleep once more.

In an effort to revive the dormant enterprise the American Library Association appointed a committee to try to begin work once more on the Dictionary. It organized on April 16, 1924, composed as follows: R. R. Bowker, Worthington C. Ford, Andrew Keogh, Azariah S. Root, J. I. Wyer, Jr., Victor Hugo Paltsits, Secretary, E. H. Anderson, Chairman.

The response to the queries sent by this committee indicated that the libraries of the country would support an effort to continue the Dictionary. On Dec. 27, 1924, the Carnegie Corporation granted the Bibliographical Society of America $7,500 as a revolving fund for publications, and the American Library Association on December 31, 1924, discharged its committee, with the understanding that the work would be undertaken by the Bibliographical Society. The latter on Jan. 17, 1925, appointed as a committee for this work, Andrew Keogh, Miss Isadore G. Mudge, Victor Hugo Paltsits, James I. Wyer, Jr., H. M. Lydenberg, Chairman.

Part 117 issued under these new auspices appeared on the 8th of August, 1927, and parts 118, 119 and now 120 have followed as circumstances permitted. With part 120 is finished volume XX, and in explanation of the thirty-six years that separate the first and last parts of volume XX this statement seems not unfitting.

All who have had anything to do with the work rejoice that Dr. Eames has been granted health and strength to continue his editing. May it be his good fate to supply for the last volume the Preface Joseph Sabin had in mind in 1868.

It is hard to conceive how the renewal of publication could have been carried so far without the continued interest, encouragement, support, help and advice of Richard Rogers Bowker; and to him and to Miss Elizabeth G. Greene, who has helped with the work from the revival, must be given the thanks of all.

When it became evident that the funds in hand would not permit the work to be finished with the speed the committee hoped might attend it, support came from the following friends who promised money for three years in an effort to finish the editing and publishing within that time: The Pierpont Morgan Library, through its Director, Miss Belle da Costa Greene; Mr. J. Percy Sabin, Dr.

A. S. W. Rosenbach, Mr. Lathrop C. Harper, Mr. Carl Pforzheimer, Mr. I. N. Phelps Stokes, Mr. William L. Clements, Mr. Herschel V. Jones, Mr. William G. Mather.

Particular mention should be made of the sympathetic and appreciative help and encouragement given by Dr. A. S. W. Rosenbach, who has encouraged when the skies seemed dark and has tendered help when all other resources threatened to fail. If the aim and goal of three years have not been attained it is not because of lack of work or interest on the part of Dr. Eames or Miss Greene.

[SIMMS.] Sack and Destruction of the City of Columbia, S. C. To which is added a list of the Property destroyed. Columbia, S. C.: Power Press of Daily Phœnix. 1865. 8vo, pp. 76, and covers. 81254

The cover-title contains the additional words: "Originally published in the Columbia Daily Phœnix." The author of this pamphlet was Mr. Simms, who was at that time associated with Mr. Julian A. Selby on the Columbia Phœnix. It was first published in successive numbers of that newspaper. Mr. Selby subsequently put it into pamphlet form and published 5000 copies. The demand for it was so small that only about one hundred copies were sold, and the remainder was given away or destroyed. It was printed on Confederate bond paper. A copy in J. Thomas Scharf's sale, Bangs & Co., New York, Dec. 14-16, 1886 (No. 1111), brought $27. For another pamphlet with a similar title, see Trezevant (D. H.)

SIMON (P. [Antonio]). The Expedition of Pedro de Ursua & Lope de Aguirre in search of El Dorado and Omagua in 1560-1. Translated from Fray Pedro Simon's "Sixth Historical Notice of the Conquest of Tierra Firme." By William Bol-laert, Esq., F.R.G.S. ... With an Introduction by Clements R. Markham, Esq. London: Printed for the Hakluyt Society. M.DCCC.-LXI. 8vo, pp. 8, (18), liii, (2), 237. Map. L. 81285

"In 1623 Simon began to write his noticias historiales, for which he had been collecting materials for many years. The first part, the only one ever printed, appeared at Cuenca in 1627; and consists of seven noticias treating of the affairs of Venezuela, and of the expedition of Ursua and Aguirre. The other two parts, also composed of seven noticias each, exist only in manuscript. The second relates the discoveries on the right bank of the river Magdalena, from Santa Martha; and the third relates the conquests of Carthagena, Popayan, Antioquia, and Choco; and is said, by Colonel Acosta, to be the most complete and most valuable account of the affairs of New Granada in the sixteenth century, in existence. ... Simon's account of the expedition of Ursua and Aguirre is contained in the fifty-two chapters of the sixth historical notice of the first part of his work; which have now been translated for the Hakluyt Society, and form the present volume."—Introduction.

"J'ai vu la deuxième et la troisième partie de cet ouvrage en manuscrit de la main de l'auteur, au couvent des franciscains de Santa Fé de Bogota. Il en existe aussi quelques copies en Europe, et elles mériteraient bien d'être publiées. Cette première partie traite des provinces de Cumana et Venezuela; la seconde, de la Nouvelle Grenade, et la troisième, de la province de Carthagène. Pedro Simon était franciscain et natif de Cuença." —TERNAUX.

SIMON. Primera parte de las Noticias historiales de las Conquistas de Tierra Firme en las Indias Occidentales. Compuesto por el Padre Fray Pedro Simon, del orden de San-Francisco del

Nuevo Reino de Granada. Bogota. 1882. Sm. 4to, pp. x, 425, xi. 81287

"Pedro Antonio Simon, Flemish historian, b. in Cambrai about 1560; d. in Colombia, South America, about 1630. He entered the Franciscan order, and was sent, about 1590, as a missionary to New Granada, where he resided successively in Guachetá, Bogota, Serrezuela, Zipacoa, and Meuqueta, on Funza river, about fifteen miles north from the present city of Bogota. Father Simon became the historian of the Muisca or Chibcha Indians, among whom he lived for many years. His most interesting work contains a summary history of all the tribes that lived in the ancient empire of Cundinamarca, and describes their civilization, their arts, their monuments, and their manners. It contains also an analysis of the Funza dialect, which is altogether unknown to-day, and of which the only monument left is Simon's history, and of the Bogota or Chibcha dialect, which had nearly superseded the other dialects at the time of the Spanish conquest. Simon's work is the only one that gives details concerning the early history and condition of the tribes living in Cundinamarca before the conquest, as all other works that relate to that country have been lost, among them the 'Historia de la Nueva Granada' by the missionaries Medrano and Aguado, and the part of the 'Elojios de Varones ilustres de Indias' of Castellanos that is devoted to Cundinamarca. The only one left referring to Cundinamarca is the incomplete relation of Lucas Fernandez de Piedrahita. Simon's work relating to Venezuela was published under the title 'Noticias historiales de las Conquistas de Tierra firme' (Madrid, 1627). The two other parts relating to Cundinamarca are yet in manuscript, the second in the library of the Royal historical society, and the third in the National library of Madrid. Henri Ternaux-Compans, although he says he purchased them, can only have obtained copies, which he used for his 'Essai sur l'ancien Cundinamarca' (Paris, 1842)."—Appletons' Cyclopædia of American Biography.

"The founder of the American line of Washingtons emigrated to Virginia in the middle of the seventeenth century, and became the great grandfather of the illustrious patriot. The fortunes of the emigrant and of his family, before the emigration, form the subject of this tale. The Washingtons were a Northamptonshire family; and the scene of the tale is laid in that county, in the village to which they retired for some years during a season of adversity, and lived under the protection of the Spencers of Althorp. The author, while looking for traces of these Washingtons in their native county, found at Althorp and elsewhere a mass of curious original documents belonging to the times and the localities which he was investigating; and was induced to fuse his materials into the form of a narrative, which he believes the best mode of introducing them to the reading public. The incidents related in the tale really happened, and are but slightly amplified, rather by conjecture than by invention. Truth is adhered to, in matters small as well as great, wherever truth could be ascertained; and in accordance with this principle every personage introduced is one who really existed under the circumstances described."

It is followed by four leaves headed SAINT IAGO, SAINT DOMINGO, CARTHAGENA, and SAINT AUGUSTINE, containing references (apparently) to charts. Title and description from Lemon's "Catalogue of ... Printed Broad-sides in the possession of the Society of Antiquaries of London," 1866, No. 79.

In the same collection is another broadside relating to Drake: In memoriam celeberrimi viri Domini Francisci Drake, militis, qui nuper in navali expeditione contra hostes patriæ suæ, ex Dysenteria laborans obiit, viz. 28. die Januarij, Anno Domini 1595. [London. 1595.] This is enriched with four elaborate woodcut borders, and two centre ornaments; one representing a concert by ten performers, with Mount Parnassus and Pegassus in the middle; the other, Orpheus charming the birds and beasts with his musical performances upon the lyre. It has no imprint. See Lemon's "Catalogue," No. 93.

"No history of the seventeenth century contains so many historical documents and facts relating to particular incidents as this of Siri. The author's object was to pass slightly over those occurrences that had been already described by other writers, and to enter minutely on events that had not been at all noticed, or but imperfectly so, by those who had gone before him. His work is, therefore, highly interesting to the historian, and to all those who want particular information respecting the history of that period, as well for the minuteness of its details, as for the freedom with which the author has spoken of the public characters and favorites of the French court; a freedom that would not have been tolerated, had his works been written in the French language, and thereby obtained that greater degree of publicity and circulation which that circumstance would have given them. It is very rare, indeed, to find a perfectly complete set of both these works. The cause of their scarcity may, perhaps, be accounted for by the circumstance, that the volumes were published at different places, and at different times: added to which, it is said, that several of them were suppressed, at the solicitation of some foreign powers who complained of them."

[SKILLMAN (Rev. Isaac), b. 1740, d. 1799.] The American Alarm, or the Bostonian Plea, For the Rights, and Liberties, of the People. Humbly Addressed to the King and Council, and To the Constitutional Sons of Liberty, in America. By the British Bostonian. Boston: Printed and Sold by D. Kneeland, and N. Davis, in Queen-street. M, DCC, LXXIII. 8vo, pp. (4), 5-35, 1-8, 1-9, 1-16. A-H in fours, I in two. 81585

In four parts, viz.: (1) "An Address to the Gentlemen of the Provinces of America," pp. 5-35, on the rights of the people and of the king or guardian of their rights. (2) "To the King's most excellent Majesty," pp. 1-8, representing in plain words that "Princes are made for the People, and not the people for them;" that the Americans are true and have not their rights, being aggrieved and denied their rights as a people, their rights as British subjects and their charter rights. (3) "To his Excellency the Governor of the Province of the Massachusetts-Bay," pp. 1-9; criticising him severely, and asking among other things, "Has not the parliament of America, by virtue of being the representatives of the people, the same right and power to make laws, and lay these laws before the King, for him to sign and confirm—or to disapprove the same, as the British Parliament has?" (4) "To the honourable the People's Council, and House of Representatives, of the Province of the Massachusetts-Bay," pp. 1-16, complimenting them on their love of liberty, and censuring them for exercising the same oppressions they fled from. Each of these four parts is signed "A British Bostonian." The authorship has also been ascribed to John Allen. See Stevens's "Historical Nuggets," Vol. iii., No. 3257.

SLOETTEN (H. C. Van), pseudon. A New and Further Discovery of the Isle of Pines, in a Letter from Cornelius Van Sloetton [sic], a Dutch-man (who first discovered the Same in the Year, 1667) to a Friend of his in London. With a Relation of his Voyage to the East-Indies. Wherein is declared how he happened to come thither, the Scituation of the Country, the Temperature of the Climate, the manners and conditions of the People that inhabit it; their Laws, Ordinances, and Ceremonies, their way of marrying, Burying, &c. the Longitude and Latitude of the Island, the pleasantness and felicity thereof, with other matters of concern. Licensed according to Order. London, Printed for Allen Banks and Charles Harper ... 1668. 4to. A-C in fours. 82180

By Henry Nevile. It is a fictitious narrative. The piece to which it is a supplement has the following title:

The Isle of Pines, or, A late Discovery of a fourth Island in Terra Australis, Incognita. Being A True Relation of certain English persons, Who in the dayes of Queen Elizabeth, making a Voyage to the East India, were cast away, and wrack-ed upon the Island near to the Coast of Terra Australis Incognita, and all drowned, except one Man and four Women, whereof one was a Negro. And now lately Anno Dom. 1667. a Dutch ship driven by foul weather there by chance have found their Posterity (speaking good English) to amount to ten or twelve thousand persons, as they suppose. The whole Relation follows, written, and left by the Man himself a little before his death, and declared to the Dutch by his Grandchild. Licensed July 27. 1668. London, Printed by S. G. for Allen Banks and Charles Harper at the Flower-Deluce near Cripplegate Church, 1668. 4to, title and pp. 9. 82181

This appears to be the first edition of Henry Nevile's "piece of drollery," and the one followed in the reprint of 1768. It was written for the purpose of setting forth the author's peculiar social and political ideas. There are two other editions of the same date, described below, which contain many additions, together with a plate. See "Notes and Queries," March 16, 1861, pp. 212-213; "Memoirs of Thomas Hollis," i. 269-271; Wood's "Athenae Oxoniensis," iv. 410.

[SMELT (Leonard).] An Account of some Particulars | which passed at the Meeting | held at York, on Thursday, | the 30th December, 1779. [York? 1780.] 8vo, pp. 30. 82256

This meeting was one of a series held in the English counties to protest against the continuation of the American war, and the policy of the ministry generally; and indeed, it was charged by the government, to organize more than a parliamentary opposition. At this meeting Mr. Smelt spoke against the government and king with great freedom and severity. His speech was at once printed by the enemies of the movement, and Smelt complains in the second edition of this pamphlet that "in the repeated publications of the Speech attributed to him at York, neither the mode of expressing his sentiments, the order in which they were delivered, nor the intended application of them to their object, has been accurately observed. Much has likewise been added, and much left out. Mr. Smelt would have been very happy if he had found reason to impute this, to the common fallibility of memory, and the inaccuracy of notes only; but their general and uniform tendency towards the establishment of conclusions the most unjust, obliges him to withhold such a proof of disinterested candour." This "Account," which is anonymous, contains the speech as he claims to have delivered it, disguised as the remarks of A Freeholder. Title and note contributed by Mr. Paul L. Ford.

"Advertisement. This speech was not taken down in Short-Hand; it is not therefore pretended that it is a faithful Copy of every identical Word that was delivered by Mr. Smelt in every Sentence; but as it was put together from the Notes taken by several Gentlemen present, and as these Notes were put into the hands of the Editor, who can himself boast a tolerably good Memory, and who besides consulted other Persons then present concerning the due Arrangement of its Parts, the Public may rely upon its Authenticity in Point of Argument and of Sentiment, as much as they may on that of any Speech in Parliament that is not immediately published under the Author's own Inspection; and it is presumed that they will accordingly rely upon it till its Inaccuracy shall be proved by another Edition so authenticated. The Petition of the County of York which was the Subject of the Debate in which Mr. Smelt delivered the following Speech, has been so universally adopted throughout the Kingdom, and that every Reader is already acquainted with its contents; for this Reason we forbear to print it here." The speech elicited the following:

J. De Smedt, S. J., pp. 22-34.

SMET. Letters and Sketches, with a Narrative of a Year's Residence among the Indian Tribes of the Rocky Mountains. By P. J. De Smet, S. J. Philadelphia: M. Fithian. 1843. 12mo, pp. 252. 12 Plates, and a folded allegorical leaf. B. 82262

Editions of the above work were also published in Dutch, German, and French, as described below. There is also an edition in Italian, translated by Louis Prevete, Palermo, 1847.

SMET. Lettres choisies du Révérend Père Pierre-Jean de Smet de la Compagnie de Jésus missionnaire aux États-Unis d'Amérique 1849-1857 Troisième édition soigneusement revue et corrigée d'après les manuscrits de l'auteur augmentée d'un portrait et de nouvelles notes Bruxelles Mathieu Closson et Cie Paris H. Repos et Cie 1875 12mo, pp. viii, 405, and printed covers. Portrait. 82263

First printed in the "Collection de précis historiques, par Éd. Terwecoren," for a portion of which see "Voyage au Grand-Désert," infra. Another edition is described under No. 82260, supra.

Also: Lettres choisies ... 2<sup>e</sup> série. Bruxelles. 1876. 12mo.—Lettres choisies ... 3<sup>e</sup> série. Bruxelles. 1877. 12mo.—Lettres choisies ... 4<sup>e</sup> série. Bruxelles. 1878. 12mo. These three titles are from an advertisement.

SMET. Missien van den Orégon en Reizen naer de Rotsbergen en de Bronnen der Colombia, der Athabasca en Sascatshawin, in 1845-46. [Picture.] Door den Pater P. J. de Smet, Van de Societeit van Jesus, uit het fransch door een' kloosterling van

Latrappe. Gent, Boek- en Steendrukkery van W<sup>we</sup>. Vander Schelden. 1849. 12mo, engraved title, pp. (2), vii-423, and printed covers. 3 folded Maps and 15 Plates. 82264

A translation of the next following number. The cover-title reads: Missiën van den Orégon en Reizen naar de Rotsbergen, door Pater P.-J. de Smet, van de Societeit van Jesus. Versierd met 16 Platen en 3 Kaarten. Gent, Huis Heiligen Joseph, Boek-drukkerij van H. Vander Schelden, Onderstraat, 26.

SMET. Missions de l'Orégon et Voyages aux Montagnes Rocheuses aux sources de la Colombie, de l'Athabasca et du Sascatshawin, en 1845-46. [Vignette.] Par le Père P. J. de Smet, de la Société de Jésus. Gand, Impr. & Lith. de V<sup>e</sup>. Vander Schelden, éditeur. [1848.] 12mo, engraved title, pp. (2), ix, 9-389, and printed covers. 3 folded Maps and 15 Plates. 82265

This edition seems to have been prepared by the author himself. It contains more material than the edition in English ("Oregon Missions"), the illustrations are different, and the three maps are entirely new. The following is a different translation:

SMET. Missions de l'Orégon et Voyages dans les Montagnes Rocheuses en 1845 et 1846, par le Père P. J. de Smet, de la Société de Jésus. Ouvrage traduit de l'Anglais, Par M. Bourlez. Paris, Librairie de Poussielgue-Rusand ... A Lyon, chez J. B. Pelagaud et Cie. 1848. 12mo, half-title, engraved title, printed title, pp. ii, 7-408, and printed covers. 13 Plates. 82266

The lithographed plates are identical with those in the New York edition entitled "Oregon Missions," from which this translation seems to have been first made. In the latter part, however, it follows the other French edition published at Ghent.

SMET. New Indian Sketches. By Rev. P. J. de Smet, S. J. New York: D. & J. Sadlier & Co. 1863. 18mo, pp. 175. 2 Plates. + [Ibid.] 1865. 18mo, pp. 175. B. + [Ibid. n. d.] 18mo, pp. 175. 2 Plates. c. + [Ibid. 1877.] 18mo, pp. 175.

This volume contains a vocabulary of the Skalzi or Koetenay language, and "The Short Indian Catechism, in use among the Flatheads, Kalispels, Pends d'Oreilles, and other Rocky Mountain Indians."

Also issued in paper covers with the following outside title: Sadliers' Household Library. No. 91. Price 15 cts. New Indian Sketches. By Rev. P. J. de Smet, S. J. Complete and unabridged edition. New York: D. & J. Sadlier & Co., 31 Barclay St. Montreal: 275 Notre Dame Street. [n. d.]

SMET. Oregon Missions and Travels over the Rocky Mountains, in 1845-46. By Father P. J. de Smet, Of the Society of Jesus. New-York: Edward Dunigan. M DCCC XLVII. 12mo, half-title, engraved title, printed title, pp. (2), xi-408, (4). Map and 13 Plates. 82268

The two unpagged leaves at the end contain the Lord's Prayer, etc., in several Indian languages. Some copies were subsequently issued without the plates.

SMET. Reis naar het Rotsgebergte (Rocky-Mountains), door Eerw. vader De Smet, Belgisch zendeling in de Vereenigde Staten. 1840-1841. Deventer, bij J. W. Robijns en comp. [1844?] 12mo. 82269

SMET. Reisen zu den Felsen-Gebirgen und ein Jahr unter den wilden Indianer-Stämmen des Oregon-Gebietes von P. J. de Smet, S. J. Aus dem Französischen übersetzt von L. Hinssen, Priester. St. Louis, Mo. Druck und Verlag von Franz Saler. 1865. 12mo, pp. iv, 220. c. 82270

A translation of "Voyages aux Montagnes Rocheuses," infra.

SMET. Voyage au Grand-Désert, en 1851, par le R. P. Pierre de Smet, Missionnaire de la Compagnie de Jésus. Bruxelles, Imprimerie de J. Vandereydt. 1853. 2 parts in one vol., 18mo, pp. 36; 71. 82271

The second part has a title similar to the first, with the addition of the words, "Lettres inédites. (Suite.)" On the verso of the titles is the name of the series of which they form a part: "Collection de précis historiques, par Éd. Terwecoren, S. J., Préfet des études au Collège Saint-Michel, à Bruxelles. 2<sup>e</sup> année, 1853. Deux livraisons par mois.—Abonnement 5 francs par an." Father de Smet's letters were continued in this collection. An edition of the "Voyage au Grand-Désert, en 1851," with the same imprint and date as the above, is mentioned in the list of Smet's works as containing 436 pages. It was reprinted in the "Cinquante Nouvelles Lettres," No. 82260, supra.

SMET. Voyages aux Montagnes Rocheuses, et une année de séjour chez les tribus indiennes du vaste territoire de l'Orégon, dépendant des États-Unis d'Amérique, par le R. P. Pierre de Smet, missionnaire de la compagnie de Jésus. Malines. P. J. Hanicq, imprimeur du Saint Siège, de la Sacré Congrégation de la Propagande et de l'Archevêché de Malines. 1844. 12mo, half-title, title, pp. iii-vi, 1-304, and printed covers. Portrait, folded Map, and 19 Plates. 82272

This is the French edition of "Letters and Sketches," No. 82262, supra. It contains material and illustrations not in the American edition, including some specimens of the Indian language. Other editions as follows:

SMET. Voyages aux Montagnes Rocheuses chez les tribus indiennes du vaste territoire de l'Orégon, dépendant des États-Unis d'Amérique. Par le R. P. de Smet. *Lille. L. A later edition as follows:

SMET. Voyages aux Montagnes Rocheuses Chez les tribus indiennes du vaste territoire de l'Orégon dépendant des États-Unis d'Amérique. Par de Smet Huitième édition Librairie de J. Lefort Imprimeur éditeur Lille rue Charles de Muysart, 24 Paris rue des Saints-Pères, 30 [Colophon:] Lille. Typ. J. Lefort. 1887. 8vo, pp. 237, table (1), and printed covers. 82274

SMET. Voyages aux Montagnes Rocheuses et séjour chez les tribus indiennes de l'Orégon (États-Unis) Par le R. P. de Smet ... Nouvelle édition revue et considérablement augmentée Bruxelles Victor Devaux et Cie Paris H. Repos et Cie 1873 12mo, pp. xxxv, 408, and printed covers. Map, Portrait and Plate.

This is another edition of the preceding number. The following is a different work :

SMET. Voyages dans l'Amérique Septentrionale Orégon Par le R. Père P. J. de Smet de la Compagnie de Jésus Troisième édition soigneusement corrigée et augmentée de notes d'un portrait et d'une carte *Bruxelles Mathieu Closson et Cie Paris H. The following list of editions of Adam Smith's work has been prepared mostly by Mr. Paul L. Ford and Mr. Worthington C. Ford, to whom we are also indebted for many of the appended notes.

SMITH. An Inquiry into the Nature and Causes of the Wealth of Nations. | By Adam Smith, LL.D. and F.R.S. | Formerly Professor of Moral Philosophy in the University of Glasgow. | The Second Edition. | London: Printed for W. Strahan, and T. Cadell, in the Strand. | MDCCCLXXVII. | 2 vols., 4to, pp. (8), 510; (6), 589. 82303

In this great corner-stone of political economy, chap. vii. of book iv. treats of colonies under the heads of: 1. Of the Motives for establishing new Colonies; 11. Causes of the prosperity of new Colonies; III. Of the Advantages which Europe has derived from the discovery of America. But this is only a small part of the references to America. Under the head of Commerce is a great mass of information concerning the trade of this country, before the revolution, and a clear and convincing argument against the so-called "Mercantile System" which did so much to prepare the way for that event. Indeed, the latest editor of this work, Prof. J. E. Thorold Rogers, has recorded his opinion that "had Adam Smith's work been printed in the early days of the struggle, his theory of colonial policy would have very much aided in smoothing the differences between the Plantations and Great Britain."

Smith began this book at Kirkcaldy in the latter part of 1766, and in September, 1772, wrote: "My book would have been ready for the press by the beginning of this winter, but interruptions occasioned partly by bad health, arising from want of amusement, and from thinking too much of one thing, and partly by the avocations ... mentioned, will oblige me to retard its publication for a few months longer." It was not, however, printed till late in 1775 (though dated 1776), and Hume's doubt of its not being "at first very popular" was realized, though it was favorably reviewed in the Monthly Review, LIV. 299, 455; LV. 16, 81. In November, 1776, Smith wrote that he had "received 300 pounds of the copy money of the first edition of my book," but from this was to be deducted "a good number of copies" for presents. He was already preparing for a new edition, which he wished made in "four vol. octavo," and he proposed it should be printed at the expense of Strahan, and the profits to be evenly divided between them. The second edition was printed, however, two years later, in the same style as the first, and though corrections and changes occur, the greater part of the new edition is so exactly a facsimile of the first edition, as to make it probable that the printer merely reset the forms in which changes had been made, but otherwise used the "remainder" sheets of the old edition, for the new one. In 1780 the author wrote Strahan: "I had almost forgot I was the author of the inquiry concerning the Wealth of Nations, but sometime ago, I received a letter from a friend in Denmark, telling me that it had been translated into Danish by one Mr. Dreby, secretary to a new erected board of trade and Oeconomy in that Kingdom. My correspondent, Mr. Holt, who is an assessor of that Board, desires, in the name of Mr. Dreby, to know what alterations I propose to make in a second Edition. The shortest answer to this is to send them the second edition. I propose, therefore, by this Post to desire Mr. Cadell to send three copies of the second Edition, handsomely bound and gilt, to Mr. Anker, Consul-General of Denmark, who is an old acquaintance—one for himself, and the other two to be by him transmitted to Mr. Holt and Mr. Dreby. At our final settlement I shall debit myself with these three Books. I suspect I am now almost your only customer for my own book. Let me know, however, how matters go on in this respect." Smith made a very full and careful revision of these two editions, embodying many changes and improvements, which are noticed below, and these corrections were separately printed as:

Additions and Corrections | to the | First and Second Editions | of | Dr. Adam Smith's Inquiry into the Nature and | Causes of the Wealth of Nations. | [London: W. Strahan and T. Cadell. 1784.] 4to, pp. 79.

The work was criticised in:

SMITH. An Inquiry into the Nature and Causes of the Wealth of Nations. By Adam Smith, LL.D. ... The Third Edition, with Additions. In three Volumes. ... London: Printed for W. Straban; and T. Cadell, in the Strand. MDCCLXXXIV. 3 vols., 8vo, pp. viii, 499; vi, 518, (5); v, 465, Index (50). 82304

The Advertisement says: "Through the greater part of the Book ... whenever the present state of things is mentioned, it is to be understood of the state they were in, either about that time, or at some earlier period, during the time I was employed in writing the Book. To this third edition, however, I have made several additions, particularly to the chapter upon Drawbacks, and to that upon Bounties; likewise a new chapter entitled, The Conclusion of the Mercantile System; and a new article upon the expences of the sovereign. In all these additions, the present state of things means always the state in which they were during the year 1783 and the beginning of the present year 1784." This edition also contains an index. It is the last revision Smith made, and all subsequent alterations have been made by his editors. Other editions as follows:

"M. Garnier, in order to facilitate the understanding of his author, has laid down the heads of the work in the order in which he conceives they ought to have been treated; and no doubt, had the course now sketched been followed by Dr. Smith, his book would have been read with more pleasure and interest, and his doctrines would have been more easily apprehended. We are of opinion, therefore, that the arrangement here given, or something on the same plan, might be advantageously prefixed to a future edition of the original."—Monthly Review.

SMITH (James), b. 1737, d. 1812. An Account | of the | Remarkable Occurrences | in the Life and Travels of | Col. James Smith, | (Now a Citizen of Bourbon County, Kentucky,) | during his Captivity with the Indians, | in the years 1755, '56, '57, '58, & '59, | In which the Customs, Manners, Traditions, Theological Sen- | timents, Mode of Warfare, Military Tactics, Discipline and |

Encampments, Treatment of prisoners, &c. are better explained, and more minutely related, than has been heretofore done, by any author on that subject. Together with a Description of the Soil, Timber and Waters, where he travelled with the Indians, during his captivity. To which is added, A Brief Account of some Very Uncommon Occurrences, which transpired after his return from captivity; as well as of the Different Campaigns carried on against the Indians to the westward of Fort Pitt, since the year 1755, to the present date. Written by Himself. Lexington: Printed by John Bradford, on Main Street, 1799. 8vo, pp. 88. NYH. 82763

First edition. On the verso of the title is printed: "Copy right secured according to Act of Congress." After the preface comes the narrative of the captivity, on pp. 5-59; then an account of Smith's life from 1760 to 1788, pp. 59-77; and finally, of the manners and customs of the Indians, pp. 77-88. In 1802, Col. Smith made an agreement with his son James Smith, Jr., by which the latter was to pay the balance due the printer, John Bradford, for printing the "Account", and to take over the remaining copies of the same, then in the printer's hands, together with the copyright. At the same time Col. Smith transferred twenty acres of land to his son, in consideration of which the latter agreed to support his father during the rest of his life. These facts are set forth in a deposition by Abraham Irvin, printed in pp. 17-18 of Smith's "Shakerism Detected."

Perfect copies are also in the Newberry Library (Ayer Collection), and the Henry E. Huntington Library. Reprinted in Loudon's "Indian Narratives", vol. 1, 1808; in Metcalf's "Collection", 1821; in the numerous editions of M'Clung's "Sketches of Western Adventure"; in Drake's "Indian Captivities"; in Pritt's "Incidents of Border Life"; in Wimer's "Events of Indian History"; in the "Western Review", vol. 4; in "American Adventures by Land and Sea"; and in later works. Other editions as follows:

162, printed board covers, repeating the title on front cover, with list of other books on back cover. c. 82764

The Introduction includes a short biographical sketch of Col. Smith's second wife, Mrs. Margaret Irvin, whom he married in 1785, and who died in 1800. Two of her poems are added as specimens of her literary style.

SMITH. An Account | of the | Remarkable Occurrences | in the | Life and Travels | of | Colonel James Smith, | (Late a Citizen of Bourbon County, Kentucky,) | During his Captivity with the Indians, | in the years | 1755, '56, '57, '58 & '59, | in which | The Customs, Manners, Traditions, Theological Sentiments, Mode of | Warfare, Military Tactics, Discipline and Encampments, Treatment | of Prisoners, &c. are better explained, and more minutely related, than | has been heretofore done, by any Author on that subject. Together | with a Description of the Soil, Timber and Waters, where he travelled | with the Indians during his Captivity. | To which is added, | A Brief Account of some very uncommon Occurrences, which transpired | after his return from Captivity; as well as of the different Campaigns | carried on against the Indians to the westward of Fort Pitt, since the | Year 1755, to the present date, 1799. | Written by Himself. | Philadelphia: | Grigg & Elliot, 9 North Fourth Street. | 1834. | 18mo, pp. 162, printed board covers, with title repeated on front cover, and with list of other books on back cover. c. 82765

SMITH. An Account of the Remarkable Occurrences in the Life and Travels of Col. James Smith, during his Captivity with the Indians, in the years 1755, '56, '57, '58, & '59. With An Appendix of Illustrative Notes. By Wm. M. Darlington, of Pittsburgh. Cincinnati: Robert Clarke & Co., 1870. 8vo, pp. xii, 190. B., C., NYP. 82766

With half-title: "Ohio Valley Historical Series. Number Five. Smith's Captivity with the Indians." Besides Mr. Darlington's notes, it contains a good index, and there is prefixed a biographical and bibliographical account written by Mr. Robert Clarke. Fifty copies were also printed on large paper, in Royal Octavo.

SMITH. Life of Colonel James Smith, of Kentucky, and his Captivity among the Indians, from 1755 to 1759; Containing, also, One of the Best Accounts of Braddock's Defeat. Written by Himself. Philadelphia. 1838. 18mo. 82767

Title from James Kelly's "American Catalogue", vol. 2, p. 386; it also appears in a New York auction catalogue, Oct. 15, 1857, and in a bookseller's catalogue of about 1870.

SMITH. Remarkable Occurrences, | Lately discovered among the Peo- | ple called Shakers; of a | Treasonous and barbar- | ous nature, | or Shakerism Developed. | By | James Smith. | [Seven lines quotation from Isaiah.] | Paris, (Ky.) Printed by Joel R. Lyle. | [1810.] 18mo, pp. 24. NYP. 82768

For a note about the experience of Colonel Smith with the Shakers, as given in this pamphlet, see Thomson's "Bibliography of Ohio", No. 1059. It brought out a reply by Richard M'Nemar, in the "Western Star" of Lebanon, Ohio, of July 6, 1810, in reply to which, and other attacks, Smith published a second pamphlet, entitled "Shakerism Detected", as described below.

SMITH. Remarkable Occurrences lately Discovered among the People Called Shakers, of a Treasonous and Barbarous Nature; or, Shakerism Developed. By James Smith. Carthage, (Ten.) Printed by William Moore, 1810. 8vo, pp. 22. WRHS. 82769

Title furnished by Mr. W. H. Cathcart, Director of the Western Reserve Historical Society, Cleveland, Ohio. See Rusk's "Literature of the Middle Western Frontier," vol. 2, p. 262.

SMITH. Remarkable Occurrences | lately discovered among the people called | Shakers, | of a | Treasonous & Barbarous Nature; | or, | Shakerism Developed. | By James Smith. | [Five lines quotation from Isaiah.] | Abington, (Vir.) | Printed by John G. Us-tick. | 1811. | 8vo, pp. 23. NYH. 82770A

SMITH. Shakerism Detected, | their erroneous and treasonous proceedings, | and false publications, | contained in different newspapers, | Exposed to Public View, | by the depositions of ten different persons | living in various parts of the states of | Kentucky and Ohio, | accompanied with remarks. | By Col. James Smith of Kentucky. | Paris Kentucky. | Printed by | Joel R. Lyle. | 1810. | 8vo, pp. 44. NYP., C. 82770B

Two copies of the above were sold by the Anderson Auction Company, on January 11, 1904, Nos. 355 and 356 of the catalogue. A copy is also mentioned by Mr. Robert Clarke, as being in the possession of Rev. Joel K. Lyle, of Lexington, Ky. The copyright notice on the last page is dated November 21, 1810. In this pamphlet Smith replies to Richard M'Nemar's newspaper attacks, and presents a number of depositions relating to the treatment of his daughter-in-law by the Shakers. Pages 18-27 contain an account of the Indian war on the frontiers of Pennsylvania in 1763, 1764, and 1765, with a justification of his action in the Sideling-hill expedition of March, 1765, on which occasion seventy horse loads of warlike and other goods intended for the Indians were burned. He also prints two ballads that were composed and frequently sung at that time, in one of which, entitled "On Liberty", are the following lines:

"In the province of New-York there's good fellows I do hear,
That act like bold heroes, and strangers to fear,
The Governor's effigy and coach they did burn,
For offering to make slaves of those that are free-born."

The remainder of the pamphlet, pp. 27-43, contains a number of affidavits setting forth the dealings of the Shakers with the Shawnee Indians, in which Smith accuses them of using artful measures to excite the Indians to fall on the defenceless frontiers. See also Thomson's "Bibliography of Ohio", no. 1060.

This elicited a reply by Richard M'Nemar, published at Lebanon, Ohio, in 1811, probably in the "Western Star," and separately as follows: "Shakerism Detected, &c." Examined & Refuted, In Five Propositions. By R. M'Nemar. . . . Lexington, Printed by Thomas Smith, Main Street, 1811. 8vo, pp. 10, (1). WRHS. Dated Warren County, Ohio, April 6, 1811, with P. S., Lexington, K., April 20, 1811. Information furnished by Mr. W. H. Cathcart. Another edition of the reply was published in Water[v]liet, (Ohio) May 8, 1833. 12mo, pp. 12 and printed covers.

SMITH. A Treatise, | on the Mode and Manner of Indian War, | their Tactics, Discipline and Encampments, | the various Methods they practise, in | order to obtain the Advantage, by | Ambush, Surprise, Surrounding, &c. | Ways and Means proposed to Prevent the | Indians from obtaining the Advantage. | A Chart, or Plan of Marching, and Encamping, laid down, | whereby we may undoubtedly Surround | them, if we have Men sufficient. | Also—A Brief Account of Twen-| ty-three Campaigns, carried on | against the Indians with | the Events, since the | year 1755; Gov. Harri- | son's included. | By Col. James Smith. | Likewise—Some Abstracts selected from his | Journal, while in Captivity with the In- | dians, relative to the Wars: which | was published many years ago, but | few of them now to be found. | Paris | Kentucky, | Printed by Joel R. Lyle. | 1812. | 8vo, pp. (2), 2-59, the even numbers on the recto. 82771

The above description is from the original in the Ayer collection at the Newberry Library, of which there is a photostat reproduction in the New York Public Library. According to Prof. R. L. Rusk's "Literature of the Middle Western Frontier," there are also copies of the original in the libraries of the University of Chicago, and Wisconsin Historical Society. Much of the material in this work is found word for word in the account of Smith's captivity, but the part "On Indian Treaties," pp. 52-59 is entirely new. The purpose of the book was to give the country the value of his experience, in connection with the use of Indians as allies by the British in the War of 1812.

S[SMITH]. The Mirror of Merit and Beauty: Fifty Female Sketches, drawn from nature. . . . By a Friend to the Fair. I. S. M.D. New-York: Printed for the Author, By D. & G. Bruce. 1808. 12mo, pp. 79, (1). H., NYP. 82774

The sketches are addressed to fifty prominent young ladies, most of whom frequented Ballston Spa, New York, and whose names are concealed by asterisms. In the New York Public Library copy the majority of these names have been filled out in pencil by Theodorus Bailey Myers. The volume also contains a poem on Niagara Falls. For an allusion to Smith's long service as romantic poet to the "Fair" of New York, and to his other idiosyncrasies, see Dr. Francis's "Old New York," pp. 201-202.

[SMITH.] To Those who have Sworn to support the Constitution; maintain Public Justice; protect Private Right; and bring to justice every Offender against the Majesty of the Law, the Peace of the People, and their Dignity; these few lines are addressed. New-York: Printed for the Author. 1805. 8vo, pp. 7. C., NYH. 82775

Signed James Smith, M.D. Written in sympathy with J. A. Graham's attack on Senator Bradley of Vermont, in his "An Address to the Public," our no. 28228, vol. 7. Dr. Smith was the brother of William Smith, the historian of New York. See Thacher's "American Medical Biography," vol. 2, p. 95.

SMITH (James). James Smith's Vindication, for resisting the ecclesiastical power and authority of their epis[c]opal dignity, Michael Ellis & David Young: to which is added, a short sketch On the Government of God in the Churc[h] and a few Thoughts on Infant Justification; also, the doctrine of Christian Perfection and Sanctification impartially examined. Clinton, (Ohio.) Printed by Smith & M'Arde. 1814. 8vo, pp. 62, (1). NYH. 82776

Relates to his trial and expulsion from the Methodist Church and of his forming with his sympathizers a religious society; also criticises the doctrine and government of the church. See Journal of the Ohio Conference, 1813, as printed in Sweet's "Circuit-Rider Days along the Ohio," p. 117, for the record of his exclusion.

The Select Committee, charged with the memorial of Dr. James Smith, and his letter of December 19, 1825, addressed to the Speaker of the House of Representatives, respectfully report: [Washington, 1827.] 8vo, pp. 7. House Report 95. 19th Cong. 2nd Sess. Exonerates Smith in the case above mentioned, including also a letter of Smith, December 19, 1825, and his sworn statement of the case.

For a biographical sketch and list of Smith's writings, including newspaper and periodical articles, see Quinan's "Medical Annals of Baltimore," pp. 155-156. See also an article by Quinan in the "Maryland Medical Journal," vol. 10, 1883, pp. 118-119, 129-133; also Kelly's "American Medical Biographies"; and Cordell's "Medical Annals of Baltimore." Smith was one of the first to introduce vaccination into Baltimore in 1801, was State Vaccination Agent of Maryland, 1809-1832, U. S. Vaccine Agent, 1813-1822. He was also one of the group of physicians who published "The Vaccine Inquirer," a collection of material relative to vaccination in six numbers, Baltimore, 1822-1824, and was its editor in 1822.

SMITH (Rev. James), Editor. The Cumberland Presbyterian Pulpit. A Series of Original Sermons. By Clergymen of the Cumberland Presbyterian Church. . . . Volume I. Nashville, T. Published by Rev. James Smith. 1833. 8vo, pp. (4), 196.

[SMITH?]. Miscellaneous Thoughts, on several subjects of Divinity, so much controverted in the world: with a Brief Historical Sketch of the rise of the Cumberland Presbyterian Church, and of its progress to the present day. Princeton, Ky. Office of the Religious and Literary Intelligencer. A. Brock, Printer. 1832. 8vo, pp. 80. NYP. 82783

During 1832 Smith became associated with Lowry, the owner of the press of the "Religious and Literary Intelligencer," in editing the "Revivalist," its successor as church organ, at Nashville, Tenn. This and his interest in church history suggests a connection with the above title. For a sketch and criticism of some of Smith's activities in the church, including his editorship of the "Revivalist" and the "Cumberland Presbyterian," its successor, from 1832 to 1840, see McDonnold's "History of the Cumberland Presbyterian Church," pp. 230-240.

SMITH. (Indian Wars of America.) A Condensed Historical Examination of the Wars of the Indians, in past and present times, within the boundaries of the United States. With an Appendix, embracing the researches of antiquarians in relation to the first inhabitants of America. Designed for Youth. By Jerome V. C. Smith, M.D. Boston: Published by George Clarke. 1840. 8vo, pp. 304. NYP. 82808

Contents: Discovery by Columbus, pp. 3-11; the Conquest of Mexico, pp. 11-23; the Conquest of Peru, pp. 23-34; the Natches, pp. 34-36; Landing of our Forefathers, pp. 37-45; Indian Wars, in twenty-eight chapters, pp. 47-210; Antiquarian Researches (on American Antiquities), pp. 211-304.

This book by Dr. Smith is uncommonly rare, and at the same time somewhat of a bibliographical puzzle, on account of its connection with the new edition of Henry Trumbull's "History of the Discovery of America," issued by the same publisher, George Clark (not Clarke), in the same year. Both works have the same copyright notice dated 1840, the same number of pages, are printed with the same kind of type, on the same rough white paper with sand in it, and in part have the same running page-heading, "Indian Wars." In both of them pages 3-45 are from the same stereotype plates, including the same typographical errors; and the two chapters about the Black Hawk war on pp. 196-210 of Smith's book are word for word the same as chap. 16, pp. 274-289 of Trumbull's book. In other respects they differ, Smith's history being more "condensed." These resemblances may be accounted for by assuming that Dr. Smith was the man who revised the 1840 edition of Trumbull, the revisions of which consisted in rewriting and enlarging the first two chapters to make the introductory pages 3-45, in abridging and running together several of the later chapters, and in adding four new chapters, including the sketch of the Black Hawk war. He would thus be using some of his own material in his own book.

Collation: 4 preliminary leaves, comprising the title, verso blank, the first address "To all the Right Honorable And most Generous Lords in England," etc., signed John Smith, in two pages, and the address "To the Reader," etc., signed John Smith, in three pages, verso blank; the text, pp. 1-19, 24-42 ending with a short list of Errata, and a blank leaf. A-F in fours. There are no pages 20-23, the reverse of page 19 being marked 24.

The title was entered for publication at Stationers' Hall, October 23, 1626. The first address, as in the above collation, is found in two copies in the British Museum, and also in the issue of 1627 described below. Mr. Arber follows this form in his reprint of Captain John Smith's "Works," pp. 785-804. In the John Carter Brown copy, however, the address is differently inscribed "To the Right VVorshipfull Sir Robert Heath, Knight," etc., and lines 8-13 on the verso of the leaf are different, otherwise it is from the same setting of type. It was Smith's custom to present copies of his books to different noblemen and Companies, sometimes with a special address in manuscript or print, as in this case, and especially in that of the "New England Trials."

Reissued with change of title date as follows:

NYP. 82813

This is merely a reissue of the preceding, with which it agrees in collation, the sheets and even the title, except for the change of date, being from the same setting of type. An enlarged edition of this work was printed in the same year (1627) under the title "A Sea Grammar," which is described further on. Another edition as follows:

Collation: 5 preliminary leaves comprising the title, verso blank, the dedication "To the Right Honourable, Algernon, Lord Percy, Earle of Northumberland, Baron Lucy, Poynings, Fitz-Paine, and Brain, Lord Admirall of his Majesties Navy" etc., in two leaves, contents in two leaves, verso of second one blank; text, pp. 1-62. A in six (A 1 blank?), B-D in eights, and E in seven.

This is a reprint, in smaller size, of the edition of 1626, omitting the author's name, the dedication, and the address "To the Reader," and adding a new dedication signed "B. F.," perhaps Benjamin Fisher, the publisher, and a table of contents. In the British Museum Catalogue it is entered under "Accidence." For other editions see "A Sea Grammar," 1627, and "The Sea-mans Grammar," 1653, 1691, 1692, 1699, infra.

 (8), 40. Map of New England. JCB. 82815

Collation: 4 preliminary leaves, comprising the title with the Arms of the Council for New England on the verso, the dedication to the Archbishops of Canterbury and York in two pages, "To the Reader," etc., with a poem entitled "The Sea Marke" on the verso, and the contents in two pages; text, pp. 1-40. A-F in fours.

The book was written not later than October, 1630, as appears from a statement on page 30. There is no record of its entry for publication at Stationers' Hall.

The map which goes with this book was engraved originally for Smith's "Description of New England," in 1616, and was used also in the several issues of his "Generall Historie" from 1624 to 1632. It was revised from time to time by the addition of new place-names on the engraved plate. Nine different states or varieties are described in the notes to the "Description of New England" and the "Generall Historie," infra. The seventh state, found in the John Carter Brown and Henry E. Huntington copies of the "Advertisements," is the one which best fits the book, having been used first in some copies of the 1627 issue of the "Generall Historie," and later in the 1631 issue. This may be distinguished from the earlier states by the alteration of the word "Prince" to "nowe King," in the last line of the inscription near the top, and by the absence of the large coat of arms in the center, which was first added in the eighth state. Earlier and later states may also have been issued with the book, as the sixth state in the William L. Clements and Chapin Library copies and the eighth state in the Newberry Library (Ayer) copy and also in the Charles Deane copy sold in 1898.

Two copies of the book have been found with a portrait of King Charles as a frontispiece, dated 1631. One of these, in its original stitching and rough paper wrapper, the edges entirely untrimmed, but without map, came from a sale at Hodgson's in London, June 10, 1921, and passed through the hands of Mr. Lathrop C. Harper, who added a map, into Mr. Preston Davie's collection. The other was sold at Sotheby's in May, 1903, in a volume with five other tracts, the present location being unknown. The portrait represents the king standing, crowned and armored, with a truncheon in his right hand, the Royal Arms in the upper right-hand corner. The engraver's name is not on it, the only inscription reading, Are to bee Sould by Ihon Stafford in | blacke horse Ally near fleet bridge 1631. On the back of the leaf is written, in contemporary hand, "To his loveing friend Mr. Richard." John Stafford does not appear as an independent publisher of books until 1637, but on the 6th of April, 1635, a set of plates cut on copper were entered for him (Arber, vol. 4, p. 335). A portrait of the Prince of Orange, 1631, Ihon Stafford Excudit, is described in Sayle's Cambridge catalogue, no. 7650, vol. 3, pp. 1707-1708.

The book was reprinted in Mass. Hist. Soc. "Collections," third series, vol. 3 (1833), pp. 1-53, with a fac-simile of the second state of the map by "Pendleton's Lithography, Boston, Drawn by J. Eddy," which omitted the figures of ships and the whale's head. A separately bound copy, pp. 53 and map, was in the sale of Gabriel Furman's library, New York, 1846, and is now in the New York Public Library. Other reprints are in Arber's editions of Smith's "Works," pp. 917-966; and in Levermore's "Forerunners and Competitors of the Pilgrims and Puritans," 1912, vol. 2, pp. 754-806, with a fac-simile of the eighth state of the map. Another edition as follows:

SMITH. Advertisements for the Unexperienced Planters Of New England, or Anywhere; or, The Pathway to erect a Plantation. By Captain John Smith, "sometimes Governour of Virginia, and Admirall of New-England." With a Fac-simile of Smith's Map of New England, with Additions and Corrections as published in 1635. Boston: William Veazie. MDCCCLXV. 4to, pp. viii, 72. Folded Map. 82816

Two hundred and fifty copies were printed in small quarto, seventy-five copies in medium quarto (10 by  $7\frac{3}{8}$  inches on the leaf), and twenty-five copies in large quarto. In addition there were some printed on India paper of which the Deane sale contained "No. 1 of only 6 copies printed." The publisher in his preface acknowledges his indebtedness to Mr. Charles Deane for "valuable historical information." The map was altered from the fac-simile of the first state originally engraved by C. A. Swett to accompany Veazie's reprint of the "Description of New England," in 1865, and made to conform nearly with the ninth state, as published in Hondy's "Historia Mundi," 1635.

Included in vol. 1 of Pieter vander Aa's "Wijd-Beroemde Voyagien . . . gedaan door de Engelsen," which is part of a rearrangement of the "Naukeurige Versameling," grouped by nationality, printed in 1706 and 1707, in 8 volumes. There is a reissue of the whole collection with a general title dated 1727. This edition of the "Avontuurlijke Reys-togten" was printed from the same setting of type as the octavo, rearranged to make two columns to a page, the columns numbered 1-44, beside the title leaf and the Register in two leaves. In the octavo edition the plates are marked 1, 2 and 3; in the folio the numerals are erased from the copper-plates, leaving faint traces. The map is printed on the same sheet with one of the other maps in another part of the volume.

(2). Map of New England. B. 82819

Collation: 8 preliminary leaves comprising the title, verso blank, the dedication to Prince Charles on one leaf, "To the Right Honourable and worthy Lords, Knights, & Gentlemen" on one leaf, an address "To the right VVorshipfull Aduenturers for the Countrey of New England" in three pages, followed by seven pages of verses; the text, pp. 1-61, ending with the colophon, and on the verso a poem by Ed. Robinson, one leaf of verses "To my honest Capitaine, the Author" by Tho. Carlton, verso blank. ¶ and A-I in fours.

Some copies have a separate leaf, verso blank, inserted at the front, with the following heading:

"Because the Booke was printed ere | the Prince his Highnesse had altered the names, | I intreate the Reader, peruse this sche- | dule; which will plainly shew | him the correspondence of | the old names to the | new."

Below the heading is a list in parallel columns of thirty old names as printed in the book, and thirty-two new names as engraved on the map. This leaf is in the Prince copy at the Boston Public Library; in the King copy at the New York Historical Society; in Mr. Preston Davie's copy, formerly in the Brinley sale, no. 359, in 1879; in Mr. Adrian Van Sinderen's copy, formerly A. T. White's, from the Brinley sale, no. 360, in 1879; in the Huntington Library copy, formerly E. D. Church's, from the Gell sale in London, February, 1904; and in the William L. Clements Library copy, formerly Huntington, from the Christie-Miller sale in London, August, 1916. A few fac-similes of this leaf, from the Prince copy, including a line in Prince's handwriting in the first column, were made for Mr. Charles Deane in 1874; and four others from the Brinley-White copy, now Mr. Van Sinderen's, for Dodd, Mead and Company in 1904. The latter have the word FACSIMILE printed on the lower margin. Both fac-similes are in the New York Public Library.

The book was entered for publication at Stationers' Hall, on the 3d of June, 1616.

Nine states of the New England map are known, of which only the first two properly belong to this book. The others are described under the "Generall Historie."

First state, without the date 1614 under the Scale of Leagues. There are forty-eight names along the coast, of which twenty-six are on the land and twenty-two on the sea. The new names which were subsequently added and other alterations made between 1616 and 1635 amount to about forty-two. On the lower margin are the inscriptions, Simon Pasæus sculpsit. Robert Clerke excudit, and London Printed by Geor: Low. The Thomas Prince copy in the Boston Public Library has this state, and an original impression is inserted loosely in the New York Public Library copy. It was also in the Christie-Miller copy, from which it was transferred to the Church copy in the Huntington Library. Separate impressions are also owned by the William L. Clements Library and by Mr. I. N. Phelps Stokes of New York. A fac-simile of this state, engraved by C. A. Swett of Boston, accompanies Veazie's reprint, 1865. The map of New England which is in the German translation of the book published by Levinus Hulsius in 1617, was evidently copied from this state, with which it closely agrees, except that the names of the engraver, printer and publisher are omitted and that the long inscriptions are in German.

Second state, with the date 1614, but without Smith's Arms, has two names added, P Travers and Gerrards Ils, near the N. E. corner, and is in the Harvard College copy. It is found also in some copies of the "Generall Historie." A fac-simile is in Winsor, vol. 3, page 198.

Later states are found in the made up copies. The New York Public Library copy, for instance, contains the third state, with Smith's Arms but without the motto, yet the old fold marks show that it was formerly in a folio volume. The John Carter Brown copy has the fourth state, with the addition of the motto "Vincere est Viuere," printed on thick paper, which for that reason must have belonged originally in a large paper copy of the "Generall Historie" of 1624.

The Bridgewater copy of the book, now in the Huntington Library, has a specially-printed title substituted for the ordinary one, containing the presentation inscription, "For the Right Honourable the | Lord Elesmore Lord High | Chancelor of England." To make room for the inscription, the title was lowered by leaving out the vignette ornament and one of the line dashes above the imprint. On the inside of the cover are the words "My L. Chanseler," written in a contemporary hand, apparently not Smith's. The reference is to Sir Thomas Egerton, Baron Ellesmere and Viscount Brackley (1540?-1617), whose library was the beginning of the Bridgewater House collection. See Collier's "Bibliographical and Critical Account of the Rarest Books in the English Language," 1865, vol. 2, p. 354.

The book was reprinted in Mass. Hist. Soc. "Collections," third series, vol. 6 (1837), pp. 95-140. A reprint was also planned for Mr. Henry Stevens's proposed "Hercules Club," about the year 1877, but Mr. Henry N. Stevens, in a letter dated July 30, 1926, states that it was never completed and still remains unpublished. Another reprint appeared in Arber's editions of Smith's "Works," including the list of old and new names. Partly reprinted in the "Old South Leaflets," no. 121, Boston, 1901.

Translations into Latin and German are included in part 10 of De Bry's "Great Voyages," Oppenheim, 1619, 1618 (see our vol. 3, pp. 43-44, 56-57); and another German translation forms the fourteenth part of Hulsius's "Collection," Franckfurt, 1617 and 1628 (see our vol. 8, no. 33667).

SMITH. Two hundred and fifty copies printed small quarto, seventy-five copies medium quarto (10 by 7 $\frac{3}{8}$  inches), and twenty-five copies large quarto. The publisher expresses his "acknowledgements to Mr. Deane for the bibliographical and historical information" contained in the prefatory note. The map is a fac-simile, engraved on copper by Mr. C. A. Swett, of the first state in the Prince copy of the original edition, now in the Boston Public Library.

In Pieter vander Aa's "Naaukeurige Versameling der gedenk-waardigste Zee en Land-Reysen," vol. 23, 1707, and sometimes found as a separate. An abridged translation from the first three books of the "Generall Historie." Reprinted in folio as "Scheeps-togt van Johan Smith na Virginia," infra.

The only known copy of this prospectus of Smith's "Generall Historie" is in the Library of the Society of Antiquaries, London, and is listed in Robert Lemon's catalogue of the printed broadsides belonging to the Society, published in 1866, p. 61, no. 209. A photograph is in the New York Public Library. The title heading as given above is surmounted by a row of type ornaments, and below it is a list of the proposed contents, in double columns of smaller type, extending to the bottom of the third page. At the top of the fourth page the prospectus concludes with an appeal for financial help to help defray the cost of printing, in the following words:

"These observations are all I haue for the expences of a thousand pound, and the losse of eighteene yeeres of time, besides all the trauels, dangers, miseries & incumbrances for my countries good, I haue endured gratis: and had I not discouered and liued in the most of these parts, I could not possibly haue collected the substantiall truth from such an infinite number of variable Relations, that would make a volume of at least a thousand sheetes: and this is composed in lesse then eighty sheets, besides the three Maps, which will stand me neere in an hundred pounds, which summe I cannot disburse: nor shall the Stationers haue the copy for nothing. Therefore I humbly entreat your Honour, either to aduventure, or giue me what you please towards the impression, and I will be both accountable, & thankfull; not doubting but that the Story will giue you satisfaction, and stirre vp a double new life in the Aduentur-ers, when they shall see plainly the causes of all those defeilements, and how they may be amended. And so I humbly rest." Mr. Charles Deane called attention to this prospectus in 1867, in the Mass. Hist. Soc. "Proceedings," vol. 9, p. 454; and it is described in Arber's introduction to his editions of Smith's "Works," p. cxxvi; and by Luther S. Livingston in his fac-simile reproduction mentioned below. After a careful comparison of the typography of both works, Mr. Livingston decided that John Dawson was the printer of the prospectus, as well as of the first three books of the "Generall Historie." The fac-simile has the following title:

Captain John Smith's Circular or Prospectus of his Generall Historie of Virginia, New-England, and the Summer Isles. Reproduced from the only known copy in the collection of the Society of Antiquaries, London. With Notes. Cambridge: Privately Printed. 1914. Folio, (6) leaves, and blue printed paper cover. The preliminary blank leaf and the title are followed by a process fac-simile of the original in four pages, after which come three pages of notes by Mr. Livingston relating chiefly to differences between the plan as proposed and as finally carried out in the book, and to certain typographical characteristics leading to the identification of the printers of both works.

The "Generall Historie," as announced in the prospectus of 1623, made its appearance in 1624, having been entered in the Stationers' Register by Michael Sparkes under the date of July 12th of that year. Evidently Smith's appeal quoted above met with a generous response from the Duchess of Richmond and Lenox, to whom the "Epistle Dedicatory" is addressed, in which he alludes to her "Gratious hand, which hath given birth to the publication of this Narration." The book is partly a compilation of the author's four earlier works, the "True Relation" of 1608, the "Map of Virginia" of 1612, the "Description of New England" of 1616, and "New Englands Trials" of 1620-22, and also, as he says, of "an infinite number of variable Relations." Arber, in his editions of Smith's "Works," gives at the beginning of each book of the "Generall Historie" a list of narratives used in its preparation. The edition must have been large, as the same printed sheets were used in the eight issues of the book published between 1624 and 1632. A careful examination, and page by page comparison, of eleven copies of the different issues in the New York Public Library, shows that all the sheets of the ordinary size were printed at one time, and the sheets of the large paper size last of all, there being only slight typographical corrections and rearrangements made during the progress of printing. For example in the earliest impressions the word "their," in the last line on p. 90, is printed "thir"; on p. 93 the marginal note,—"The causes why Smith left the country and his commission," is wrongly placed opposite the second paragraph instead of the first; and on p. 119, in the third marginal note, the word "digression" is spelled "degression." That all of the sheets of the various issues were completed at one printing is shown by the fact that while these errors are found in some copies with the later title dates, they with others appear corrected in the large paper copy, which, therefore, must have been printed last.

The different issues were first described in detail by Mr. James Lenox in an article entitled "Curiosities of 'American' Literature, No. 1, Smith's General History of Virginia, New England, and the Summer Isles," printed in "Norton's Literary Gazette," new series, vol. 1, pp. 134-135 (March 15, 1854), and in a supplementary article No. 2, printed in the same periodical, vol. 1, pp. 218-219 (May 1, 1854), incorporating some information supplied by Mr. Charles Deane. These two articles were also printed separately, on blue writing paper, three leaves quarto, printed on one side only. Mr. Lenox noticed five states of the engraved title, two of the Old Virginia plate, four of the Virginia map, one of the Summer Is. plate, nine of the New England map, and two editions each of the portraits of the Duchess of Richmond and Lenox and of Pocahontas. Mr. Lenox obtained subsequently other states of some of the maps. Mr. Justin Winsor, in the "Memorial History of Boston," vol. 1, 1880, pp. 52-56, reprinted Mr. Lenox's account of the New England map, with some additional remarks, and described ten states of the plate, but his numbers VII. and VIII. are really one and the same, the mistake arising from Mr. Lenox's failure to mention that the name Martins Ile was first added on number VII. Mr. Winsor's list was reprinted on pp. cxxxiv-cxxxv of Arber's editions of Smith's "Works." In Henry Stevens's "Recollections of Mr. James Lenox," 1886, page 159, is a statement that he was able "to raise the number of issues of the New England map to eleven."

DIFFERENT ISSUES.

1. The engraved title of 1624 with portrait of Charles as Prince.
  2. The large paper copies with engraved title of 1624.
  3. The type-printed title of 1625, preceded by the engraved title of 1624.
  4. The engraved title of 1626 with portrait of Charles as King.
  5. The engraved title of 1627.
  6. The engraved title of 1631.
  7. The earlier engraved title of 1632 with altered imprint.
  8. The later engraved title of 1632 with portrait of King Charles re-engraved.
- Fuller descriptions of the titles are given under each issue.

ERRATA.

A slip of Errata in six lines beside the heading is found in a few copies, sometimes pasted at the foot of page 248, as in the "I. S." copy of 1624 in the New York Public Library. It is also in the Library of Congress and William L. Clements Library copies of the same date; in the Huntington Library copy of the 1625 issue; in the John Carter Brown Library copy of the 1626 issue; in the Menzies-Ives copy of the 1627 issue, now owned by Mr. Grenville Kane; and in some others.

DESCRIPTION OF THE MAPS.

Of the four maps which should be inserted at pages 21, 41, 169 and 203, viz.: Old Virginia, Virginia, Summer IIs., and New England, the first and third were engraved especially for this work; the other two had been engraved originally to accompany, respectively, Smith's two earlier works, entitled "A Map of Virginia," 1612, and "A Description of New England," 1616. That they were also circulated separately is indicated by the following statement in the "Generall Historie," p. 230, when Smith in referring to his "New Englands Trials" says: "I caused two or three thousand of them to be printed, one thousand with a great many Maps both of Virginia and New-England, I presented to thirty of the chiefe Companies in London." A comparison of different copies of these maps shows a number of variations, chiefly in the addition of new names or the alteration of old ones. Four states of the Old Virginia map have been distinguished, ten of the Virginia, three of the Summer IIs., and nine of the New England. It is possible that some of these changes may have been made on the copper plates before all of the earlier impressions had been inserted in the books, which would account for the appearance in some of the later issues of the book of earlier states of the maps than were appropriate to the issue.

I. OLD VIRGINIA, ETC.

First state, before any figures of trees were put on the map. The engraving is in ten compartments, nine of which are pictures of Indian life and adventures. The tenth compartment is a small map of OLD VIRGINIA, occupying the lower part of the plate, and showing the coast from C Henry, near where the other map of Virginia stopped, southward to C feare. This map is based upon that of De Bry in Hariot's "Virginia," 1590. In this first state it contains only thirty-seven place-names. Smith's two coats-of-arms, similar to those on the title-page, are at the bottom of the map, which was engraved by Robert Vaughan. This state of the plate belongs to the earliest published copies of the 1624 issue, and is found in two copies of that date in contemporary binding, the Willoughby de Broke copy owned by Mr. Grenville Kane, and the Calthorpe copy in the Chapin Library. It is inserted in Mr. William M. Elkins's copy of the same issue, and is also found in two copies of the 1626 issue, one of them being in the library of the Massachusetts Historical Society, and the other belonging to Mr. Kane, both in modern binding. A photostat from the former is in the New York Public Library.

Second state, with twenty-seven figures of trees added, but before the name of James Reeve as printer was inserted. There are also twenty-five new place-names, beginning at the top with Mountaynes forest. Impressions of this state were printed on thick paper for use in the large paper issue. One on ordinary paper, mounted on linen, is in the R. L. Stuart copy of the 1626 issue, in the New York Public Library. A process fac-simile of this state is in the edition printed at Glasgow in 1907.

Third state, with the inscription printed by James Reeve, but before the addition of the name Adams Sound above C Henry. Two new place-names are added, Davers Ile and P Barkley. This state is found in four copies of the 1624 issue in contemporary binding, the William L. Clements Library copy, Mr. Grenville Kane's Huth copy, and two belonging to Mr. Preston Davie and Dr. Rosenbach. It is also in the two copies described with the 1625 title, in contemporary binding, and in two of the 1626 issue, in old binding, one in Yale University Library, and the other the Covert copy owned by Mr. Davie. An impression is also in the Thomas Penn copy of the 1624 issue, in modern binding, in the New York Public Library.

Fourth state, with the addition of the name Adams Sound, just above C Henry. This state is found in one copy of the 1626 issue, the Church-Huntington in modern binding, but is more appropriate for the 1627 issue as in the Prince copy in the Boston Public Library, the "Charles I." copy in the John Carter Brown Library, and Mr. Arents's copy, all in contemporary binding, and in two copies in the New York Public Library. It is also the proper state to accompany the 1631 and 1632 issues. This state of the map is reproduced in fac-simile in Arber's edition of Smith's "Works."

2. VIRGINIA.

First state, without Smith's Arms and without the dates 1607 and 1606. This state belongs to Smith's book "A Map of Virginia," 1612, which see for description.

Second state, with the dates 1607 and 1606, but without Smith's Arms. Concerning this see under Smith's book "A Map of Virginia," 1612.

Third state, with the addition of Smith's Arms, but without the motto and with no new place-names. This state is found in Mr. Grenville Kane's Willoughby de Broke copy of the 1624 issue of the "Generall Historie," in contemporary binding. It is in one of the New York Public Library copies of the 1627 issue, in modern binding.

Fourth state, with the addition of the motto "Vincere est Vivere" under Smith's Arms, but before the insertion of Tauerners roade above Chesapeake Bay. The degree marks and figures of latitude on the top or western border, and of longitude on the two side borders, appear first in this state. This variation was first observed by Mr. Lathrop C. Harper in 1918, in the Huth copy of Smith's "Map of Virginia," 1612, bound in red morocco by F. Bedford for H. Stevens, now in the Chapin Library, Williamstown, Mass. The map has been repaired and mounted on linen, but the old fold marks for a folio volume still show, thus indicating that it must have been taken from an early issue of Smith's "Generall Historie" of 1624. There is a photostat of this state in the New York Public Library.

Fifth state, with the addition of four new place-names around Chesapeake Bay: Tauerners roade, Winstons Iles, Brookes Forest, and Gunters Harbour, but before the insertion of Sparkes content, Democrites tree, and Burtions Mount, in the upper part near the Royal Arms. The date of this state is determined approximately by the fact that impressions were printed on thick paper to accompany the large paper issue. One on ordinary paper is in Mr. Grenville Kane's copy of the 1626 issue, in modern green morocco binding.

Sixth state, with the addition of three new place-names near the Royal Arms: Sparkes content, Democrites tree, and Burtions Mount, but without the Purchas page numbers 1692 and 1693. This state is found in four copies of the 1624 issue in contemporary binding, belonging to the William L. Clements Library, the Chapin Library, Mr. Preston Davie, and Mr. Grenville Kane. It is also in Mr. Herschel V. Jones's copy of the 1625 issue in contemporary calf, and in the Christie-Miller copy of Purchas's "Pilgrimes," vol. 4, 1625, in the Huntington Library. A separate impression is in the New York Public Library. An altered impression of this state exists in the Chapin Library's Calthorpe copy of the 1624 issue, in contemporary binding. The sixth state was copied with some changes, and on a slightly smaller scale, in De Bry's German voyages to America, part 13, Franckfurt, 1627 and 1628, and in the Latin edition of the same, Franckfurt, 1634, the inscriptions being translated into German.

Seventh state, with the page numbers added, 1692 and 1693, and with Sparkes content as in the preceding, called by Mr. Lenox the "true Purchas map." The numbers refer to Purchas's "Pilgrimes," vol. 4, 1625. This state was in the Bancroft-Church copy of that book, sold with the Huntington duplicates in January, 1917, and later owned by Dr. Alexander Hamilton Rice, but has not been found in any copy of the "Generall Historie." A separate impression is in the New York Public Library, its fold marks fitting the larger size of the Purchas.

Eighth state, with the alteration to Sparkes Vaylley instead of Sparkes content, and the addition of four new inscriptions, (1) "page 41 Smith" in one corner, (2) Sparkes Poynt at the outlet of Potomac river, (3) Fetherstones Baye and (4) Bollers bush, so spelled, both on the upper part of Toppahanock river. This state is found in the Columbia University copy of Purchas's "Pilgrimes," vol. 4, 1625, and is inserted in Mr. William M. Elkins's copy of the 1624 issue of the "Generall Historie," the old folds showing that it was formerly in a volume of the size of Purchas. It is also in the Church-Huntington copy of the 1627 issue of the "Generall Historie," in modern binding. A photostat copy is in the New York Public Library. Information about this state was first received from Dr. George Watson Cole, who also described it in the Church catalogue.

Ninth state, with the alteration to Boollers bush instead of Bollers bush, and three new place-names, (1) Blands C: and (2) Downes dale near Bolus river, and (3) Washeborne C: near Cape Charles, but with the page numbers still 1692 and 1693. This state is in the Church-Huntington copy of the 1625 issue of the book, in contemporary binding; differing in this respect from Mr. Herschel V. Jones's copy of the same issue, also in contemporary binding, but containing the sixth state. It is also found in two of the New York Public Library copies of Purchas's "Pilgrimes," and is inserted in one of its copies of the "Generall Historie" of 1624 in modern binding. A fac-simile of this state was published in Deane's reprint of the "True Relation," and also in the Virginia volume of "Original Narratives of Early American History," 1907.

Tenth state, with the alteration of the Purchas page numbers to 1690 and 1691. This is the latest and most common state of the map, and was probably used in the latest bound copies of the 1624 issue, as it is found in Dr. Rosenbach's copy of that date in contemporary binding. It also appears in Mr. Davie's copy of the 1626 issue in contemporary binding and in the Massachusetts Historical, New York Public (Stuart), Huntington and John Carter Brown copies of that date in modern binding. Four copies of the 1627 issue in contemporary binding contain this state and it is of course the proper state to accompany the 1631 and 1632 issues. A fac-simile is in the Glasgow edition of 1907, and one in Arber's editions of Smith's "Works." The latter must have been made from an original with a crease or wrinkle in the paper, as imperfections, complete or partial loss of a letter or of a space, occur in a slanting line running through the words reproduced as Fetherstones, Baye, Massawoteck, Boollersbush, Sockbeck, etc.

A later impression of the tenth state, printed after the plate had become cracked, and which may be called 10a, was noted by Mr. Henry N. Stevens in 1922. As described by him in a letter of March, 1926, the crack extends from the letter "t" in the place-name Powhatan, nearly two inches to the right of the picture of the king, downward to the rudder of the ship, and then to the lower border at 38° latitude.

3. THE SUMMER ISLS., ETC.

First state, before the addition of the name "Penistons Redoute," and without the printer's name. There are fourteen compartments in the engraved plate, the small map being in the center. The figures of the forts, etc., are lettered A to P, and most of them have the names above. One of the compartments contains the explanation of these references, ending with the statement, "The discription of ye land by Mr Norwood. All contracted into this order by Captaine Iohn Smith." This state belongs to the earliest issued copies of 1624, and is found in those belonging to the William L. Clements Library, Mr. Grenville Kane (2), Mr. Preston Davie, Dr. Rosenbach, and Mr. William M. Elkins, all six in contemporary binding. It is also in the two copies described with the 1625 title, both in contemporary binding, and in two copies of the 1626 issue in modern binding. The only impression of this state in the New York Public Library is inserted in one of the 1632 issues.

Second state, with the name "Penistons Redoute" added in compartment G, but without the printer's name. Impressions of this state were made on thick paper for the large paper issue. The only impression on ordinary paper which has been seen is in the Calthorpe copy of the 1624 issue in contemporary binding, in the Chapin Library.

Third state, with the addition of the line Printed by James Reeve, in compartment N. This state was first used in some copies of the 1626 issue, being found in the Yale University Library copy, and in Mr. Preston Davie's Covert copy, both in old binding, and also in the New York Public Library and Church-Huntington copies of that date in modern binding. It is in four copies of the 1627 issue in contemporary binding, and is also the proper state to accompany the 1631 and 1632 issues. A process reproduction of this state is in the edition printed at Glasgow in 1907, and in Arber's edition of Smith's "Works."

4. NEW ENGLAND.

First state, without the date 1614 under the Scale of Leagues. See under "Description of New England," 1616.

Second state, with the date 1614, and two new names, P Travers and Gerrards IIs, near the N. E. corner, but without Smith's Arms. This is found in the Harvard College copy of the "Description of New England." It was probably used for the earliest copies of the "Generall Historie," as in the "I. S." copy in the New York Public Library, in contemporary binding. It is in Mr. Kane's Huth copy, in contemporary binding, refolded and repaired. A fac-simile is in Winsor, vol. 3, page 198.

Third state, with Smith's Arms in the S. W. corner, but without the motto. This state is found in Mr. Grenville Kane's Willoughby de Broke copy of the 1624 issue of the "Generall Historie," in contemporary binding, and also in his copy of the 1626 issue in modern binding. The only impression in the New York Public Library is inserted in Smith's "Description of New England," 1616, but the old fold marks show that it was originally in a volume of folio size.

Fourth state, with the addition of the motto "Vincere est Viuere," and the degrees of latitude on the western border, and of longitude above and below, but before Paynes IIs was put in near Cape Elizabeth. This is the most common and also probably the latest state to be found in the "Generall Historie" of 1624, impressions being in the William L. Clements Library copy, Mr. Preston Davie's, Dr. Rosenbach's and Mr. Elkins's copies, and in the Calthorpe copy in the Chapin Library, all in contemporary binding. It is also in the two copies described with the 1625 title, in contemporary binding, and in two copies of the 1626 issue in old binding. Of this state some impressions were made on thick paper for use in the large paper copies. One of these thick paper maps is inserted in a copy of Smith's "Description of New England," 1616, belonging to the John Carter Brown Library, the old fold marks showing that it was formerly in a folio volume. A process fac-simile of this state is given in Arber's editions of Smith's "Works."

Fifth state, with the addition of Paynes IIs, and of cross-lines on the larger side of Smith's armor and in the background of the portrait, and still with the name of Geor: Low as printer. The name of the engraver Pasæus is corrected to Passæus. Mr. Lenox supposed this state to belong to the 1626 issue, and it is in the Massachusetts Historical Society copy of that date in modern binding. It is also found in

Mr. Arents's copy of the 1627 issue in contemporary binding, and in one of the New York Public Library copies of that date in modern binding.

Sixth state, with the printer's name altered to James Reeve, and the word "Prince" still in the fourth line of the title. This is found in the Prince copy of the 1627 issue in the Boston Public Library, in contemporary binding, and in two copies of that date in modern binding in the New York Public and Huntington Libraries. The William L. Clements and Chapin Library copies of Smith's "Advertisements," 1631, contain it, and it has been found in three copies of the 1632 issue of the "Generall Historie," in the Harvard, John Carter Brown and Massachusetts Historical Society Libraries.

Seventh state, with the words "nowe King" substituted for "Prince" in the fourth line of the title, but without the N. E. Council Arms in the center. Figures of scroll-work are put on Smith's coat and sleeve in the portrait; the name Salem is added, the word NEW placed above Plimouth, and eight other new names inserted along the coast, viz., Martins Ile, P Reeves, P Wynthorp, Wests Bay, P Standish, Franncis Ile, Claiborns IIs, and P Saltonstale, the last three replacing the following obliterated names, Fullerton IIs, Cary IIs, and P Murry. The bay opposite Claiborns IIs is enlarged, and the islands increased from eight to eighteen. This was used for some copies of the 1627 issue, as in the John Carter Brown copy, in contemporary binding. It is found in the only known copy of the 1631 issue, in the same library, and is also a proper state to accompany Smith's "Advertisements" of 1631, being found in the John Carter Brown and Church-Huntington copies of that book. That this state was also used in some of the early bound copies of the 1632 issue is proved by the Anstruther copy in the John Carter Brown Library, in contemporary binding. The New York Public Library copy of the same issue, in modern blue morocco, also contains it. Mr. Winsor's number VIII., which is a fragment, lacking the western third of the plate, in Harvard College Library, is of this state, and not a new variety as he supposed.

Eighth state, with the Council Arms added, but without the school of fish and the reference to "New Englands Prospect." At the upper part of Talbotts Bay, two short rivers, or branches of the bay, are for the first time represented, extending nearly northward. The name Salem above Cape Anna is erased, and put in again below Bristow, in its true position; and Charlton is inserted below The River Charles. This state is in the Newberry Library copy of the "Advertisements," 1631, and according to Mr. Winsor in the Charles Deane copy, sold in 1898. It is also found in several copies of the 1632 issue of the "Generall Historie," being the most appropriate state for copies made up at the time of printing. A process facsimile of this state is in the edition printed at Glasgow in 1907, also in Levermore's "Forerunners and Competitors of the Pilgrims and Puritans," 1912.

Ninth state, with the addition of a large school of fish and the reference to Wood's "New Englands Prospect" of 1634. The other additions comprise the extension of The River Charles to the western border; the insertion of the names (1) Watertowne, (2) New towne, (3) Medford, (4) Charles Towne, and (5) Saugus, near or above its northern bank, and (6) Boston, (7) Roxberry, (8) Winnisime, and (9) Dorchester, near its southern bank, figures of houses, trees and animals are also inserted, and the name Cheyoyot hills is erased. This state is found in some copies of the "Generall Historie" of 1632 which may have been made up in 1634 or later; it belongs properly, however, to Hondy's "Historia Mundi or Mercators Atlas," published at London in 1635, and reissued in 1637 and 1639, and it is in the New York Public Library copies of those issues. An approximate fac-simile of this state is in the 1865 reprint of the "Advertisements." The plate engraved by C. A. Swett after the first state for the same publisher's reprint of the "Description of New England," was altered to conform nearly with the ninth state. This altered form appears also in Jenness's "Isles of Shoals," 1873, and in Brown's "Genesis," 1890.

DESCRIPTION OF THE PORTRAITS.

In some copies of the "Generall Historie" there are inserted, as extra illustrations, portraits of the Duchess of Richmond and Lenox, to whom the history was dedicated, and of Matoaka or Pocahontas, the Indian wife of Mr. John Rolfe. These two portraits were issued separately, the former engraved by William Pass and dated 1623, and the latter engraved by Simon Pass and dated 1616. In 1879, Mr. Henry Stevens wrote several letters to Dr. George H. Moore of the Lenox Library, concerning these portraits, from which the following extracts are made: "At present I do not think any portraits on large paper of Pocahontas and the Duchess of Richmond ever originally appeared in the large paper copies. They may have been inserted. . . . In fact, notwithstanding all that there is in Bohn's Lowndes, I do not believe any large paper copy was originally issued with the portraits. . . . Indeed I never found a copy of Smith's Va., large paper or small paper, with the portrait of the Duchess of Richmond growing in it. There is a worn copy [of the 1626 issue] in Yale College Library, small paper, with a portrait growing in it of the Duchess, but it is an oval portrait [engraved by Francis Delaram], quite different from the one generally found, and rarer. . . . So you see there is no proof yet of the portraits having been issued with the large or even the small paper copies . . . ."

Although in general the copies examined have borne out Mr. Stevens's conclusions that the book was originally issued without the portraits, several have since come to light in which the portrait of the Duchess by W. Pass is included in the contemporary binding. Among these are the large paper Cordwainers' copy in the Huntington Library, the two copies having a type-printed title of 1625 sewed in with the portrait after the engraved title, the W. L. Clements copy, Dr. Rosenbach's and Mr. William L. Elkins's copies. The portraits described below comprise three of the Duchess and two of Pocahontas.

1. A standing figure with a four line inscription below: "The portraiture of the illustreous Princesse Frances Duchess of Richmond | and Lenox daughter of Thomas Ld. Howard of Bindon sonne of Thomas Duke of Norfok. | whose mother was Elisabeth daughter of Edward Duke of Buckingham. | Anno 1623 insculptum a Guilh: Passeo Londinum." Her left hand is resting on an open book with the motto "Constantia Coronat." The original print may be distinguished from the re-engraved copy by the name "Howard" in the second line, the letters of which are on an even line, while in the reprint the letter "w" stands higher than the others. The former is printed on thin paper, and the reprint on thicker paper. The latter is also slightly smaller than the original, there being about one eighth of an inch difference each way. That the portrait was bound with some copies of the "Generall Historie" as originally issued is proved by the instances mentioned above. It has been inserted, in recent years, in many copies of the different issues, especially in those rebound in modern times. A process fac-simile is included in the edition of the book printed at Glasgow in 1907. An impression of this print with the date 1625 is described in Walpole's "Anecdotes of Painting in England," under William Pass, as being in his possession, but as he does not mention the one dated 1623, it is probable that he misread the date.

2. A close copy of the preceding, re-engraved probably in 1796 for: "The Biographical Mirrour, comprising a series of ancient and modern English Portraits, of eminent and distinguished persons, from original pictures and drawings," London: Published by S. and E. Harding, Pall-Mall, 1795, 1798, etc., 3 vols., quarto. The preface is dated May 1, 1795, but the work was first issued in numbers, the portraits in vol. 1 being dated from 1791 to 1795, those in vol. 2 nearly all in 1796, and those in vol. 3 from 1798 to 1814. The portrait of the Duchess is no. 49 of vol. 2, facing page 116, and in the table of contents is said to be from a scarce print in the collection of Colonel Dowdeswell. It may be distinguished from the original by the differences mentioned in the preceding paragraph. This print is inserted in many copies of all of the issues of the book in modern binding.

3. A smaller half-length portrait in oval form of the Duchess of Richmond and Lenox with the date "Anno 1623," in reverse order, the motto "Constantia coronat:" and the inscription Francisco Delaram sculpsit Lo. The title below with two exceptions is identical with that of the preceding, i.e., the correction of "daughter" in the second line of Pass's engraving to "daughter" in the third line of Delaram's, and the insertion of "second" before "sonne." "The portraiture of the illustrious Princesse | Frances Duchess of Richmond and Lenox | daughter of Thomas Ld. Howard of Bindon | second sonne of Thomas Duke of Norfok. | whose mother was Elisabeth daughter | of Edward Duke of Buckingham." An impression of this portrait is in Mr. Grenville Kane's copy of the 1624 issue, in binding of the period. It is also the engraving described by Henry Stevens as growing in the Yale copy of the 1626 issue, in old binding, but which is now mounted to face the title. A separate impression is in the Print Room of the New York Public Library.

4. The portrait of Pocahontas engraved by Simon Pass, a half figure in oval frame with the lettering: "Matoaka als Rebecca filia Potentiss: Princ: Powhatan Imp: Virginiae," and the words, "Ætatis suae 21. Ao 1616." Below: "Matoaks als Rebecca daughter to the mighty Prince | Powhatan Emperour of Attanoughkoumouck als virginia | converted and baptized in the Christian faith, and | wife to the worll. Mr: Joh: Rolff. | Si: Pass: sculp: Compton Holland excud:" The original print is on thinner paper than the reprint and may be distinguished from it by the curved cross lines in the background of the oval, which in the latter are represented by straight lines. No evidence has been found that this portrait was bound up originally in any of the issues of the book, as all of the copies in contemporary binding which have been examined are without it. It is inserted, however, in some copies of the different issues in modern binding, two impressions being in the New York Public Library, in the 1627 and 1632 issues. For an account of the original painting of 1616, see Arber's editions of Smith's "Works," cxxxvi; and Wyndham Robertson's "Pocahontas . . . and her descendants," Richmond, 1887. See also Avery's "History," vol. 2, p. 61; and "The Pageant of America," vol. 1, p. 184.

5. Richardson's reprint of the Pocahontas portrait made in 1793, omitting the names of engraver and printer, and with imprint, Pubd. Augt. 10. 1793. by W. Richardson Castle St. Leicester Square. This is one of a collection of "Portraits illustrating Grangers Biographical History of England," published 1792-1812, and appears in part 2. The imprint is sometimes erased, in which case the copy may be distinguished from the original by the differences mentioned under no. 4. Impressions of the reprint are inserted in many issues of the book in modern binding. A process reproduction, omitting the line containing Richardson's name, is in the edition of the book printed at Glasgow in 1907.

SMITH. The | Generall Historie | of | Virginia, New-England, and the Summer | Isles: with the names of the Adventurers, | Planters, and Governours from their | first beginning. Ano: 1584. to this | present 1624. | With the Proceedings of those Severall Colonies | and the Accidents that befell them in all their | Journyes and Discoveries. | Also the Maps and Descriptions of all those | Countries, their Commodities, people, | Government, Customes, and Religion | yet knowne. | Divided into sixe Bookes. | By Captaine Iohn Smith sometymes Governour | in those Countries & Admirall. | of New England. | London. | Printed by I. D. and | I. H. for Michael | Sparkes. | 1624. Folio, engraved title, pp. (12), 1-96, 105-248. 4 folded maps. NYP. 82824

Collation: 7 preliminary leaves, comprising the engraved title by Barra, verso blank, the dedication to the Duchess of Richmond and Lenox, in two pages, "A Preface of foure Poynts," on one page, with verses signed and dated "T. T. 1624," on the verso, "Samuel Purchas of his friend Captaine Iohn Smith," and other laudatory verses, in four pages, and the contents in four pages; the text, pp. 1-96, 105-248. Signatures, not including the title, ) ( in two, A-N, and P-Ii in fours.

There is no sheet O, pp. 97-104, the gap being the result of dividing the manuscript between two printers, I. D. and I. H., in order to hasten the work, one printing the first fourteen sheets, comprising books 1 to 3, the other starting with sheet P and doing the remainder, comprising books 4 to 6. That I. D. was John Dawson is proved by the fact that a device known to be his appears on the type-printed title of the 1625 issue. I. H. was undoubtedly John Haviland who printed Smith's "Sea Grammar," 1627, and his "Advertisements," 1631, while the initials J. H. appear as those of the printer of the "True Travels," 1630. Mr. L. S. Livingston considered that Dawson was the printer of the first three books and also of the prospectus of 1623. It is an interesting fact that the same type ornaments were used at the beginning of each of the first three books of the "Generall Historie" as appeared at the top of the prospectus, while those similarly employed in the last three books are different.

This is the first issue of the book, the engraved title being in its earliest state, with the two dates 1624, and the head of Prince Charles uncrowned. The background of the three portraits at the top is a map of Virginia and New England. At the sides are the Arms of the Virginia Company and of the Council for New England. In the lower right-hand corner the inscription, Grauen by Iohn Barra. Process fac-similes of this state are in Arber's editions of Smith's "Works," and in the edition of the "Generall Historie" printed at Glasgow in 1907.

The contents are as follows: the first book, pp. 1-20, describes the first settlement of Virginia, and the subsequent voyages there to 1605; the second book, pp. 21-40, is Smith's description of the country and its Indian inhabitants; the third book, pp. 41-94, relates the occurrences of Smith's voyage and the settlement of Jamestown, from December, 1606, to 1609, and is followed by two pages filling the last leaf of signature N, made up of a reprint of laudatory verses addressed to Smith, from the "Description of New England," with a few lines of introduction by him beginning "Now seeing there is thus much Paper here to spare"; the fourth book, pp. 105-168, continues the Virginian history from the planting of Point Comfort in 1609 to 1623; the fifth book, pp. 169-201, comprises the history of the Bermudas or Summer Isles from 1593 to 1624, followed on pp. 201-202 by verses also reprinted from the "Description of New England"; and the sixth book, pp. 203-248, contains the history of New England from 1614 to 1624.

In deciding the question as to which are the proper states of the maps for the 1624 issue, an examination has been made of a number of copies in contemporary binding, and of several large paper copies, the latter having the maps printed on larger and thicker paper expressly for that size. The result is as follows: 1. Ould Virginia, two in the first state, six on large and thick paper in the second state, and four in the third state; 2. Virginia, one in the third state, none in the fourth state, four on large and thick paper in the fifth state, four in the sixth state, and one in the tenth state; 3. Summer IIs., six in the first state, seven on large and thick paper in the second state, and also one on thin paper in the second state; 4. New England, two in the second state, one in the third state, six on large and thick paper in the fourth state, and also five on thin paper in the fourth state. From the above statement it may be assumed that the following states were used for the 1624 issues of the book, Ould Virginia, first to third, Virginia, third to tenth, Summer IIs., first and second, and New England, second to fourth.

Eight copies of the 1624 issue in contemporary binding have been examined, as follows:

1. Grenville Kane, Tuxedo, N. Y., in calf, with panels and corner ornaments and the Arms used by James I. and Charles I. on both covers, and with the book-plates of John Peyto Verney, Ld. Willoughby de Broke (1738-1816), and Robert John Verney, Lord Willoughby de Broke (1809-1862), from the Lord Willoughby de Broke sale at Sotheby's July, 1908. It may be inferred that the volume was originally owned by Fulke Greville (1554-1628), first Baron Brooke. The leaf measures  $11\frac{1}{4}$  by  $7\frac{1}{4}$  inches, and the maps are each 18 inches wide, with edges untrimmed except at the top. They comprise Ould Virginia in the first state, without trees on the map; Virginia in the third state, with Smith's Arms but no motto;

Summer IIs. in the first state, without "Penistons Redoute"; and New England in the third state, with Smith's Arms, but no motto. It contains the portrait of the Duchess of Richmond and Lenox engraved by Delaram.

2. Grenville Kane, another copy, in contemporary calf, with panels and corner ornaments and the Arms of the Duchess of Richmond and Lenox on both covers, formerly in the Huth collection. It measures  $11\frac{1}{2}$  by  $7\frac{7}{8}$  inches on the leaf and contains maps as follows: Ould Virginia in the third state, with James Reeve, but without Adams Sound; Virginia in the sixth state on thick paper, with Sparkes content, but without the Purchas page numbers 1692, 1693; Summer IIs. in the first state, without "Penistons Redoute"; and New England in the second state, with the date 1614, but without Smith's Arms. All except the New England map are uncut on all three sides, the latter is cut all around and repaired.

3. A. S. W. Rosenbach, Philadelphia, in contemporary rough calf with the crest of the Earl of Bridgewater in gold on both covers, and the modern bookplate of the Bridgewater Library. It was the copy of John Egerton (1579-1649), first Earl of Bridgewater, was bought by Mr. Henry E. Huntington with the Bridgewater collection in May, 1917, and later acquired privately by Dr. Rosenbach. It is a remarkably fine and clean copy, with the original fly-leaves. The maps comprise Ould Virginia in the third state, with James Reeve, but without Adams Sound; Virginia in the tenth state, with the page numbers 1690 and 1691; Summer IIs. in the first state, without "Penistons Redoute"; and New England in the fourth state, with Smith's motto, but without Paynes IIs. The portrait of the Duchess by Pass is sewed in with the engraved title in the contemporary binding. The slip of Errata now lacking was originally pasted on page 248.

4. William M. Elkins, Elkins Park, Pa., in contemporary plain calf, with the inscription "Bibliotheca Colbertina" on the title. Probably the copy of Jean-Baptiste Colbert (1619-1683), minister of finance under Louis XIV., as it is no. 3021 of the auction catalogue of May, 1728, of the library founded by him, inherited first by his son Jean-Baptiste, Marquis de Seignelay, in 1690 by another son, Jacques-Nicolas, Archbishop of Rouen, and in 1707 by his grandson Charles-Eléonor, Comte de Seignelay. It was finally acquired by the firm of Bernard Quaritch, Ltd., and is described in their catalogue for January, 1926. The book retains its old lining and fly-leaves, the leaf measuring  $11\frac{1}{4}$  by  $7\frac{7}{8}$  inches. The maps comprise an inserted first state of Ould Virginia refolded to fit the contemporary stub; the eighth state of Virginia also inserted, the old folds showing that it was originally in a volume the size of Purchas; Summer IIs. in the first state, without "Penistons Redoute," in its original folds, mounted on the contemporary stub, and on rather thick paper; and New England in the fourth state, with Smith's motto, but without Paynes IIs, also as issued with the book. The portrait of the Duchess by Pass is apparently sewed in the contemporary binding. An Errata slip, which seems to be from another copy, is tipped on page 248, the paste marks on the back having no corresponding marks on the leaf.

5. Preston Davie, Tuxedo, N. Y., in original plain calf, with gilt tooling on edges of covers, and with "W. H. Earle" written on the title. It measures  $10\frac{7}{8}$  by  $7\frac{3}{8}$  inches on the leaf. The maps are mounted on stubs which are sewed in, the New England map being untrimmed on three sides and measuring nearly 18 inches in width. The states included are: Ould Virginia in the third state, with James Reeve, but without Adams Sound; Virginia in the sixth state, with Sparkes content, but without the Purchas page numbers 1692 and 1693; Summer IIs. in the first state, without "Penistons Redoute"; and New England in the fourth state, with Smith's motto, but before Paynes IIs was added. It contains the portrait of the Duchess by W. Pass, remargined on the inner side.

6. William L. Clements Library, Ann Arbor, Michigan, in contemporary plain vellum with tying thongs. It measures on the leaf  $11\frac{5}{8}$  by  $7\frac{3}{4}$  inches. The maps comprise Ould Virginia in the third state, with James Reeve, but without Adams Sound; Virginia in the sixth state, with Sparkes content, but without the Purchas page numbers 1692 and 1693; Summer IIs. in the first state, without "Penistons Redoute"; and New England in the fourth state, with Smith's motto, but before Paynes Ils was added. It contains the portrait of the Duchess of Richmond and Lenox by W. Pass. The slip of Errata is pasted on page 248. Information as to this copy furnished by Mr. Randolph G. Adams.

7. Chapin Library, Williamstown, Mass., in original plain calf, with original blank leaves at beginning and end, and the faded inscription "Ex libris James Calthorpe" on the front fly-leaf, formerly in the possession of Mr. Robert H. Dodd. The former owner was perhaps James Calthorpe, Sheriff of Suffolk, knighted by Cromwell in 1656, the son of Sir Henry Calthorpe, solicitor-general to Queen Henrietta Maria. The leaf measures  $11\frac{1}{8}$  by  $7\frac{3}{8}$  inches. The maps comprise Ould Virginia in the first state, without trees on the map; Virginia in the sixth state, but altered by erasures; Summer Ils. in the second state, with "Penistons Redoute" but no printer's name; and New England in the fourth state, with Smith's motto, but before Paynes Ils was added. The alterations on the Virginia map consist of the erasure of the four place-names first added in the fifth state, and of two of those added in the sixth state, namely Sparkes content and Democrites tree, only Burtons Mount being left. Evidence of the erasures is found on the back as well as on the front of the map. The portrait of the Duchess engraved by W. Pass has been added. In this copy leaf ) ( 2, containing "A Preface of foure Poynts" and a poem, is misplaced after the other preliminary leaves. Information verified by Miss L. E. Osborne, the custodian.

8. New York Public Library, in contemporary plain calf, with "I. S." stamped on both covers, from the collection of James Lenox. The leaf measures  $11\frac{1}{8}$  by  $7\frac{1}{2}$  inches. The only map which appears to have been bound in originally is the New England map in the second state as in copy 2. The Errata slip is pasted at the foot of page 248.

LARGE PAPER COPIES.

In an examination of over thirty copies of the ordinary edition, with the different title dates, the largest one that has come to our notice is a copy with the 1624 title in the Lenox collection in the New York Public Library, which measures  $11\frac{1}{8}$  inches in height, by  $7\frac{5}{8}$  inches in width. This copy, which lacks the four maps, is in the contemporary plain calf binding; and the leaves, although cut with the binder's plough and sprinkled, still show on some of the front and bottom edges the marks of the deckle. The next tallest copy is one with the 1625 title, belonging to Mr. Herschel V. Jones, and also in contemporary binding, which measures  $11\frac{7}{8}$  inches in height, by  $7\frac{1}{2}$  inches in width. The William L. Clements Library copy of the 1624 issue, in contemporary vellum binding, measures  $11\frac{5}{8}$  by  $7\frac{3}{4}$  inches, and a fourth copy, with the 1632 title, in contemporary plain calf, belonging to the Church collection in the Henry E. Huntington Library, also measures  $11\frac{5}{8}$  inches in height, the width being  $7\frac{1}{4}$  inches. The large paper copies described below are on an average about two inches taller and an inch or more wider than the ordinary size, the tallest recorded being one of the Christie-Miller copies in the Huntington Library, which measures  $13\frac{1}{4}$  by  $8\frac{1}{2}$  inches and the Cambridge University copy which also is  $13\frac{1}{4}$  inches tall. The Grenville copy in the British Museum comes second with  $13\frac{3}{8}$  inches, and the Eton College copy third with  $13\frac{1}{8}$  inches. The Barlow copy in the Pierpont Morgan Library and the copy in the Archbishopal Library at Lambeth both measure 13 inches in height, and the other copies are all under that size. In order to print these large paper copies, all of the sheets of the ordinary size were struck off first, and then the forms were re-imposed to make a larger margin all around the page, the inner margin being  $1\frac{1}{2}$  inches, or nearly  $\frac{3}{4}$  of an inch greater than that of the ordinary size. The four maps were printed specially on thick paper of a size to fit the book, with one fold in the middle, and were in the following states: Ould Virginia in the second state, with trees on the map but without Iames Reece; Virginia in the fifth state, with Tauerners roade, but without Sparkes content; Summer Ils. in the second state with "Penistons Redoute," but without the printer's name; and New England in the fourth state, with Smith's motto, but before Paynes Ils was added. There is no evidence to show that portraits were included in the large paper copies as originally bound, with the exception of the Cordwainers' copy in the Huntington Library, which has the portrait of the Duchess by W. Pass on paper the full size of the book.

1. New York Public Library, measuring on the leaf  $12\frac{7}{8}$  by  $8\frac{3}{4}$  inches, in contemporary dark green morocco, elaborately tooled, with panels and corner ornaments, and the Arms of James I. on the front cover, and on the back cover those of the Duchess of Richmond and Lenox, to whom the book was dedicated. The four maps are on thick paper of the states described above. It has the label of the Woodside Library, and came from the collection of the Rev. Frederic Pyndar Lowe, sold by Puttick and Simpson on Feb. 5-6, 1873, passing through the hands of Asher & Co. and Henry Stevens, to George Brinley, at whose sale in 1879 it was bought for the Lenox Library.

2. Cyrus H. McCormick, Chicago, Ill., measuring on the leaf  $12\frac{3}{8}$  by  $8\frac{9}{16}$  inches, in contemporary brown morocco binding, elaborately tooled, with panels and corner ornaments, the front cover having the Arms of the Prince of Wales surmounted by his coronet, and the three ostrich feathers in each corner, the back cover the Arms of the Duchess of Richmond and Lenox, and similar corner ornaments. Three of the maps are of the states described above and presumably on thick paper, but the right Virginia map is lacking, and is supplied by the insertion of the ninth state on ordinary paper. The portraits of the Duchess by W. Pass and of Pocahontas by S. Pass are inlaid and inserted. This copy was described in Clarke's "Repertorium Bibliographicum," 1819, as in the library of William Beckford, Esq. (1759-1844), of Fonthill Abbey, Wilts, upon whose death it passed into the hands of his daughter, the Duchess of Hamilton. At the sale of the Beckford portion of the Hamilton Palace Collections, in July, 1883, it was bought for Charles H. Kalbleisch of New York, after whose death it passed to Robert Hoe, and at his sale in January, 1912, it was purchased for the present owner. Of the large paper copies here described this is the only one in private hands. Information through the courtesy of Mr. McCormick, from Miss Delia Conger, the librarian, and Mr. J. Christian Bay.

3. Pierpont Morgan Library, New York, measuring on the leaf 13 by  $8\frac{3}{8}$  inches, rebound, preserving the contemporary brown calf of each cover, with panels and corner ornaments, and the Arms of the Earl of Warwick on both sides. Of the maps on thick paper belonging to this issue as described above it has only the Summer Isles, the others being supplied from small paper copies by Henry Stevens, together with the portraits. The added maps are Ould Virginia in the fourth state, Virginia in the tenth state, and New England in the eighth state. The added portraits of the Duchess by W. Pass and of Pocahontas by S. Pass, both original and reprints, are inlaid. The original owner, Robert Rich (1587-1658), who became Earl of Warwick in 1619, was prominent in the Virginia Company and in the Council for New England. The book afterwards came into the possession of Col. Thomas Aspinwall, U. S. Consul at London from 1813 to 1853, and is no. 78 of his catalogue printed at Paris about 1832. While in his library the maps which were lacking and the portraits were supplied by Henry Stevens, and the binding was repaired by Bedford. In 1864 it was included in that part of Colonel Aspinwall's collection which he sold to Mr. S. L. M. Barlow, at the dispersal of whose library in 1890 it was bought by Mr. Theodore Irwin, of Oswego. The Irwin collection was acquired by Mr. Morgan in April, 1900.

4. Huntington Library, San Gabriel, Cal., first copy, measuring on the leaf  $12\frac{1}{2}$  by  $8\frac{5}{8}$  inches, in contemporary calf, with panels and corner ornaments, and the Arms of James I. on both covers. The imprint date has been altered with a pen to 1626. The four maps are on thick paper of the states described above. The portrait of the Duchess engraved by W. Pass is included, in the original sewing. At the front is an inscription in Smith's handwriting, presenting the volume to the Cordwainers' Society of London. It afterwards came into the possession of Robert Stayner Holford, Esq., of Dorchester House, London, passing later to his son Sir George Lindsay Holford, and is mentioned in Seymour de Ricci's "Book Collector's Guide," 1921. The presentation inscription is as follows:

To The Worshipfull the Master Wardens & Societic of the Cordwayners of ye Cittie of London.

Worthie Gentlemen—Not only in regard of your Courtisie & Loue, Butt also of ye Continuall vse I haue had of your Labours, & the hope you may make some vse of mine, I salute you with this Cronologicall discourse, wherof you may vnderstand with what infinite Difficulties & Dangers these Plantations first began, with ther yearlie proceedings, & the plaine description & Condition of those Countries; How many of your Companie haue bin Adventurers, whose Names are omitted or not nominated in the Alphabett I know not, therefore I intreate you better to informe me, that I may hereafter imprint you amongst the Rest, Butt of this I am sure for want of Shooes among the Oyster Bankes wee tore our hatts & Clothes & those being worne, wee tied Barkes of trees about our ffeete to keepe them from being Cutt by the Shelles amongst which wee must goe or starue, yett how many thousand of Shooes hath bin transported to these plantations, how many Soldiers Marriners & Saylers haue bin & are likely to be encreased thereby, what vent your Comodities haue had & still haue, & how many Shippes & men of all ffaculties haue bin & are yearelie employed I leaue to your owne Judgments, & yett by reason of ill manadging, the Returnes haue neither answered the generall Expectation, nor my desire; the Causes thereof you may reade at Large in this Booke for your better Satisfaction, & I pray you take it not in ill part that I present the same to you in this Manuscript Epistle soe late, for both it & I my self haue bin soe ouertired by attendances that this Work of mine doth seeme to be Superannuated before it's Birth, notwithstanding lett me intreat you to giue it lodging in your Hall freeilie to be perused for euer, in memorie of your Noblenesse towards mee, & my Loue to God, my Countrie, your Societic, & those Plantations, Euer resting

JOHN SMITH.

5. Huntington Library, second copy, measuring on the leaf  $13\frac{3}{8}$  by  $8\frac{1}{2}$  inches, in russia binding. The four maps are on thick paper of the states mentioned above, with the possible exception of the Ould Virginia map which is described as on thin paper. The portraits of the Duchess by W. Pass and of Pocahontas by S. Pass were not originally in the book but are inlaid and inserted. The Errata slip is pasted on page 248. The record of this copy goes back perhaps to the sale of John Hunter, Esq., at Leigh and Sotheby's, in February, 1813, mentioned in Clarke's "Repertorium Bibliographicum," 1819, where a similar copy is described in the library of George Hibbert, Esq., at Clapham, Surry. At the Hibbert sale in May, 1829, this copy, in russia, was bought by Thorpe and afterwards passed into the collection formed by William Henry Miller, at Britwell Court, Burnham, Bucks, bequeathed by him in 1848 to his cousin Miss Marsh, from whom it passed successively to Samuel Christie-Miller, Wakefield Christie-Miller, and Sydney Richardson Christie-Miller. It is no. 285 of the Sotheby sale catalogue of August, 1916, and was bought with the entire collection for Mr. Huntington.

6. Huntington Library, third copy, measuring on the leaf  $11\frac{1}{8}$  by  $7\frac{3}{4}$  inches, in modern levant morocco. It contains three of the maps on thick paper as described above, but the right Virginia map is lacking, in its place being the first state on thin paper added recently, replacing the tenth state formerly inserted. The portrait of the Duchess by W. Pass is included. Although considerably cut down, the width of the inner margin and the thickness of the paper show that this copy belongs to the large paper issue. In 1894 it was in the possession of Ellis and Elvey of London, being described in their catalogue 78, and in the following year was bought for the E. D. Church collection.

7. Huntington Library, fourth copy, measuring on the leaf  $12\frac{5}{8}$  by  $8\frac{1}{8}$  inches, in contemporary calf binding, with panels and corner ornaments and the Arms of James I. on both covers. The title of 1624 is lacking, and is replaced by that of 1632, inlaid to fit the book. The maps on thick paper are also lacking, and their place has been supplied from small paper copies as follows, Ould Virginia in the fourth state, Virginia in the tenth state, Summer IIs. in the third state, and New England in the sixth state. The portraits of the Duchess by W. Pass and of Pocahontas by S. Pass were not originally in the book but are inlaid and inserted. This like the second Huntington copy is from the Christie-Miller collection, being no. 288 of the sale catalogue of 1916.

8. British Museum Library, London, measuring on the leaf  $13\frac{3}{8}$  inches in height, according to Henry Stevens, who also states that it has the map of Ould Virginia on thick paper, belonging to the book, and the three other maps supplied from small paper copies. The portraits of the Duchess and Pocahontas, both cut close and mounted, are inserted. This copy is mentioned in Clarke's "Repertorium Bibliographicum," 1819, p. 275, as in the library of the Right Hon. Thomas Grenville, Cleveland Square, St. James's, London; and a fuller description is in the printed catalogue issued in 1842. On Mr. Grenville's death in 1846, it passed with his collection to the British Museum.

9. Eton College Library, Eton, Bucks, described by Henry Stevens in 1879 as measuring on the leaf  $13\frac{1}{8}$  inches in height and ruled throughout with red lines. It was originally bound in calf with the Royal Arms on the side, now rebound in green morocco of the eighteenth century, with the Arms cut from the old cover pasted inside. He also states that the title is cut down, inlaid and backed, the maps also pieced, inlaid and backed, on thin paper from a small paper copy, and the two portraits of the Duchess and Pocahontas not originals but reprints, the former being inlaid and backed. This copy belonged to Anthony Morris Storer (1746-1799), who accompanied the Earl of Carlisle to America in 1778-79, and the book was bequeathed by him to Eton College. On a fly-leaf is written: "This book belonged to King James the first. The Arms, which are pasted on the inside of the cover, were upon the outside of the original binding when I bought the Book. I met with it at Derby at a dirty Booksellers in that town. A. Storer." Information verified by Mr. Henry Broadbent, M.A., Librarian, in letters of 6 May, and 5 June, 1926, which give the width of the leaf as 8 3-10 inches, and state that at the time of writing the book contained the original impression of the portrait of the Duchess by Pass.

10. Lambeth Palace Library, London, described by Henry Stevens in 1879 as measuring 13 by  $8\frac{3}{4}$  inches on the leaf. "It is fresh, clean and nice, in old light brown calf gilt, paneled sides, with massive gilt corners, with the arms of Archbishop Abbot [1562-1633] on both sides. It is of course in its original state, and has never been rebound or tampered with. The four maps are all on thick or large paper, rather closely cut some of them, as they are not folded. There are no portraits of the Duchess of Richmond or Matoaka, and manifestly never were any, as there are no traces of these having been taken out."

11. University Library, Cambridge, England, measuring on the leaf  $13\frac{1}{4}$  inches in height, in contemporary calf, with panels and corner ornaments, and a crest, a leopard rampant, stamped on both covers. The four maps are on thick paper of the states described above. It was formerly in the possession of John Moore (1646-1714), bishop of Ely, whose library of 30,755 volumes was presented to the University in 1715 by King George I. On the reverse of the title is the bookplate commemorating the gift, designed by John Pine in 1736. Information obtained by Mr. Henry N. Stevens, through Messrs. Bowes and Bowes of Cambridge.

The engraved title of 1624 is followed by the type-printed title of 1625, with the device of John Dawson, representing a dolphin and anchor in a frame with the letters I D, and the motto "Princeps svbditorvm incolvmitatem procurans" (McKerrow no. 414). Two copies of this issue have been examined, both apparently in contemporary binding, and each containing the same states of three of the maps.

1. Huntington Library, San Gabriel, Cal., in plain calf, repaired, with bookplates of Sir Henry Edward Bunbury (1778-1860), and of his ancestor Sr. Thomas Hanmer of Hanmer in Com: Flint Baronet 1707. From the E. H. Bunbury sale in London, July, 1896, it passed into the E. D. Church collection. It measures 11 $\frac{1}{8}$  by 7 inches. The maps are sewed in and comprise Ould Virginia in the third state, with James Reeve, but without Adams Sound; Virginia in the ninth state, with Boollers bush instead of Bollers bush, and the page numbers 1692 and 1693; Summer IIs. in the first state, without "Penistons Redoute"; and New England in the fourth state, with Smith's motto, but before Paynes IIs was added. The portrait of the Duchess of Richmond and Lenox by W. Pass is sewed in with the type-printed title, and is the original impression with the letter w in the name Howard on an even line. The slip of Errata is pasted on the last page.

2. Herschel V. Jones, Minneapolis, Minn., in plain calf, with a crest, on a mount vert a cock ermine, wings expanded, stamped on both covers. Formerly in the collection of Thomas Pennant (1726-1798), whose great grand-daughter was the first wife of Rudolph William Basil Feilding, eighth earl of Denbigh; sold at the sale of the ninth earl at Sotheby's in March, 1913; owned afterwards by Herman LeRoy Edgar, and sold at his sale in January, 1921. It measures 11 $\frac{7}{8}$  by 7 $\frac{1}{2}$  inches, has the original fly-leaves, and a number of leaves untrimmed on the bottom margins. The portrait of the Duchess by W. Pass and the maps are sewed in as in the other copy, except that the Virginia map is readjusted on a new stub. The maps of Ould Virginia, the Summer IIs., and New England are of the same states as in the other copy, but the Virginia map is in the sixth state, with Sparkes content, but without the page numbers 1692 and 1693.

A third copy of the 1625 issue, very imperfect, no maps or plates, bound with the "True Travels" in original calf, was sold at Sotheby's in February, 1904.

Second state of the engraved title, with the two dates 1624 changed to 1626, and a crown added to the head of Charles, the superscription being altered from "Carolus Princes" to "Carolus Rex." The states of the maps found in this issue or which are appropriate to it are Ould Virginia first to fourth, Virginia fifth to tenth, Summer IIs. first to third, and New England third to fifth. Apparently some left over impressions of early states were bound with this issue. The following copies may be mentioned:

1. Preston Davie, Tuxedo, N. Y., in contemporary calf, with the Arms of the family of Coverts of Kent, Surrey and Sussex, in thirteen quarterings, stamped on both covers, rebacked. This, like two of the large paper copies described above, is from the Christie-Miller collection sold at Sotheby's in August, 1916. It was sold again with the Huntington duplicates in New York, January, 1917; and at the G. D. Smith sale in May, 1921. It measures  $11\frac{1}{8}$  by  $7\frac{3}{8}$  inches on the leaf. The maps comprise Ould Virginia in the third state, with James Reeve, but without Adams Sound; Virginia in the tenth state, with the page numbers 1690 and 1691; Summer IIs. in the third state, with James Reeve; and New England in the fourth state, with Smith's motto, but without Paynes IIs. The re-engraved portrait of the Duchess is inlaid.

2. Yale University Library, in old leather, formerly in the library of President Ezra Stiles (1727-1795), whose signature with the date 1775, is on the inside of the front cover, acquired by the library in 1784. It measures  $10\frac{7}{8}$  by 7 inches on the leaf, and contains three maps in the same states as those in the preceding copy, but lacks the Virginia map. It also has the portrait of the Duchess by Francis Delaram, described by Henry Stevens in June, 1879, as "growing" in the volume, but now mounted to face the title. Information furnished by Miss A. S. Pratt, reference librarian.

3. Massachusetts Historical Society, in modern green morocco, and with the names as owners of Joseph Wadsworth, 1696, Jonathan Mountfort, 1735, Jona Mountfort Junr, and Francis Wright, 1788, and given to the Society by Mrs. Francis Wright, daughter of Jonathan Mountfort Jr., Oct. 26, 1815. The early owner was probably Joseph Wadsworth (1667-1750), for many years treasurer of Boston. The maps comprise the first state of Ould Virginia, tenth state of Virginia, and fifth state of New England. The map of the Summer IIs. is lacking. The portrait of the Duchess by W. Pass is included, with the names of the four former owners written on the back. Information furnished by Mr. Julius H. Tuttle, Librarian.

4. John Carter Brown Library, in eighteenth century mottled calf, lacking the border of the title and the Ould Virginia map, but with the tenth state of Virginia, first state of Summer IIs., fourth state of New England, and the slip of Errata.

5. New York Public Library, R. L. Stuart collection, in red morocco by Bedford, with the second state of Ould Virginia, tenth state of Virginia, third state of Summer IIs., and an inserted eighth state of New England.

6. Huntington Library, in green morocco by Bedford, with the fourth state of Ould Virginia, tenth state of Virginia, third state of Summer IIs., and eighth state of New England. Also the added portrait of the Duchess as re-engraved, and the original portrait of Pocahontas.

7. Grenville Kane, in green morocco perhaps by Lewis, with the first state of Ould Virginia, fifth state of Virginia, first state of Summer IIs., and third state of New England. Also the added portrait of the Duchess by Pass. This copy is interesting for the early states of the maps, similar to those in some copies of the 1624 issue.

Third state of the engraved title, with the imprint date changed to 1627. The states of the maps found in this issue or which are appropriate to it, are Ould Virginia fourth, Virginia eighth to tenth, Summer IIs. third, and New England fifth to seventh. The following copies may be mentioned:

1. George Arents, Jr., New York, in contemporary calf, with panels and corner ornaments, rebacked and relined, with the Arms of William Scymour (1588-1660), Earl of Hertford, on both covers. The book was later in the possession of Sr. Archibald Grant of Monymoske, Bart., who died in 1778, and has his bookplate, and his name written on the dedication leaf. It was purchased in 1925 from the Grant family and acquired by Mr. Arents in 1926. The leaf measures  $11\frac{3}{8}$  by  $7\frac{1}{8}$  inches. The maps are untrimmed except at the top, in their original folds, and comprise Ould Virginia in the fourth state, with Adams Sound above C Henry; Virginia in the tenth state, with the page numbers 1690 and 1691; Summer IIs. in the third state, with James Reeve, on thicker paper; and New England in the fifth state, still with Geor: Low as printer and with Paynes IIs added.

2. John Carter Brown Library, bound with the "True Travels," 1630, in contemporary calf with the Royal Arms on both covers, rebacked. It measures on the leaf  $11\frac{3}{8}$  by  $7\frac{3}{8}$  inches. The maps are untrimmed and comprise Ould Virginia, fourth state, with Adams Sound above C Henry; Virginia in the tenth state with the page numbers 1690 and 1691; Summer IIs. in the third state, with James Reeve; and New England in the seventh state with the words "nowe King" in the title, but without the N. E. Council Arms in the center of the map.

3. Grenville Kane, Tuxedo, N. Y., bound with the "True Travels," 1630, in contemporary calf with panels and corner ornaments and the Royal Arms on both covers. From the library of Sir George Webbe Dasent (1817-1896), having his signature when a student at Magdalen College, Oxford, on the front fly-leaf; later in the library of William M. Ivins (1851-1915); acquired by the present owner in 1916. It measures  $10\frac{7}{8}$  by  $7\frac{1}{4}$  inches on the leaf. The maps have been repaired and re-folded, and comprise Ould Virginia in the fourth state recently added, Virginia in the tenth state, Summer IIs. in the third state, and New England in the ninth state, evidently a later addition. The portrait of the Duchess by W. Pass is added. Paste marks show that the slip of Errata was formerly on page 248.

4. Boston Public Library, in contemporary plain calf, rebacked and relined, and having the bookplate used by Thomas Prince (1687-1758) for the New-England-Library, left by him in charge of the Old South Society and deposited by its custodians in the public library in 1866. The book contains manuscript notes by Prince, and on a fly-leaf the statement by Joseph Peirce of the Society that it was recovered by him at an auction sale in 1814 "after having been out of the New England Library upwards of forty years, as supposed." The leaf measures  $11\frac{1}{4}$  by  $7\frac{1}{2}$  inches. The maps, which are mounted on linen, comprise Ould Virginia in the fourth state, with Adams Sound; Virginia in the tenth state, with the page numbers 1690 and 1691; Summer IIs. in the third state, with James Reeve; and New England in the sixth state, with James Reeue and the word "Prince" in the last line of the title. Information furnished by Mr. Charles F. D. Belden, Director.

5. New York Public Library, bound with the "True Travels," in russia, marked on the fly-leaf as the Duke of Marlborough's copy, but not corresponding with the description in the sale catalogue of 1819; containing the fourth state of Ould Virginia, third state of Virginia, third state of Summer IIs., and sixth state of New England. Also the added portraits of the Duchess and Pocahontas as re-engraved. Paste marks show that the slip of Errata was formerly on page 248.

6. New York Public Library, second copy, in modern red morocco by Hayday, with the fourth state of Ould Virginia, tenth state of Virginia, third state of Summer IIs., and the fifth state of New England. Also the added portrait of Pocahontas by S. Pass.

7. Huntington Library, in modern brown morocco by Rivière, Murphy-Church copy, with the fourth state of Ould Virginia, the eighth state of Virginia, third state of Summer IIs., and sixth state of New England. Also the added portraits, both original and re-engraved, of the Duchess by W. Pass and of Pocahontas by S. Pass.

8. Pierpont Morgan Library, in modern red morocco, by W. Pratt, with the fourth state of Ould Virginia, tenth state of Virginia, third state of Summer IIs. and an inserted ninth state of New England.

9. Grenville Kane, in modern red morocco by Bedford, Menzies-Ives copy, with the fourth state of Ould Virginia, tenth state of Virginia, third state of Summer IIs., and sixth state of New England. Also the portraits of the Duchess by W. Pass, with full margins, and of Pocahontas by S. Pass, and the slip of Errata.

Fourth state of the engraved title, with imprint date altered to 1631. The only copy located is the one in the John Carter Brown Library, bought at the Huth sale in July, 1918. When first acquired by Henry Huth (1815-1878), it was probably bound with the "True Travels," 1630, and is so described in a bookseller's catalogue, of which a cutting has been preserved. Mr. Huth had them bound separately in maroon morocco, by Bedford. The maps comprise Ould Virginia in the fourth state with Adams Sound above C Henry; Virginia in the tenth state with the Purchas page numbers 1690 and 1691; Summer IIs. in the third state with James Reeve; and New England in the seventh state with "nowe King" in the title, but without the Council Arms. Also the added portraits of the Duchess by W. Pass and of Pocahontas by S. Pass.

There are two issues of the book, containing the fifth and sixth states of the engraved title with the 1632 date and altered imprint, the earlier with the portrait of King Charles as in the 1626, 1627 and 1631 issues, the later with the head re-engraved to look older, the eyes to the front instead of slightly to the left, but with crown and bust unaltered. The states of the maps which are found in this issue or which are appropriate to it are Ould Virginia fourth, Virginia tenth, Summer IIs. third, and New England sixth to ninth. The ninth state of New England belongs properly to Hondy's "Historia Mundi or Mercators Atlas," London, 1635, reissued in 1637 and 1639, but is found in some copies of the "General Historie" of 1632, which may have been put together and bound in 1634 or later.

1. Library of Harvard University, fifth state of the title, in old panelled calf, repaired, listed in "Bibliotheca Americo-Septentrionalis," Paris, 1820, the catalogue of the library of David B. Warden (1778-1845), American consul at Paris, which was given to Harvard by Samuel A. Eliot in 1823. The maps comprise the fourth state of Ould Virginia with Adams Sound, the third state of Summer IIs., with James Reeve, and the sixth state of New England with James Reeve and the word "Prince" in the last line of the title. The Virginia map is lacking.

2. John Carter Brown Library, fifth state of the title, in red morocco by Hayday, purchased in 1847, and with three maps appropriate to the 1632 issue as follows: Virginia in the tenth state, with the Purchas page numbers 1690 and 1691; Summer IIs. in the third state with James Reeve; New England in the sixth state as in the preceding copy, and a second one in the ninth state with the fishes and reference to Wood's book. Ould Virginia is in the third state, usually found in earlier issues. Also the added portraits of the Duchess and Pocahontas, both original and re-engraved. Richardson's engraving of the portrait of John Smith copied from the map of New England is inserted to face the title. The 1624 title is also added.

3. New York Public Library, fifth state of the title, in half brown morocco by Stikeman, from the Lenox collection, with maps as follows: Ould Virginia in the fourth state with Adams Sound; Virginia in the tenth state, and Summer IIs. in the third state as in the Harvard copy; and New England in the eighth state with the N. E. Council Arms, but without the reference to Wood's book. Also the re-engraved portraits of the Duchess and Pocahontas. The title though much repaired below the portraits in a way to suggest that it is made up of two engravings, appears upon careful examination to be a genuine example of the fifth issue.

4. John Carter Brown Library, sixth state of the title, in contemporary plain calf, formerly owned by William Anstruther, a gentleman of the bedchamber to James I., died 1649, with his name and the date February 3d 1635, written on the leaf facing the title, and the bookplate of Sr. John Anstruther of that ilk Baronet, who succeeded to the baronety of Anstruther in 1711, and died in 1753, a collateral descendant. Purchased in 1854. It measures 11 $\frac{3}{8}$  by 7 $\frac{3}{8}$  inches on the leaf. The maps, which are untrimmed and in the contemporary sewing, comprise Ould Virginia in the fourth state with Adams Sound; Virginia in the tenth state with the Purchas page numbers 1690 and 1691; Summer IIs. in the third state with James Reeve; and New England in the seventh state, with the words "nowe King," but without the N. E. Council Arms.

5. Huntington Library, sixth state of the title, in contemporary plain calf. On the verso of the title are the two inscriptions "Arthur Cotton His Booke" and "George De Horne his booke 1712." The former owner was perhaps George De Horne (1662-1729), a descendant of Oliver De Horne, who came from Flanders to England in 1605. The book was later in the E. D. Church collection. The measurement of the leaf is 11 $\frac{5}{8}$  by 7 $\frac{1}{4}$  inches, and the maps, which are untrimmed and in the contemporary sewing, comprise the fourth state of Ould Virginia, tenth state of Virginia, and third state of Summer IIs., as in the preceding copy, and a possibly inserted ninth state of New England. There are many marginal MS. notes, as described in the Church Catalogue, and at the end a MS. "Catalogue of severall fishing Voiages which haue ben performed in New England from the yere. 1614. to the yeere. 1624. from diuerse parts of this Land."

6. Grenville Kane, Tuxedo, New York, sixth state of the title, in early panelled calf, with the inscription "Richard Benson his booke" on the title, and the bookplate of his son Henry Benson Esqr. of Dodford in Northamptonshire, who flourished in 1685, and whose daughter and heiress married into the Knightley family of Fawsley in the same county, a modern bookplate of that family being also in the book. It measures  $10\frac{5}{8}$  by  $7\frac{1}{8}$  inches on the leaf, and contains maps as follows, the fourth state of Ould Virginia, tenth state of Virginia, third state of the Summer IIs., as in the preceding copies, and the ninth state of New England, with the fishes and reference to Wood's book.

Other copies with the sixth state of the title are in the New York Public and other libraries.

SMITH. The Generall Historie of Virginia, etc., Richmond, 1819. See under "True Travels," 1819, infra.

SMITH. The Generall Historie of Virginia, New England & The Summer Isles. Together with The True Travels, Adventures and Observations, and A Sea Grammar. By Captaine John Smith Sometymes Governour in those Countreyes and Admirall of New England . . . Glasgow: James MacLehose and Sons. Publishers to the University. MCMVII. 2 vols., 8vo, pp. xxxiii, (3), 395, (2); (2), xix, 329, (2). 11 maps and plates, 9 folded. 82830

The process fac-similes included comprise: the engraved title-page of the "Generall Historie," first state; the portrait of the Duchess of Richmond and Lenox engraved by W. Pass, and the Richardson reprint of the portrait of Pocahontas; the maps of Ould Virginia second state, Summer IIs. third state, Virginia tenth state, and New England eighth state; the title-page of the "True Travels," 1630, Smith's Arms, and the folded plate in nine compartments; also the title-page of "A Sea Grammar," 1627. The Arms granted by Sigismund Bathor to Smith and the seal of the former are reproduced in the text as in the original "True Travels."

Other reprints of the "Generall Historie," are included in Pinkerton's "General Collection," and in Arber's editions of Smith's "Works."

SMITH. The Last Will and Testament of Captain John Smith; with some additional memoranda relating to him. Abbay, on one leaf; text of "Proceedings," pp. 110. * in four, A-E in fours; A-O in fours, P in two, the second blank.

Three copies of the book exist with an extra printed leaf inserted, verso blank, as follows:

1. New York Public Library, with the inserted leaf of address signed John Smith, presenting the book "To the Right Honourable Sr. Edward Semer Knight, Baron Beauchamp, Earle of Hartford," etc., (1539?-1621), and containing the first state of the map. The Earl of Hertford's own copy, being bound in contemporary limp vellum, with his Arms on both covers. It was later in the library of Francis William Caulfeild (1775-1863), second earl of Charlemont, being no. 156* of the catalogue of his sale at Sotheby's on August 11, 1865, when it was bought by Henry Stevens, who sold it to James Lenox.

2. A copy in the possession of the Rosenbach Company, in October, 1926, containing the same inserted address to the Earl of Hertford, and the first state of the map. It was formerly in the library of Robert Stayner Holford (1808-1892), of Dorchester House, London, and of his son Lt. Col. Sir George Lindsay Holford (1860-1926), being at that time in a volume of pamphlets, now bound separately in modern olive morocco by the MacDonald Company.

3. Grenville Kane, Tuxedo, New York, with a different inserted address signed by Philip Fote, who claims to "have occasioned the Impression," presenting the book "To The Right Worshipfull Thomas Watson, and Iohn Bingley, Esquiers," and containing the third state of the map. Formerly in the E. D. Church collection, bought by Mr. Henry E. Huntington in April, 1911, it was later exchanged by the Huntington library. Bound in modern red morocco by Bedford. A fac-simile on old paper of the Fote address, made from this copy in February, 1899, is laid in no. 1, described above.

For a statement of the circumstances under which the book was published, see Brown's "Genesis," vol. 2, pp. 597-601. The W. S. whose initials appear as reviser of the "Proceedings," is named William Simons in the reprint on p. 41 of the "Generall Historie." This was the Rev. William Symonds, who preached the first sermon before the Virginia Company in 1609 (Brown's "Genesis," pp. 1029-1030). It appears from T. Abbay's address to the reader in the second part that Richard Pots was the original compiler of that part, and that Abbay himself was responsible for its publication, as he was probably for the first part also, since the initials signed to the prefatory address "To the Hand" are T. A. See Arber's edition of Smith's "Works," vol. 1, p. 86, for a statement about the composite authorship.

The first part of the book, without much change, and the second with many additions were reprinted as the second and third books of the "Generall Historie," 1624. It was also reprinted with some omissions and similar enlargements in Purchas, vol. 4, pp. 1691-1733, the chapter heading for the first part reading as follows: "The description of Virginia by Captaine Iohn Smith, enlarged out of his written Notes." The edition of 1612 was reprinted in Arber's editions of Smith's "Works," pp. 41-174; and in the Virginia volume of "Original Narratives of Early American History," pp. 73-204, including the Edward Semer presentation leaf.

The map of Virginia exists in at least ten states, of which only the three following can properly belong to this book.

First state, without Smith's Arms and without the dates 1607 and 1606, the former date under the picture of Powhatan and the latter under the scale of leagues, which has the inscription, Discovered and Discribed by Captayn Iohn Smith | Grauen by William Hole. The degrees of latitude are figured on the lower or eastern border only, the three other borders having no degree marks. There are about two hundred place-names, the new names which were subsequently added and other alterations numbering about twenty-five. This state is found in two copies of the book belonging to the New York Public Library, and in the William L. Clements copy. A reduced fac-simile is in Brown's "Genesis," vol. 2, facing p. 596.

Second state, with the added dates 1607 and 1606, but without Smith's Arms. An impression mounted on linen is in Mr. Adrian Van Sinderen's copy of the book, formerly A. T. White's, from the Lefferts sale at Sotheby's, June, 1902. Dr. George Watson Cole was the first to call attention to this state, in 1921, in announcing the acquisition by the Huntington Library of a separate impression. Later information describes it as being folded once, vertically, with a guard slip pasted on the back along the fold, indicating that it was once in a folio volume. The same state may have been used in some copies of the "Generall Historie."

Third state, with the addition of Smith's Arms, but without the motto and with no new place-names. This state is in the Church-Huntington and Pierpont Morgan copies of the "Map of Virginia," 1612, but may have been inserted. It was used later for some copies of the "Generall Historie."

The later states are described under the "Generall Historie." See Worthington C. Ford's article on Captain John Smith's Map of Virginia, 1612, in the "Geographical Review" for July, 1924, vol. 14, pp. 433-443, for a discussion as to the origin of this map.

SMITH. New | Englands | Trials. | Declaring the successe of
 26. Ships | employed thither within these sixe yeares: | with the benefit of that Countrey by sea and | land: and how to build three-score sayle | of good Ships, to make a little | Navie Royall. | Written by Captaine | Iohn Smith. | [Ornament.] | London, | Printed
 by VVilliam Iones. | 1620. | 4to, pp. (20). 82833

Collation: 2 preliminary leaves, comprising the title, verso blank, and the address (which varies) signed by Iohn Smith, verso blank; text, 8 leaves not paged. [A] in two, B and C in fours.

The book was begun by Smith as early as 1618, to encourage fishing and colonizing "trials" to New England. A draft was sent to Lord Bacon in that year, with a letter urging favorable consideration, both preserved in the State Paper Office in London. See Arber's introduction to Smith's "Works," pp. cxxi-cxxiii. It was finally entered at Stationers' Hall, December 11, 1620, and published in a large edition. In the "Generall Historie," page 230, Smith says: "I caused two or three thousand of them to be printed, one thousand with a great many Maps both of Virginia and New-England, I presented to thirty of the chiefe Companies in London at their Halls." Notwithstanding the number of copies printed, it is now very rare, there being no record of any public sale until 1924, and no copy in any American collection before 1895.

Of the four known copies, each has a different heading for the presentation address, the usual form being as in no. 1, below. If 1000 copies were distributed equally to thirty Companies, it would average about thirty copies to each, in which the name of the Company would head the address, as in no. 2. Those which were presented to noblemen were inscribed as in nos. 3 and 4.

1. Bodleian Library, Oxford, in the possession of the library as early as 1674, and appearing in Thomas Hyde's "Catalogus Impressorum Librorum Bibliothecæ Bodleianæ," of that date. This has what was probably the usual address, "To the Right Honorable and Worthy aduenter to all discoueries and Plantations, espetially to New England."

2. British Museum, the title appearing in its earliest printed catalogue of 1787. This has the address to one of the thirty companies mentioned by Smith, being inscribed "To the Right Worshipful the Maister, the Wardens, and the Companie of the Fish-mongers," the text following being from the same setting of type as that of the preceding copy.

3. Newberry Library, Chicago. The address in this copy is worded differently from the two preceding, and is inscribed "To the Right Honorable Sir Edward Coke Knight, one of his Maiesties most honorable priuie Councill." Chief-Justice Coke (1552-1634), author of the law Reports and commentary on Littleton, was a member of parliament when Smith's book was printed. The Newberry copy is in the collection of Americana presented by Mr. Edward E. Ayer, who bought the book from Henry N. Stevens in May, 1895.

4. Huntington Library, San Gabriel, Cal. The text of the presentation address is from the same setting of type as that of the preceding copy, and is inscribed "To the Right Honorable, Sir Iohn Egerton, Lord Elismere, Viscount Brackley, Earle of Bridgewater." This was the first earl (1579-1649), son of the founder of the library at Bridgewater House, where the book must have been from the time of its publication. When it was discarded is not known with certainty, but it may have been among the "Duplicates of a Nobleman's Library," the property of Francis Egerton, third and last Duke of Bridgewater (1736-1803), sold in London, April 27, 1802, printed catalogue in the British Museum. In 1924 it turned up again, among books from an "Old Country House Library," sold at Sotheby's on April 15th of that year, and was bought for Mr. Huntington, rejoining in this way, after the lapse of more than a century, the Bridgewater books already in the Huntington Library. Mr. J. P. Collier, in his "Bibliographical and Critical Account" of the Bridgewater Library

(London, 1865), mentions that before the collection came into the possession of the first Earl of Ellesmere, some highly important works had been turned out of it, in many instances under the mistaken impression that they were duplicates.

SMITH. New England's Trials written by Captain John Smith. A reprint of the rare first edition of 1620. With a prefatory note by Charles Deane. Cambridge: Press of John Wilson and Son. 1873. Small 4to, pp. 10, (22), and printed front cover. 82834

This was printed in the Mass. Hist. Soc. "Proceedings," 1871-73, from a transcript of the Bodleian copy, with remarks by Mr. Deane on pp. 428-432, and the page for page reprint on the ten leaves following page 447. Mr. Deane believed the transcript followed was an exact copy, but he probably did not have an opportunity to verify it. A comparison made by Henry Stevens in 1879, of this reprint with the British Museum original, raised the question whether the Bodleian might be a variant edition, because of the many differences, but a recent photostat proves that both originals are alike. Fifty copies were reprinted on thick paper in separate form as above, and one copy on antique paper for the editor, no. 3283 of the Deane sale. According to a MS. note by Mr. Deane in the presentation copy to Mr. Lenox in the New York Public Library, it is one of twelve containing a facsimile of the first state of the New England map, engraved by C. A. Swett. Another reprint of the first edition, from the British Museum copy, is in Arber's edition of Smith's "Works," pp. 233-248.

SMITH. New Englands | Trials. | Declaring the successe of 80
Ships | employed thither within these eight yeares; | and the benefit of that Countrey by Sea | and Land. | With the present estate of that happie Plan- | tation, begun but by 60 weake men | in the yeare 1620. | And how to build a Fleete of good Shippes | to make a little Nauie Royall. | Written by Captaine Iohn Smith, sometimes Go- | uernour of Virginia, and Admirall | of New England. | The second Edition. | [Ornament.] | London, | Printed by William
Iones. | 1622. | 4to, pp. (32). NYP. 82835

Collation: 3 preliminary leaves, comprising the title, verso blank, dedication "To the Most High and Excellent Prince Charles," etc., signed Io. Smith, in two pages, and "To the Right Honorable and Right Worthy Adventurers, to all Plantations and Discoveries, their friends and well-willers, especially of Virginia and New England," signed Io. Smith, in two pages; text 13 leaves not paged. Signatures A-D in fours.

The new edition carries the account down to October, 1622, describing the plantation in New England begun in 1620, with a letter from William Hilton in New Plymouth, December, 1621, and a digression on Smith's way of dealing with the Indians in Virginia, and how "God made Pocahontas the Kings daughter the meanes to deliuer me."

Mr. Winsor, in his "Earliest Printed Sources of New England History," 1894, remarks that "the type of the second edition was probably kept standing for a while, since copies in the British Museum and the Bodleian show changes to be accounted for in that way." Just what these changes are has not been ascertained.

SMITH. New Englands Trials. Declaring the successe of 80 Ships employed thither within these eight yeares; and the benefit of that Countrey by Sea and Land. With the present estate of that happie Plantation, begun but by 60 weake men in the yeare 1620.

And how to build a Fleete of good Shippes to make a little Naue Royall. Written by Captaine Iohn Smith, sometimes Gouvernour of Virginia, and Admirall of New-England. The second Edition. London, Printed by William Iones. 1622. [On reverse of title:] P. Force, Washington, 1837. 8vo, pp. 23. Sheets 1-3 in fours.

Included in Force's "Tracts," vol. 2, 1838, and possibly some separates issued. A reprint based on Force, with spelling modernized, was published as the second number of the second volume of "American Colonial Tracts," Rochester, N. Y.: George P. Humphrey, June, 1898, 8vo, pp. 23 and covers.

SMITH. New Englands Trials. Declaring the successe of 80 Ships employed thither within these eight yeares; and the benefit of that Countrey by Sea and Land. With the present estate of that happie Plantation, begun but by 60 weake men in the yeare 1620. And how to build a Fleete of good Shippes to make a little Naue Royall. Written by Captaine Iohn Smith, sometimes Gouvernour of Virginia, and Admirall of New England. The second Edition. London, Printed by William Iones. 1622. [On verso of title:] Riverside Press: Printed by H. O. Houghton and Company. Cambridge. [1867.] Royal 8vo, pp. (32). NYP. 82837

Reprinted for Mr. John Carter Brown in April, 1867. There are two copies of this reprint in the New York Public Library which differ as follows. One has only the Riverside Press imprint on reverse of the title, and is bound in contemporary maroon cloth, without any date or statement by Mr. Brown. In the other copy the words "Sixty Copies Printed for John Carter Brown. No. —," are inserted above the Riverside Press imprint, which is moved lower down; an extra printed leaf is prefixed, containing a short statement that "the reprint is a fac-simile, page for page, including the wood-cut ornaments, of the original," signed and dated, "J. C. B., Providence, R. I., April, 1867"; and the front paper cover has the printed title, "New England's Trials." No. 1 of this form was presented to James Lenox by Mr. Brown, April 30, 1867. The John Carter Brown Library has copies like the latter, and also two other varieties, one having only the Riverside Press imprint preceded by the extra printed leaf, the other without the extra leaf but with the statement about the number printed. These four varieties are on large paper in royal octavo size. The note in the Menzies catalogue, no. 1479, states that ten copies were printed on small paper, but no such record has been found at the Brown Library. The statement in the preliminary leaf that the reprint is a fac-simile, page for page, is not correct, as many of the pages do not correspond to the original.

Other reprints are in Arber's edition of Smith's "Works," pp. 249-272, and in "Chronicles of the Pilgrim Fathers" (Everyman's Library), 1910, pp. 241-266.

A folio edition of "De Gedenkwaardige Reizen" supra, included in vol. 1 of Pieter vander Aa's "Wijd-Beroemde Voyagien . . . gedaan door de Engelsen," printed in 1706 and 1707, and reissued in 1727, concerning which see note to the "Avontuurlijke Reys-togten." The text is rearranged in two columns to a page, making 120 columns, misnumbered 119, besides the title leaf, and three more leaves to complete the Register. The engravings printed in the text in some cases show traces of the numbers marked on the copper-plates for use in the octavo edition. The map is printed on the same sheet with one of the other maps in another part of the same volume.

Collation: 6 preliminary leaves, comprising the title, verso blank, the first address "To all the Right Honorable, and most generous Lords in England," etc., signed Iohn Smith, in two pages, the address "To the Reader," etc., signed Iohn Smith, on one page, complimentary verses addressed to Smith, in five pages, and the contents in two pages; the text, pp. 76 (pp. 54, 55, 73-76, are mispaged 55, 54, 83-86). A in two, (a) in four, B-K in fours, L in two. The title-page is ornamented by a head-piece in four compartments containing the crowned symbols of England, France, Scotland and Ireland.

An enlarged and rearranged edition of the "Accidence," 1626, in which Smith had written, "if I find you kindly and friendly accept it, I meane ere long, more largely to explaine the particulers." In the later book he wrote, "I have adventured, encouraged by the good entertainment of my late printed Accidence." It was "caused to be printed by my worthy friend Sir Samuel Saltonstall," see "Epistle Dedicatorie" of the "True Travels," 1630, and was entered at Stationers' Hall, August 13, 1627. Reprinted from the Bodleian copy, with a process fac-simile of the original title-page, in the edition of the "Generall Historie" published in Glasgow in 1907, vol. 2, pp. 207-299.

Collation: 2 preliminary leaves comprising the title, verso blank, an address "To the Reader, and all worthy Adventurers by Sea, and well-wishers to Navigation," on one page, and the contents on one page; the text, pp. 75 (pp. 40, and 73-75 are mispaged 38 and 83-85). [A] in two, B-K in fours, L in two.

A reprint in black letter of "A Sea Grammar," 1627, the arrangement of paragraphs and pages being followed approximately, and the errors in pagination at the end being repeated. Both dedications and the poems addressed to Smith in the earlier edition were omitted and an unsigned address "To the Reader," by the editor was substituted. The Thomason copy in the British Museum has the date of publication, November 6, 1652, added in manuscript.

 153-163. Table and plate. NYP. 82841

Collation: 4 preliminary leaves comprising the title, verso blank, the address of "The Printer to the Reader, And all worthy Adventurers by Sea, and well-wishers to Navigation," signed B. N., in two pages, "The Contents Of the Grammar," in two pages, and "The Contents Of Gunnery," in two pages; the text of the first book, pp. 83, verso blank (page 78 mispaged 87); the text "Of Gunnery. Book II.," pp. 85-136, (24), 153-163. [A]-Y in fours, Z in two. The twenty-four pages between 136 and 153, sheets T, U and X are mispaged, sheet T as 129-136; the four leaves of sheet U as 133 and 138, 139 and 136, 129 and 142, 143 and 132; and the four leaves of sheet X as 133 and 134, 135 and 136, 137 and 130, 131 and 140. The errors of sheet U were altered to 133-144 in the issues of 1692 and 1699. Pages 78 and 96 are also mispaged 87 and 86. Leaf T 3, mispaged 133-134, is cancelled in all the copies examined, and a substitute inserted. A copy of the 1692 issue having both the cancel and substitute is described in Quaritch's Catalogue 397, for January, 1926. The folded table giving "A Description of a Ship with all her Tackling," and the folded plate of a full-rigged ship, illustrating it, are usually placed between the preliminary pages and the text.

The first book is a reprint of chapters 1-13 and 15 of the "Sea Grammar" taken from the "Sea-mans Grammar" of 1653, to which are added two alphabetical tables, one an index, the other a glossary. Chapter 14, on ordnance, with slight changes and omissions, becomes chapter 1 of the second book in this edition, the rest of which is by the printer, B. N., as is apparent from his preface. The title is entered in the Term Catalogue for Trinity, or June, 1691, with imprint, Sold by T. Dring at the Harrow in Fleet street, indicating that some copies were issued in that form. Dring was one of the publishers of the 1692 issue.

Entry for publication was made at Stationers' Hall on August 13, 1608, by William Welby the printer and John Tappe the publisher, under the title "A true relation," etc., without name of author. The book was edited by I. H., and printed in black letter, with running page heading, "Newes from Virginia." Although it was Smith's first published work, his name did not appear on the title-page in the earlier issues, because the authorship was unknown to the editor, into whose hands the manuscript came by chance, "at the second or third hand." It appears from the editor's three-page address "To the Courteous Reader," that certain portions of the manuscript were omitted, "being as I thought (fit to be priuate) I would not aduenture to make it publicke."

The tenth line of the title as first printed read, "Written by a Gentleman of the said Collony, to a worshipfull," which was changed later to "Written by Th. Watson Gent. one of the said Collony, to a,"—the word "worshipfull" being pushed over into the next line. The third issue of the title had the correction, "Written by Capitaine Smith Coronell of the said Collony, to a," which in several copies was altered by hand in an attempt to blot out the first three and last two letters of the word "Coronell" so that it would read "one,"—the line being  $3\frac{1}{8}$  inches in length as in the earlier issues. What seems to be a fourth issue read, "Written by Capitaine Smith one of the said Collony, to a," the word "Coronell" being left out and the line shortened by respacing to  $3\frac{1}{4}$  inches. In partial explanation of these alterations, the editor stated that "some of the bookes were printed vnder the name of Thomas Watson, by whose occasion I know not, vnlesse it were the ouer rashnesse, or mistaking of the workemen, but since hauing learned that the said discourse was written by Capitaine Smith, who is one of the Counsell there in Virginia: I thought good to make the like apolloge, by shewing the true Author so farre as my selfe could learne," etc.

Although there are several issues of the title there is only one edition of the book and one setting of the type. The blank leaf before the title has a large letter "A" printed on the lower margin, the title being on the second leaf of the sheet. Some typographical errors were corrected in the course of printing off the sheets, of which the following have been noticed. Sheet A, 4th leaf verso, line 24, the sentence "inplagued vs with such fain and sicknes," was corrected to "plagued vs with such fain and sicknes," and four lines further down a comma after the word "cause" was changed to a colon. Sheet C, 1st leaf verso, line 18, the words "At heade sat a woman," were corrected to read "At his heade sat a woman"; 2d leaf recto, line 6, in the sentence "whiche wee supposed Monocan his enemy, whose death we intended to reuenge," the words "had done" were inserted after "enemy"; 4th leaf recto, line 13, "Cape Henricke" was changed to "Cape Henrie," and five lines below the words "all of" were altered to "all of." Sheet E, 2d leaf verso, near the bottom, the words "I affrighted, the other first with thereat," were made to read "I affrighted the other, first with the rack"; 3d leaf recto, line 10, a comma after the word "occasion" was taken out. The first six of these errors are found in the New York Public Library copy with the fourth issue of the title, and two others in the copy with the third issue in the same library. The earliest impressions of the unfolded sheets were presumably at the bottom of the pile, and the corrected impressions at the top; so that the first copies of the pamphlet to be bound with the earliest issues of the title would be likely to contain the corrected sheets.

Two copies with the "Gentleman" issue of the title as above have been located:

1. New York Public Library, with the blank leaf marked "A" before the title, and the address to the reader by I. H., bound in red morocco by F. Bedford. It was formerly in the library of Francis William Caulfeild, second earl of Charlemont (1775-1863), sold at Sotheby's on August 11, 1865, as no. 175 of the catalogue, under "H. (J.);" as author. It was bought by Henry Stevens, who sold it to James Lenox.

2. New York Historical Society, lacking the preliminary blank leaf "A" but having the address to the reader by I. H.; formerly in a bound volume of pamphlets, but now broken out and preserved in a cloth case. It belonged to the library of Rev. Francis L. Hawks (1798-1866), presented to the Society in 1867 by William Niblo. See the catalogue of the Hawks-Niblo Collection, appended to E. A. Duyckinck's memorial volume, New York, 1871, p. 145.

[SMITH.] A | True Re- | lation of such occur- | rences and accidents of noate as | hath hapned in Virginia since the first | planting of that Collony, which is now | resident in the South part thereof, till | the last returne from | thence. | Written by Th. Watson Gent. one of the said Collony, to a | worshipfull friend of his in England. | [Woodcut of a ship.] | London | Printed for Iohn Tappe, and are to bee solde at the Grey- | hound in Paules-Church-yard, by W. W. | 1608 | 4to, pp. (44), unpagued. A-E in fours, the first blank; and ¶ in two inserted after the title.

The second issue of the title, the Thomas Watson wrongly named as author being one of the incorporators of the Company under the second Virginia charter in 1609. Four copies are known, two of which have been examined.

1. New York Historical Society, with the blank leaf "A" before the title and the address of I. H., unbound in a cloth case. It is mentioned in the Society's "Proceedings" for 1843, but does not appear in the printed catalogue of 1813. The reprint of Richmond, 1845, was made from this copy.

2. Huntington Library, lacking the original blank leaf "A," fac-simile being inserted, but containing the address of I. H., broken out of a bound volume of pamphlets, and preserved in a cloth case. It was formerly owned by Rufus King (1755-1827), United States minister to Great Britain from 1796 to 1803, and was in the library given by the family to the New York Historical Society in March, 1906, being sold as a duplicate in 1924.

3. British Museum, with the address of I. H., and inserted map, bound in green morocco. Probably no. 249 of the Henry Jadis sale, at Evans's, March 3-4, 1828; acquired by Thomas Grenville (1755-1846), and bequeathed with his library to the Museum. The description by Lowndes, 1834 edition, p. 1913, apparently from the Jadis copy, notes the presence of the blank leaf A 1, but errs in calling E 4 blank.

4. British Museum, a second copy, with press-mark C. 33. c. 35, lacking the address of I. H. and perhaps the blank leaf. In the possession of the Museum as early as 1787, being entered in the printed catalogue of that date, under the name Watson.

SMITH. A | True Re- | lation of such occur- | rences and accidents of noate as | hath hapned in Virginia since the first | planting of that Collony, which is now | resident in the South part thereof, till | the last returne from | thence. | Written by Captaine Smith Coronell of the said Collony, to a | worshipfull friend of his in England. | [Woodcut of a ship.] | London | Printed for Iohn Tappe, and are to bee solde at the Grey- | hound in Paules-Church-yard, by W. W. | 1608 | 4to, pp. (44), unpagued. A-E in fours, the first blank; and ¶ in two inserted after the title.

The third issue of the title, and the first with Smith's name as author, but wrongly calling him "Coronell." Traces of stains in several copies over the letters "Cor" and "ll," show that an attempt was made to blot out those letters, so that the word "one" would remain.

1. Huntington Library, with the preliminary blank leaf "A" and the address to the reader, in modern boards. The treated letters "Cor" and "ll" of the word "Coronell" are fainter than the others and the stains caused by the attempt to obliterate them are apparent. Formerly in the possession of the Drake family, it was no. 196 of the sale at Sotheby's, March, 1883, of the "Library commenced by an eminent Admiral in the reign of Queen Elizabeth and continued by his Descendants," and later no. 3271 of the sale of Mr. Charles Deane, in 1898, when it was bought for Mr. E. D. Church, and passed with his collection to Mr. Henry E. Huntington in April, 1911.

2. John Carter Brown Library, with the blank leaf "A" but without the address to the reader ( a reprint from the British Museum copy being inserted), bound in green morocco by Cecil and Larkins for Mr. Brown. Possibly as the result of washing, the stains around the treated letters in the word "Coronell" have spread as have the names written in ink on other parts of the title-page, traces being evident on the reverse of the title also. The copy belonged formerly to Henry John Peachey (1787-1838), 3rd Baron Selsey, F.R.S., whose library was sold at Sotheby's, June 20, 1872, the book being acquired at that time.

3. New York Public Library, lacking the blank leaf "A" but containing the address to the reader, in olive morocco. In the word "Coronell" the treated letters are fainter than the others, the stains around them being slight on the title, but distinctly brown on the reverse. A map of New England and four plates from Hulsius are inserted. It was owned by Clifton Wintringham Loscombe, being no. 1550 of the sale at Sotheby's in June, 1854, the year following his death, and was acquired by James Lenox in that year. Mr. Lenox supposed it to be the Heber copy, but an examination of the sale catalogues has failed to trace it.

4. Boston Public Library, without the blank leaf "A" but containing the address to the reader, in antique calf by Rivière. The treatment of the letters "Cor" and "ll" in the word "Coronell" is evident and the stains have spread as in the Brown copy. Formerly owned by Col. Thomas Aspinwall, from 1815 to 1853 United States consul in London, being no. 52 of his catalogue printed at Paris about 1832, it was included in the portion of his library purchased by Mr. S. L. M. Barlow in 1864, and was acquired as no. 2291 of the Barlow sale in February, 1890.

5. William L. Clements Library, Ann Arbor, Mich., lacking the leaf "A" but containing the address to the reader, in red morocco by Bedford, with the Miller Arms. In this copy also stains are apparent around the treated letters "Cor" and "ll" of the word "Coronell" showing on the reverse of the leaf as well. Formerly in the British Museum, having the duplicate stamp of the sale of 1787 on the reverse of the title, it was later in the Christie-Miller collection at Britwell Court, being no. 291 of the Sotheby catalogue of August, 1916, acquired with the whole of that portion of the collection by Mr. Huntington, and sold with his duplicates in January, 1917. This issue appears to be lacking in the British Museum.

6. Herschel V. Jones, Minneapolis, Minn., lacking the leaf "A" but containing the address to the reader, in brown morocco. The letters "Cor" and "ll" were nearly blotted out in this copy, and a comma was put in after "Smith," on top of the faintly visible "C," so that the line would read "Written by Captaine Smith, one of the said Collony, to a." Formerly in the library of Robert Stayner Holford (1808-1892) of Dorchester House, London, and of his son Lt. Col. Sir George Lindsay Holford (1860-1926).

SMITH. A | Trve Re- | lation of such occur- | rences and accidents of noate as | hath hapned in Virginia since the first | planting of that Collony, which is now | resident in the South part thereof, till | the last returne from | thence. | Written by Captaine
Smith one of the said Collony, to a | worshipfull friend of his in England. | [Woodcut of a ship.] | London | Printed for Iohn
Tappe, and are to bee solde at the Grey- | hound in Paules-Churchyard, by W. W. | 1608 | 4to, pp. (40), unpagged. A-E in fours, the first blank.

Apparently the fourth issue of the title, with the tenth line shortened by respacing to  $3\frac{1}{4}$  inches. Copies as follows:

1. Huntington Library, containing the blank leaf "A," but lacking the address to the reader, in dark blue morocco by Rivière. Probably no. 1535 of the sale of Fredéric Ouvry (1814-1881), president in 1876-1878 of the Society of Antiquaries; sold at Sotheby's in April, 1882, it passed through the collections of Charles H. Kalbfleisch, Marshall C. Leferts and A. T. White, being no. 19 of the sale of the latter at the Anderson Galleries, February 6, 1920. It may also be the copy described by Collier in his "Bibliographical and Critical Account," 1865, vol. 2, p. 477, as it was not one of the Bridgewater books catalogued in 1837.

2. New York Public Library, lacking the blank leaf "A" and the address to the reader, in modern boards. Purchased by Mr. Lenox before April, 1877, it being mentioned as in the Lenox Library in the Magazine of American History for April of that year, vol. 1, p. 251.

In addition to the copies with the different issues of the title recorded above, there are others lacking the title in the Harvard (Ebeling collection), and John Carter Brown Libraries, the latter having a pen-and-ink fac-simile of the "Watson" title inserted.

SMITH. Southern Literary Messenger. B. B. Minor, Editor and Proprietor. Vol. XI. February, 1845. No. II. 'Newes from Virginia.' Written by Captain John Smith, and first published in London, in the year 1608. . . . Richmond, Va. Published by Wm. Macfarlane. 1845. Price, twenty-five cents. Royal 8vo, cover-title, pp. 18, in double columns. NYP. 82848

Printed first in the "Southern Literary Messenger," vol. 11 (Richmond, 1845), pp. 65-82, including the address to the reader by I. H., and historical foot notes by the editor of the "Messenger," Benjamin Blake Minor. Reissued as a separate pamphlet with new pagination and sheet marks, some minor changes, and a cover-title as above, on the verso of which is an advertisement of the "Messenger" for 1845. The "Watson" issue of the title-page is reprinted in full, with the picture of an American frigate flying United States flags. The editor in his "advertisement" states that "The original, the only one known to be extant, belongs to the New York Historical Society"; and he adds the interesting information: "That we may not be suspected of filling our pages with worthless old matter, we will state its pecuniary value. . . . The copy from which the following was printed cost upwards of ten dollars."

SMITH. A True Relation of Virginia by Captain John Smith. With an Introduction and Notes. By Charles Deane. Boston: Wiggin and Lunt. MDCCCLXVI. [On reverse of title:] Cambridge: Press of John Wilson and Sons. Small 4to, pp. xlvii including series title, half-title and title; 1 leaf blank except for sheet mark A, pp. v*, 88, and printed front cover. Folded map. NYP. 82849

Edition: 280 copies in small quarto, 30 of which were printed for the editor with that statement in the imprint; 35 copies in royal quarto; 6 copies on Whatman drawing paper in royal quarto, no. 5 of which is in the New York Public Library; and 6 copies on india paper in quarto, no. 5 being in the Deane sale. The series title reads, "Virginia Series No. I." After publication it was discovered that the index did not fit the paging of Mr. Deane's preface in its final form, and a corrected index was made, pp. 81-88, and sent to subscribers with a printed slip of explanation. Many copies contain both indexes. The reprint was made from a transcript of the original in Harvard College Library, lacking the title; the title-page from the third issue with the word "Coronell," following Mr. Lenox's copy. The map is a photo-process reproduction of the ninth state of the Virginia map described under the "Generall Historie."

SMITH. A True Relation of Virginia. By Captain John Smith. With an Introduction and Notes. By Charles Deane. Boston. Thirty Copies printed for the Editor. MDCCCLXVI. Small 4to, pp. xlvi, 1 leaf blank except for sheet mark A, pp. v*, 88 and printed front cover. M. 82850

A reprint was to have been included as no. 5 in the series of Hercules Club Publications, projected by Henry Stevens, and in May, 1879, he wrote to Dr. George H. Moore that the "eleven volumes are all in type & most of them printed off, the rest waiting only for titles, prefaces, ornaments," etc. However, the work was left unfinished. Other reprints are in Arber's edition of Smith's "Works," pp. 1-40; in Hart and Channing's "American History Leaflets," no. 27, 1896; in "Original Narratives of Early American History," the Virginia volume, 1907, pp. 25-71; and in Ames's "Readings in American History," 1911, book one, pp. 11-58.

SMITH. The | True Travels, | Adventvres, | and | Observations | of | Captaine Iohn Smith, | In Europe, Asia, Affrica, and America, from Anno | Domini 1593. to 1629. | His Accidents and Sea-fights in the Straights; his Service | and Stratagemes of warre in Hungaria, Transilvania, Wallachia, and | Moldavia, against the Turkes, and Tartars; his three single combats | betwixt the Christian Armie and the Turkes. | After how he was taken prisoner by the Turkes, sold for a Slave, sent into | Tartaria; his description of the Tartars, their strange manners and customes of | Religions, Diets, Buildings, Warres, Feasts, Ceremonies, and | Living; how hee slew the Bashaw of Nalbrits in Cambia, | and escaped from the Turkes and Tartars. | Together with a continuation of his generall History of Virginia, | Summer-Iles, New England, and their proceedings, since 1624. to this | present 1629; as also of the new Plantations of the great | River of the Amazons, the Iles of St. Christopher, Mevis, | and Barbados in the West Indies. | All written by actuall Authours, whose names | you shall finde along the History. | London, | Printed by J. H. for Thomas Slater, and are to bee | sold at the Blew Bible in Greene Arbour. 1630. | Folio, pp. (12), 60. Folded plate. NYP. 82851

Collation: 6 preliminary leaves comprising the title with or without Smith's Arms on the verso, the address to the Earls of Pembroke, Lindsey, and Dover, signed Iohn Smith, in two pages, the contents in two pages, and complimentary verses addressed to Smith in six pages; the text, pp. 60. A in six, B-G in fours, h in six. In many copies page 34 is mispaged 36, and in some page 15 is also mispaged 13. Folded plate in nine compartments illustrating Smith's adventures.

The coat-of-arms, engraved by Thomas Cecil, is occasionally found on a separate leaf, instead of on the verso of the title, both varieties being in the New York Public Library. The Arms are those to which Smith laid claim through the grant of Sigismund Báthory, Prince of Transylvania, and the registration of which by Sir William Segar, was examined by Mr. Arber at the College of Arms. The plate of Smith's adventures was drawn by John Payne, and engraved by Martin Droeshout, with the imprint London Printed by James Reeve. There are two states of this plate, the first in which the middle left-hand compartment has the first line of its heading as follows: "His three single Combats Chap. 7." and the second which shows traces of the erasure of that line, and has instead "His three single Combats before Regall in Transilvania." The first state is inserted in one of the Lenox copies in the New York Public Library, in modern binding of red morocco, and the second state is found in its three other copies. A fac-simile of the first state appeared in Arber's edition of Smith's "Works," and in the edition of the "Generall Historie," published in Glasgow in 1907. A partial fac-simile of the second state, leaving out several inscriptions, appeared in the Richmond reprint of 1819. Some copies have on the contents page A 3, a made up head-piece resembling closely that on the title of the "Sea Grammar," 1627, and containing the crowned symbols of England, France, Scotland and Ireland. Others have a head-piece of cupids, squirrels, etc., printed from a single block. The first form, which may be the earlier, is found in one of the New York Public Library copies bound with the "Generall Historie," 1627, and in the Huntington (Chew) and Pequot Library copies. The second form is found in three of the New York Public Library copies and in most of the others which have been examined. In both varieties the printed page is from the same setting of type, one not being a reprint as wrongly stated in the Church Catalogue.

A few errors were corrected in the course of printing, of which the following may be mentioned. In the earliest impressions pp. 15 and 34 were mispaged 13 and 36; in line 39 of page 54 the word "plantains" was misspelled "plantnais"; in line 4 on page 60 "Moores" was printed "Moroes," and the words "could wish" in line 16 of the same page were wrongly spaced "coul dwish." All of these mistakes appear in one of the New York Public Library copies, in modern black morocco binding, which also lacks a marginal note on page 44, "Good Hospitality," found in its three other copies. Several of these errors were first noted by Mr. Luther S. Livingston, who described them as corrected in a calf copy in the possession of Dodd, Mead and Company in May, 1900.

The book was entered by the publisher at Stationers' Hall, August 29, 1629, the printer J. H. being probably John Haviland. Before its publication Purchas in his "Pilgrimes," vol. 2 (Lib. VIII., Chap. XI.), 1625, printed some of the material, evidently using Smith's manuscript. Although not following the wording exactly, condensing and omitting a great deal, altering the spelling of proper names, in places it is word for word the same. Arber says that for the most part Smith's chapters 4-9 are reprints of "Purchas's translated Extracts from the Italian History or Biography of Francisco Farnese, the Secretary to Prince Sigismund Bátori . . . therefore not Smith's own account of his own doings, but chiefly the narrative of a foreigner with no possible motive for his laudation." The account in the "True Travels" is more detailed than the "translation" in Purchas. See also six articles by Lewis L. Kropf, the Hungarian scholar, in "Notes and Queries," 7th ser., vol 9, 1890, expressing doubt as to the existence of the Italian author, and the belief that the grant of arms was a clumsy forgery. Smith's chapters 21-28 consist chiefly of a compilation from various narratives forming a continuation of his "Generall Historie," and for this reason the book was generally bound with the later issues of that work. In the sale of the White Kennett Library at Sotheby's, July 30, 1917, a copy lacking the plate is described as being in the original calf, with the royal arms stamped in gold on the sides.

SMITH. The True Travels, Adventvres and Observations of Captaine Iohn Smith. In Europe, Asia, Africke, and America: beginning about the yeere 1593, and continued to this present 1629. Vol. I. From the London edition of 1629. Richmond:

Republished at the Franklin Press. William W. Gray, Printer. 1819. [Title of vol. 2:] The Generall Historie of Virginia, New-England, and the Summer Iles, with the names of the Adventurers, Planters, and Governours from their first beginning, An. 1584. To this present 1626. With the Proceedings of those severall Colonies and the Accidents that befell them in all their Journyes and Discoveries. Also the Maps and Descriptions of those Countreyes, their Commodities, People, Government, Customs, and Religion yet knowne. Divided into sixe Bookes. By Captaine Iohn Smith, sometymes Governour of those Countreyes and Admirall of New England. Vol. II. From the London Edition of 1629. Richmond: Republished at the Franklin Press. William W. Gray, Printer. 1819. 2 vols., 8vo, pp. (14), 247, of which 77-78 are blank; xi, 282. 2 frontispieces, 2 folded maps, and one folded plate. NYP. 82852

The two frontispieces comprise the portrait of Smith taken from the New England map, and his Arms from the "True Travels"; the maps are from the fourth state of Ould Virginia, and the tenth state of Virginia; and the folded plate is the one in nine compartments from the "True Travels." These are all close imitations of the originals, but not exact fac-similes.

The first twenty chapters of the "True Travels" in vol. 1, are followed on pp. 55-247 by books 1 to 3 of the "Generall Historie," having a separate title-page without imprint, but with a note at the foot, "From the London Edition of 1627." The remaining three books make up pp. 1-253 of the second volume, the continuation in chapters 21-28 of the "True Travels" following on pp. 255-282. The words on the two title-pages, "From the London Edition of 1629," refer to the original of 1630. The editor and publisher was the Rev. John Holt Rice, D.D., of Richmond, according to Frederic Kidder, in the "New England Historical and Genealogical Register," for January, 1897, vol. 31, p. 114.

Other reprints appeared in Churchill's "Collection of Voyages and Travels," 1704, vol. 2, pp. 371-412, and in the editions of 1732, 1744-1746, and 1752; also in Arber's edition of Smith's "Works," pp. 805-916, with a process fac-simile of the folded plate, and in the edition of the "Generall Historie," published in Glasgow in 1907, with process fac-similes of the title, Smith's Arms, and of the folded plate. A reprint edited by A. J. Philip was published by Routledge in the "New Universal Library" in 1907, and another edited by E. A. Benians appeared in the Cambridge University Press series, "English Literature for Schools," in 1908.

In Pieter vander Aa's "Naaukeurige Versameling der gedenk-waardigste Zee en Land-Reysen," vol. 25, 1707, and sometimes found as a separate. An abridged translation chiefly from the sixth book of the "Generall Historie." Another edition as follows:

Included in vol. 2 of Pieter vander Aa's "Wijd-Beroemde Voyagien ... gedaan door die Engelsen," printed in 1706 and 1707, and reissued in 1727, concerning which see note to the "Avontuurlijke Reys-togten." The text is arranged in two columns to a page, making 20 columns, besides the title leaf and the Register on one leaf. The engravings printed in the text show traces of the numbers marked on the plates for use in the octavo edition. The map is found on the same leaf with another map in the first volume.

SMITH. The English Scholar's Library. Capt. John Smith, of Willoughby by Alford, Lincolnshire; President of Virginia, and Admiral of New England. Works. 1608-1631. ... Edited by Edward Arber, Fellow of King's College, London; F. S. A., Professor of English Language and Literature Sir Josiah Mason's College, Birmingham. 1, Montague Road, Birmingham. 10 June, 1884. No. 16. (All rights reserved.) Sq. 8vo, pp. cxxxvi, 984 and printed board covers. 6 folded maps and plates. 82855

No. 16 of "The English Scholar's Library." The cover title has in addition the name of the London publisher, Unwin Bros., and the price, Twelve Shillings and Sixpence. Mr. Arber stated in his prospectus that 257 copies were printed on large paper in Foolscap 4to, under the designation of the Limited Library Edition; and also 25 copies on Whatman paper in Foolscap 4to. The British Museum Catalogue mentions a "a revise of pp. 973-984, containing an amended index," which seems to indicate that some early copies were sent out with an inaccurate index.

Dr. Arber's preface is a warm defence of Captain Smith. The introduction contains a number of contemporary letters, including that of John Smith to Lord Bacon; a bibliography; a reprint from "The Memorial History of Boston" of Justin Winsor's list of the different issues of the map of New England; a chronological list of English books, co-ordinate, or supplementary to the present text; and a description of the original painting of Pocahontas, by Mrs. Herbert Jones.

The book contains careful reprints of the following: (1) A True Relation, 1608; (2) A Map of Virginia, 1612; (3) A Description of New England, 1616; (4) New Englands Trials, 1620; (5) New Englands Trials, 1622; (6) The Generall Historie of Virginia, 1624; (7) An Accidence for Young Seamen, 1626; (8) The True Travels, 1630; and (9) Advertisements for the unexperienced Planters of New England, 1631. The process fac-similes of the maps and plates comprise: (1) engraved title of the Generall Historie, 1624; (2) Ould Virginia, fourth state; (3) Virginia, tenth state; (4) Summer IIs., third state; (5) New England, fourth state; and (6) the plate in nine compartments for the True Travels, first state. Reissued as follows:

SMITH. Capt. John Smith of Willoughby by Alford, Lincolnshire; President of Virginia, and Admiral of New England. Works 1608-1631. Part I from the beginning to page 382 [Part II from page 383 to the end]. Edited by Edward Arber. . . Westminster Archibald Constable and Co. 1895. 2 vols., sq. 8vo, pp. (2), v-cxxxvi, 1-382; (2), 383-984. 6 folded maps and plates. 82856

This seems to be a remainder of the sheets of the 1884 issue, with the old title and half-title cancelled, and a new title substituted.

SMITH. Travels and Works of Captain John Smith President of Virginia, and Admiral of New England 1580-1631. Edited by Edward Arber, F.S.A. A New Edition with a Biographical and Critical Introduction, by A. G. Bradley. . . Edinburgh: John Grant. 1910. 2 vols., 8vo, Part I, pp. (12), xviii, *xix-*xxx, xix-cxxxvi, 382; Part II, (4), 383-984. 2 portraits, 6 folded maps and plates. 82857

This is largely a reprint from stereotype plates of the former edition, with some changes in the preliminary pages. Mr. Arber's preface was omitted and an introduction by A. G. Bradley substituted. The bibliography was revised and a supplementary list by Thomas Seecombe added. Corrections of date made in a note in the earlier edition were incorporated in the text on pp. 821-822. The fac-simile of the Ould Virginia map was taken from its second state, instead of from the fourth as in the earlier issues. The two portraits of Pocahontas added to this edition comprise a process fac-simile of Richardson's re-engraving from Pass, and a half tone reproduction of Thomas Sully's painting.

SMITH. The Adventures of Captain John Smith, the Founder of the Colony of Virginia. By the Author of "Uncle Philip's Conversations" [i. e. Francis L. Hawks]. New York: D. Appleton & Co. 1842. 18mo, 2 leaves, pp. 9-201. Portrait. c. 82858

Reissued from the same plates in 1843, 1846, 1854, and perhaps other years.

SMITH. *The Adventvres and Discovrses of Captain Iohn Smith, sometime President of Virginia, and Admiral of New England. Newly Ordered by Iohn Ashton. . . . SMITH. A | Congratulatory | Poem | upon the Noble | Feast | Made by the | Ancient and Renoued | Families | of the | Smiths. | London, Printed for Francis Smith at the Elephant and Castle near the Royal Exchange in Cornhil. [1635?] Folio, 1 page.

A large broadside, measuring 16 $\frac{3}{8}$  inches by 13 $\frac{7}{8}$  inches, divided into three columns of verse, the first half of the title (down to and including the word Feast) being printed at the top of the first column, and the other half at the top of the third column, with the imprint at the bottom of the sheet. At the top of the middle column, and filling more than a third of it, is a copperplate engraving with the inscription: "Captaine Iohn Smith sometime Governor of Virginia," and several lines of verse in his praise, and below these verses two compartments, the upper one representing Captain Smith in single combat with a Turk, and the under one representing King Sigismund presenting him a flag bearing three Turk's heads for his Arms. The whole sheet is surrounded by a border of printer's ornaments. There are two copies of this broadside in the British Museum: (1) the Grenville copy, inserted at the front of Smith's "True Travels" of 1630, from which the above description is made; and (2) another copy in the general library. A photograph (reduced) of the Grenville copy is in the New York Public Library. See the Grenville catalogue, vol. 2, 1842, p. 670. The printer, Francis Smith, obtained his freedom in the Stationers' Company, July 3, 1632, made his first entry for publication May 9, 1633, and his last entry June 17, 1636. See Arber's "Transcript of the Stationers' Registers," vols. 4 and 5; and McKerrow's "Dictionary of Printers and Booksellers," 1910, p. 248.

[SMITH.] The Historye of the Bermudaes or Summer Islands. 82862

This work, edited from a MS. in the Sloane collection, British Museum, and published for the Hakluyt Society in 1882, was attributed to Captain John Smith by the editor, General Sir J. Henry Lefroy; but according to E. Delmar Morgan in the Athenæum for Dec. 24, 1892, the author was Captain Nathaniel Butler, governor of Bermuda, 1619-22.

A reissue of the preceding with a new title substituted, and an extra leaf prefixed, "The Bookseller to the Reader," explaining the author's failure to market the book himself under the original short title. Entered in the Hilary Term catalogue, February, 1673.

SMITH. The Trade and Fishing of Great Britain displayed; with a description of the islands of Orkney and Shetland. London, 1661. 4to. BM. 82866

SMITH. The Trade & Fishing of Great-Britain Displayed: With a Description of the Islands of Orkney and Shotland. By Captain John Smith. London, Printed by William Godbid, . . . M. DC. LXII. 4to, A-C2 in fours. 82867

Title from Hazlitt's "Bibliographical Collections," third series, 1887.

SMITH (John), Rector of St. Mary's, Colchester. An | Essay | on | Universal Redemption: | Wherein is shewn, | That Christ did not die purely for the sake | of a small part of Mankind; but all and | every Man. | That, by Christ, every Man is put into a | capacity of obtaining everlasting salvation. | That neither Adam's sin, nor any of our own, | hath made the blessed God implacable and | irreconcilable; but that he will afford all | necessary grace, to enable and excite us to | faith, repentance and a godly life. And, | That upon the faithful improvement of this | abundant mercy and help, he will, most | assuredly, forgive all Men their sins, justify, ever bless and save them. | By John Smith. | London Printed: | Boston Re-printed, and sold by T. & J. Fleet, | in Cornhill, 1767. 12mo, pp. 71. A-F in sixes. NYP. 82868

From the London edition of 1701.

SMITH (John), Clockmaker. The | Curiosities | of | Common Water: | or | The Advantages thereof in Preventing and Curing | many Distempers. | Gather'd from the Writings of several Eminent Physicians, | and also from more than Forty Years Experience. | By John Smith, C. M. | To which are added, | Some Rules for preserving Health by Diet. | The Third Edition Corrected. | London: Printed, and Re-printed by Samuel Keimer, in | High-street, near the Market-place, Philadelphia. 1723. | 4to, pp. 47, verso advertisement. A-F in fours. c. 82869

Advertised in the American Weekly Mercury, Jan. 14, 1724. The Library of Congress copy lacks the final leaf, but a perfect copy was sold at Henkel's in Philadelphia, Nov. 4, 1920. According to information from Mr. Charles Martel of the Library of Congress, the work was first printed in London, in 1723, five editions appearing in that year. From a statement on page 3 it appears that the author was seventy-four years old at the time of writing.

The verso of the last leaf contains the following: "Advertisement. Design'd to be publish'd in a few Days, A Paraphrase upon a late Parable, Mathematically, Philosophically, Theologically, Metaphysically handled, for the Information, Instruction, and surprising Diversion of Mankind in general, and without the least Offence to any individual Person in particular. . . . The whole most humbly submitted to the consummate Wisdom of his Excellency Sir William Keith, Bart. Governour of the Province of Pennsylvania, &c. By Samuel Keimer, a poor despis'd, reproach'd, hated and injur'd Servant of Jesus the most high God." See Hildeburn, no. 207.

SMITH. The | Curiosities | of | Common Water; | or | The Advantages thereof in Pre- | venting and Curing many Distem- | pers. | Gather'd from the Writings of several Emi- | nent Physicians, and also from | more than Forty Years Experience. | By John Smith, C. M. | To which is added, | Some Rules for preserv- ing Health by Diet. | . . . | The Fifth Addition. | With Additions communicated by | Mr. Ralph Thoresby, F. R. S. and Others. | London Printed: | Reprinted at Boston, for Joseph Edwards, at the | Corner Shop on the North-side of the Town- | House. MDCCXXV. | 8vo, pp. 52. M. 82870

An edition projected by Benjamin Lay, to be printed by William Bradford and "publish'd by subscription," was advertised in the Pennsylvania Journal, April 26, 1744, according to Hildeburn, who gives the title under that year, but no such edition has been found. Reprinted, Salem: Whipple and Lawrence, 1832, 12mo, pp. 54; also, New York, 1851, 12mo, pp. 92, reissued in 1853 and 1855.

HSP. 82872

The author's name is signed to the preface, dated 11th Mo. 25. 1747-8. The book was distributed free. According to R. M. Smith's "Burlington Smiths," 1877, p. 138, the author wrote in his diary, "This being the day my piece came out, the printer's house, and indeed my own, was like a fair; people came so thick to get them. Dr. Hall told me that he never saw a pamphlet in so much request at first coming out, even in London."

SMITH (John [Athelstane]). Memoirs of the Marquis of Pombal; with extracts from his writings, and from despatches in the State Paper Office, never before published. By John Smith, Esq. private secretary to the Marshal Marquis de Saldanha. In two volumes. . . . London: Longman, Brown, Green, and Longmans. [Colophon:] London: Printed by A. Spottiswoode, New-Street-Square. 1843. 2 vols., 8vo, pp. xxviii, 343, (1); xii, 388. Portrait.

A note on page 51 of vol. 1 refers to "the fac simile autograph letter from the Empress prefixed to volume the second," which is not found in any of the copies examined. A printed slip inserted after the dedication states that the "Facsimile of the Letter from the Empress Maria Theresa, referred to in these Volumes, not being yet engraved, it will, when ready, be exchanged for this Notice at the Publishers'; where likewise a few Proof Impressions of the Portrait, on India Paper, price 5s., may be procured."

The work contains many references to Brazil, and to the expulsion of the Jesuits from that country. At a later period the author wrote his name J. Smith Athelstane, and in 1870 by royal decree was elevated to the dignity of Grandee of Portugal, with the title Count of Carnota. For a biographical sketch, see "Men of the Time," 1872 edition published by Routledge, under Carnota, and for the American interest see our vol. 15, nos. 63895-63915. Reprinted in one volume as follows:

[SMITH.] . . . Expenses of Virginia in the Illinois Expedition in 1778, '79.—Pierre Menard, Antoine Peltier, and Joseph Placy. (To accompany bill S. No. 39.) May 25, 1840. Mr. Hall, from the Committee on Revolutionary Claims, made the following Report . . . [Washington: 1840.] 8vo, pp. 34. 82968

House Rep. 519, 26th Cong., 1st Sess.—Smith, as Commissioner of Virginia Revolutionary claims, had in 1835 approved certain claims for advances made by various individuals for the expenses of Col. George Rogers Clark's Illinois expedition. These claims against the state of Virginia were brought against the United States as part of the obligations assumed by her in return for Virginia's deed of cession of her western territory, and were incorporated in a Senate bill. The House Committee on Revolutionary Claims reported unfavorably on the bill in the above document, which criticised the findings of the Commissioner, and Smith replied in the following Memorial:

With a variety of Reliques, Antiquities, and Modern Autographs. Collected and edited by J. Jay Smith, Librarian of the Philadelphia and Loganian Libraries. And John F. Watson, Annalist of Philadelphia and New York. Assisted by an Association of American Antiquarians. Philadelphia: Published by The National Publishing Company, Philadelphia, Washington, New York, Boston, Baltimore, Richmond, Petersburg, Cincinnati, and St. Louis. 1847. [On verso of title:] T. K. and P. G. Collins, Printers. Sq. folio, 3 preliminary leaves, and 37 other leaves, 32 of which contain fac-similes. NYP. + Second Edition. Philadelphia: [No publisher's name.] 1847. [T. K. and P. G. Collins, Printers.] Sq. folio. NYP. + Third Edition. Philadelphia: Lloyd P. Smith, 19 St. James Street. 1847. [T. K. and P. G. Collins, Printers.] Sq. folio.

NYH. 82974

The second and third editions have the same collation as the first. On the original cloth covers was stamped a reproduction of the ticket for the "Meschianza," the farewell entertainment given for Sir William Howe in Philadelphia, in 1778. Evidently the anastatic process was used, as several of the leaves bear the imprint Anastatic Office, 144 Chestnut St. Phila. In general the same plates were used in the first three editions, but no. 14, containing the bust of William Penn and one of his letters, was redrawn for the second edition, and several others had either to be redrawn or touched up for the third. The work includes fac-similes of MSS. of Washington, Penn, John Adams, Franklin, Jefferson, Marshall, Lafayette, André, Whitefield, Fulton and others. There are also extracts from Wood's "New Englands Prospect," 1639 edition, and the title-page of "Poor Richard's Almanack," 1733, and reprints of Major André's account of the Mischianza from the "Lady's Magazine," August, 1792, and of John Fitch's own account of his steamboat from the "Columbian Magazine" for December, 1786, with a picture. A few portraits and engravings, paper money, etc. are reproduced. The minor selections are grouped several to a page. All except seven of the leaves containing reproductions are printed on one side only. The preface and contents are headed "Preface to No. 1," and "Contents of No. 1," but the number is not on the title.

SMITH. American Historical and Literary Curiosities; consisting of Fac-similes of Original Documents relating to the Events of the Revolution, &c. &c. With a variety of Reliques, Antiquities, and Modern Autographs. Collected and edited by J. Jay Smith, Librarian of the Philadelphia and Loganian Libraries; and John F. Watson, Annalist of Philadelphia and New York; assisted by an Association of American Antiquaries. No. 2, completing the work. Philadelphia: Published by Lloyd P. Smith. 1847. [Printed by T. K. & P. G. Collins.] Sq. folio, 2 preliminary leaves and 37 other leaves, 32 of which contain fac-similes.

There is but one separate edition of no. 2, the later editions of the whole work being in one volume. Among the MSS. reproduced in fac-simile are the Original Surrender of Cornwallis, signed by him, specimens of Washington's handwriting at various ages, signatures of the Governors of Massachusetts under the first charter, and of the Governors of Plymouth colony, letters of Increase and Cotton Mather, Henry Laurens, Daniel Boone and others. Other fac-similes are: two broadsides of the Committee for Tarring and Feathering addressed to the Delaware Pilots, respecting the arrival of the Tea Ship Polly, dated Nov. 27, and December 7, 1773; also a notice of the arrival of the ship, dated December 27; the title-page of Eliot's Indian Bible, 1663, with a specimen of the Psalms; the heading of the first number of the "Boston News-Letter," 1704; extracts from Bradford's "American Weekly Mercury"; specimens of advertisements illustrating "Travelling in the Olden Time," 1719-1771; the first number of the "Pennsylvania Gazette" under Franklin's editorship, 1729, in four pages on tinted paper; and the heading of the "Pennsylvania Journal" of October 31, 1765, discontinued on account of the Stamp Act. Portraits of John Randolph and Alexander Wilson, the naturalist, profiles of Thomas Moore and Gilbert Stuart, reproductions of paper money, etc., are included. At the foot of a leaf giving a receipt of the Six Nations of Indians for ten thousand dollars from Thomas and Richard Penn, 28th July, 1769, is printed "Anastatic Fac-simile. Philada."

SMITH. American Historical and Literary Curiosities; consisting of Fac-Similes of Original Documents relating to the Events of the Revolution, &c. &c. With a variety of Reliques, Antiquities, and Modern Autographs. Collected and edited by J. Jay Smith, Librarian of the Philadelphia and Loganian Libraries and John F. Watson, Annalist of Philadelphia and New York. Fourth Edition, with additions and alterations. New York: G. P. Putnam. 1850. [Philadelphia: T. K. & P. G. Collins, Printers.] Sq. folio, 4 preliminary leaves, 64 leaves containing sixty-six numbered plates, and 10 leaves of letter press. NYP. 82976

The fourth edition contains nearly the same material as that included in the first three editions of No. 1, and in No. 2. The reproductions are given plate numbers for the first time and are on thicker paper. Many of the plates have been either remade or retouched, especially those in the earlier part, and some of the descriptive inscriptions have been altered. Among the changes are, the addition of "Curious Indictments, 1755 and 1757," printed on the verso of the leaf following plate VI; to plate IX are added presentation inscriptions by Jefferson in copies of his "Notes on Virginia"; in the place of the manuscript qualification of members of Assembly, Pennsylvania, 1700, is a reproduction of an "Indian Gazette," plate XII; instead of the speech and prayer of Bishop White at the laying of the corner stone of the Washington Monument, this edition has on plate XIII fac-similes of the title-pages of the second edition of Williams's "Virginia," 1650, Hammond's "Leah and Rachel," 1656, Cotton Mather's "Wonders of the Invisible World," London, 1693, and Macsparran's "America Dissected," Dublin, 1753; the fac-simile of the title of Cotton's "Spiritual Milk for Babes," London, 1672, is added on the verso of plate XV; plate XXIX is a Copy of the Protection given by the President of Congress to Captain Green, "the first American who bore the United States flag to China." The plates contained formerly in no. 2 are not so much altered, but the following changes may be noted: a lottery ticket of Washington's, 1768, is added on the verso of plate XXXV; a letter from Gen. Joseph Warren is omitted; and plate XLIII, containing fac-similes of printed advertisements and of a copy of an original Bill of Sale in Boston, for a negro man, is added to illustrate Slavery at the North, in the eighteenth century. Published at $7 in half morocco; and fifty copies on large paper in folio at $16 in antique morocco.

SMITH. American Historical and Literary Curiosities; consisting of Fac-Similes of Original Documents relating to the Events of the Revolution, &c. &c. With a variety of Reliques, Antiquities and Modern Autographs. Collected and edited by J. Jay Smith, Librarian of the Philadelphia and Logonian Libraries. And John F. Watson, Annalist of Philadelphia and New York. Fifth Edition, with additions. New York: G. P. Putnam. 1852. [On verso of title:] Kite & Walton, Printers. Sq. folio, 4 preliminary leaves, 65 leaves containing sixty-eight numbered plates, and 10 leaves of letter press. NYP. 82977

In the fifth edition also most of the plates were retouched or remade, but except for the addition of one leaf containing plates LXVII and LXVIII, printed extracts from deeds conveying parts of Manhattan and Long Island with fac-similes of the signatures and the marks of the Indians, the items given were the same as in the fourth. This edition was also issued in a large paper form, the paper used being much heavier.

SMITH. American Historical and Literary Curiosities; consisting of Fac-Similes of Original Documents relating to the Events of the Revolution, &c. &c. With a variety of Reliques, Antiquities, and Modern Autographs. Collected and edited by John Jay Smith, Member of the Historical Society of Pennsylvania, and John F. Watson, Annalist of Philadelphia and New York. Assisted by an Association of American Antiquarians. Sixth Edition, with improvements and additions. New York: G. P. Putnam. 1861. Sq. folio, 4 preliminary leaves, 62 leaves containing sixty-nine numbered plates, and 8 leaves of letter press. NYP. 82978

Some copies have the imprint, Philadelphia: W. Brotherhead. 1861. This edition was brought out in spite of the announcement in the preface to the Second Series that the plates were worn out, and that another edition was improbable. The plates according to a note were entirely redrawn. They contained almost the same selection as the preceding editions, but numbered according to a different plan. The following items of the fifth edition were omitted: Charles Thomson's letter to the President, plate VII; part of Whitfield's letter, plate XV, and the fac-simile of the title of Cotton's "Spiritual Milk for Babes," on the verso of the leaf; letters of West, Woolman, Trumbull and Rittenhouse, plates XVI and XVII; one of the broadsides of the Committee on Tarring and Feathering to the Delaware Pilots, plate XXXVII; the American passport, 1775, plate LV; and the Indian deeds, plates LXVII and LXVIII. The number, choice and arrangement of the groups of autographs differed. Plates XXXIII and XL of the sixth edition were new material, the first containing a certificate of Dr. Franklin's attendance as Assemblyman, and a note from Benedict Arnold, ordering horses for his escape; and the second giving Franklin's famous epitaph written in 1728. Also issued on large paper in folio.

SMITH. American Historical and Literary Curiosities; consisting of Fac-Similes of some Plates, &c. Relating to Columbus, and Original Documents of the Revolution; &c. &c. With a Variety of Reliques, Antiquities, and Autographs. Edited and arranged, with the assistance of several Autograph Collectors, by John Jay Smith, Member of the Historical Society of Pennsylvania, etc. Second Series—complete in itself. First Edition. Philadelphia: [No publisher's name.] 1860. [On verso of title:] Stereotyped by L. Johnson and Co. Philadelphia. Collins, Printer. Sq. folio, 2 preliminary leaves, 69 leaves containing sixty-four numbered plates and one unnumbered, and 32 leaves of letter press.

Many copies have a different imprint, New York: Charles B. Richardson. 1860, and omit the words "First Edition." The plates in this series are divided into groups, each with its own contents leaf numbered consecutively one to eleven. The first relates chiefly to Columbus, and contains fac-similes of engravings, including the portrait of Columbus and extracts from De Bry's "Voyages," and four plates from the illustrated Columbus letter of 1493, described in the letter press pages, 1-3, signatures of Columbus and his coat of arms being also reproduced. The last plate in this group is the fac-simile of an illustration from Casper Plautius's "Nova Typis Transacta Navigatio," 1621, the descriptive leaf in connection giving a translated extract, and also a brief extract relating to Columbus from Gilbert's "Cataia," 1576.

The rest of the book is chiefly made up of pieces of Revolutionary interest, with a few from earlier and later periods. Among the fac-similes of MSS. are letters of the following: Isaac Watts to Cotton Mather, March, 1717/8; Hancock as President of Congress to the Convention of New Jersey urging the sending of militia; George and Martha Washington, Steuben, André, Robert Morris, George Taylor, Stephen Girard, Mrs. Madison, Jefferson; William Penn to the King or Kings of Pennsylvania, 1681; Franklin to his wife; John Adams, and John Quincy Adams. Other manuscripts reproduced include a notice pasted on the walls of the Coffee-House, Philadelphia, May, 1779; a memorandum of Bishop White of bishops consecrated by him from 1795 to 1835; a receipt of Hector St. John, 1739, for £800 from the insecure of Horatio Walpole in South Carolina; a petition of William Trent, the founder of Trenton, to Governor Penn; a petition of several Friends to Governor Bernard, London, 1758; and a page of Washington's weather diary, 1799. Reproductions in type from manuscript include a journal of Sally Wister, written for Deborah Norris, and dated North Wales, in Pennsylvania, June 20th, 1778, entitled "Amusing Scenes from the Revolution," and a letter from Martha Washington to General Warren's wife, the two selections paged consecutively, pp. 21; a letter from George Washington relative to his portrait being painted by Pine; letters from André with some description, pp. 4; also a letter of Penn addressed to the Emperor of Canada, 1682. Among the Revolutionary broadsides reproduced are a number issued by the British while in Philadelphia, plates XI, XXI-XXV, XLIX-LII, including several advertising theatricals given by British officers; one issued by the Committee of Safety announcing Howe's approach to Philadelphia, and another by Colonel Tilghman, Washington's aid, giving permission for an "Illumination," after the official announcement of Cornwallis's Surrender. Among the other fac-similes of printed matter are, an Association to protect the interests of King William against King James, with signatures; oaths appointed to be used instead of the Oaths of Allegiance and Supremacy, Boston, 1702; and extracts from the minutes of Congress asking merchants not to order goods from Great Britain, etc. A proclamation of King Charles II. to the Inhabitants of Pennsylvania, 1681, and the title-pages of "Nevves of Sr. Walter Rauleigh," 1618, and Raleigh's "Cabinet Council," published by Milton in 1658, are also given. Portraits reproduced include miniatures of Washington and Hamilton, a profile of Washington, caricatures of Stephen Girard and John Randolph, and engravings of Benjamin West, Lindley Murray and William Cobbett; and two full-length portraits of Joseph Smith and his brother Hyrum, published in London, in 1847. Pictures of various objects of historic interest are given, several connected with Washington, his telescope, watch, etc.; Franklin's original electric machine, Fitch's model for a river steam engine, etc. Published at $8 in small paper, and one hundred copies printed on large paper in folio, at $15.

The following list of editions under the name of Joseph Smith the prophet is based largely on the collections in the New York Public Library, and in the official church libraries at Salt Lake City, Utah, and Independence, Missouri. Special acknowledgment should be made of the generous cooperation of Elder Joseph Fielding Smith, Church Historian of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints at Salt Lake City, and of Elder S. A. Burgess, Church Historian of the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints at Independence, who have supplied many of the titles and collations. Those in each locality are designated by the letters NYP., SLC., and IND.

SMITH (Joseph), the Prophet, b. 1805, d. 1844. Articles of Faith. Published by the Deseret Sunday School Union, Salt Lake City, 1878. On a small card, verso blank. NYP. 83035

Thirteen articles signed Joseph Smith. This creed appeared in an article on "Church History," written at the request of John Wentworth, editor of the "Chicago Democrat," and was printed in "Times and Seasons," for March 1, 1842, vol. 3, pp. 709-710, and frequently thereafter.

SMITH. Articles of Faith of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints. [Signed:] Joseph Smith. [On verso:] God has again Spoken . . . in the publications cited below . . . Sent post paid . . . by the "Millennial Star" Office, 42, Islington, Liverpool. [About 1880.] 8vo, pp. (2). NYP. 83036

SMITH. The Book of Abraham. [1842, 1851, 1862, 1864.] 83037

This is not a separate publication, though sometimes listed as such. It was originally published in "Times and Seasons," Nauvoo, 1842, vol. 3, pp. 703-706, 719-722, 783-784, with three fac-similes, and in the "Latter-Day Saints' Millennial Star," Liverpool, of the same year. It was reprinted in Smith's "Pearl of Great Price," Liverpool, 1851. Another reprint without the fac-similes is in the "True Latter Day Saints' Herald," for July, 1862, published in Cincinnati, pp. 1-10. This number of the "Herald" was reprinted at its office in Plano, Illinois, in 1864, and was advertised for sale separately as the "Book of Abraham," for several years. The work purported to be a translation from an Egyptian papyrus, which was bought, together with several mummies, from Michael H. Chandler, in July, 1835. According to Smith, in the "Times and Seasons," the papyrus contained the writings of Abraham, while he was in Egypt, written by his own hand. The following pamphlet gives an account of the book:

The Book of Abraham. Its authenticity established as a divine and ancient record. With copious references to ancient and modern authorities. By Elder Geo. Reynolds. 1879. Salt Lake City, Utah: Deseret News Printing and Publishing Establishment. 8vo, pp. 49, and printed covers.

[SMITH.] Book of Commandments. See after the "Book of Mormon."

SMITH. Book of Doctrine and Covenants. See Doctrine and Covenants, infra.

SMITH. The Book of Mormon: An Account written by the Hand of Mormon, upon Plates taken from the Plates of Nephi. Wherefore it is an abridgment of the Record of the People of Nephi; and also of the Lamanites; written to the Lamanites, which are a remnant of the House of Israel; and also to Jew and Gentile; written by way of commandment, and also by the spirit of Prophecy and of Revelation. Written, and sealed up, and hid up unto the Lord, that they might not be destroyed; to come forth by the gift and power of God unto the interpretation thereof; sealed by the hand of Moroni, and hid up unto the Lord, to come forth in due time by the way of Gentile; the interpretation thereof by the gift of God; an abridgment taken from the Book of Ether. Also, which is a Record of the People of Jared, which were scattered at the time the Lord confounded the language of the people when they were building a tower to get to Heaven: which is to shew unto the remnant of the House of Israel how great things the Lord hath done for their fathers; and that they may know the covenants of the Lord, that they are not cast off forever; and also to the convincing of the Jew and Gentile that Jesus is the Christ, the Eternal God, manifesting Himself unto all nations. And now if there be fault, it be the mistake of men; wherefore condemn not the things of God, that ye may be found spotless at the judgment seat of Christ. By Joseph Smith, Junior, Author and Proprietor. Palmyra: Printed by E. B. Grandin, for the Author. 1830. 12mo, pp. iv, 5-588, (2).

B., C., NYP., SLC., IND. 83038

On the verso of the title is the copyright dated June 11, 1829, and on pp. iii and iv, the preface by Smith, which does not appear in any other edition. In it he states that one hundred and sixteen pages of his translation from the Book of Lehi were stolen and kept from him, and that he was commanded by the Lord not to do that part over again, but to replace it by a new translation from the plates of Nephi. The work begins with the two books of Nephi, which end on page 122; further on are the Books of Mosiah, Alma, Helaman, and the younger Nephi, preceded and followed by the shorter books of Jacob, Enos, Jarom, Omni, Mormon, Ether and Moroni. The leaf at the end contains on one side the testimony of three witnesses who asserted that they had seen the plates; and on the other side of eight witnesses, who had seen and handled them. Smith's account of the testimonials is in "Times and Seasons," vol. 3, pp. 897-899, Sept. 1, 1842.

After the book had been published and mostly distributed, an index was made and printed for pasting in at the end. It is on two leaves, paged i-iv, with heading, "References | to the | Book of Mormon," and gives in double columns the contents of the books and chapters in the order of their paging. The printing is apparently contemporary. One of the copies of the book in the New York Public Library has this index inserted, also two of the copies at Salt Lake City, and it has been found in one or two other copies which have come into the market in recent years. This index was not reprinted, the second edition of the book, 1837, being without one; as was also the third edition, Nauvoo, 1840, when first published. Later in 1840, probably, a larger and different index on the same plan was printed at Nauvoo, in double columns, pp. i-vii, for pasting in at the end. The only specimen of this four leaf sheet that has been located, is inserted in one of the copies of the 1840 edition in the New York Public Library. The same index was reprinted, with slight revision, in the Liverpool edition of 1841, and in that revised form is included in the later European editions.

This is the first publication of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, the church having been organized with six charter members, April 6, 1830, just after the book had been finished at the press. According to Smith, a revelation was given to him by an angel in September, 1823, when he was informed of the purpose of the visitation, and where the inscribed records were deposited, in the hill of "Cumorah," now called Mormon Hill, near the village of Manchester, Ontario County, N. Y., about six miles south of Palmyra, and where they had remained hidden since about the year 420 A.D. After many other visitations, these records were delivered into his hands, in September, 1827; and when the translation was completed in 1829, they were returned to the angel.

According to Smith's description, "These records were engraven on plates which had the appearance of gold, each plate was six inches wide and eight inches long and not quite so thick as common tin. They were filled with engravings, in Egyptian characters and bound together in a volume, as the leaves of a book with three rings running through the whole. The volume was something near six inches in thickness, a part of which was sealed. The characters on the unsealed part were small, and beautifully engraved. The whole book exhibited many marks of antiquity in its construction and much skill in the art of engraving. With the records was found a curious instrument which the ancients called Urim and Thummim, which consisted of two transparent stones set in the rim of a bow fastened to a breastplate. Through the medium of the Urim and Thummim I translated the record by the gift, and power of God."

The translation was dictated mostly to Oliver Cowdery, who acted as scribe. On its completion the copy right was secured and a contract made in 1829, with Egbert B. Grandin, publisher of the "Wayne Sentinel", at Palmyra, to print and bind five thousand copies for three thousand dollars, Martin Harris furnishing the money by mortgaging his farm. To guard against possible loss, a transcript of the original manuscript was made, and portions of this were carried daily to the printer. When the printing was finished, the two manuscripts were kept, the original by Joseph Smith, the other by Oliver Cowdery. Smith deposited his manuscript in the corner stone of the Nauvoo House in 1841, and some years later when Major L. C. Bidamon removed the stone which had been broken it was found that moisture had ruined the manuscript. Oliver Cowdery preserved his copy, and at his death, at Richmond, Missouri, March 3, 1850, he gave it to David Whitmer. After Whitmer's death, January 25, 1888, it passed to his grandson, George W. Schweich, who transferred it to Joseph Smith (the son of Joseph Smith, jr., the translator) at Independence, Missouri, April 18, 1903. At the death of Joseph Smith, December 10, 1914, the manuscript passed into the hands of Frederick M. Smith, of Independence, and is now in the possession of the officers of the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, at Independence, Missouri. It contains 464 pages. Some pages show the marks of the printer, and some are cut in takes for the typesetter. Fac-similes of two pages are given in the article by Walter W. Smith, Church Historian of the Reorganized Church, on the Book of Mormon, its translation and publication, in the "Journal of History," vol. 14, pp. 1-37, Lamoni, Iowa, January, 1921, which article has been consulted in the preparation of this note. See also the account and facsimile in I. Woodbridge Riley's "The Founder of Mormonism," New York, 1902, pp. 97-104. There is also an article by Elder Joseph Fielding Smith, in the "Deseret Evening News" of January 23, 1904, relating to the various editions of the Book of Mormon, Doctrine and Covenants, and other publications of the church.

According to Smith, the history of America is here unfolded from its original settlement. The first colony, the Jaredites, came directly from the Tower of Babel in barges, which were blown by a furious wind across the ocean to the promised land, the voyage lasting 344 days. Wars between themselves resulted in their destruction. About 600 B.C., a company of Israelites, descendants of Joseph, left Jerusalem under the guidance of Lehi and his son Nephi, and with the aid of a compass, or round brass ball of curious workmanship with two spindles for pointing the way, they sailed across the large waters to the same continent. Two nations sprang from this second race, the Nephites and Lamanites, who waged war for centuries. Christ came to America after his resurrection, and set up institutions similar to those which he had founded in the eastern continent. Finally, in A.D. 384, a great battle was fought at Cumorah Hill, in what is now Ontario County, New York, resulting in the complete overthrow of the Nephites. The victors or Lamanites were later known as the American Indians. Before the Nephites were thus cut off on account of their sins, the last of their prophets, Mormon, was commanded to write an abridgment of their records. The history was completed by his son, Moroni, who also wrote the account of the Jaredites from the plates left by them, the whole being buried about the year A.D. 420 in the hill of Cumorah, where they remained until revealed to Smith. With the historical account is included theology, exhortation and prophecy, the style being similar to that of the English Bible, from which there are many quotations.

An account of a visit to "The Hill Cumorah," and of interviews with the old inhabitants who remembered the Smith family, written by William H. Kelley, is printed in "The Saints' Herald," Plano, Ill., June 1, 1881, pp. 161-168.

The question of the possible use of the Spaulding manuscript in the composition of the Book of Mormon is discussed from opposite points of view, affirmatively by William A. Linn in his "Story of the Mormons," New York, 1902; and negatively by I. Woodbridge Riley in his "The Founder of Mormonism," New York, 1902. See also Spaulding (Solomon). Among the church publications are "The Story of the Book of Mormon," by Elder George Reynolds, Salt Lake City, 1888; second edition, 1898; and the same author's "Dictionary of the Book of Mormon, comprising its biographical, geographical and other proper names," Salt Lake City, 1891.

SMITH. The Book of Mormon: An Account written by the Hand of Mormon, upon Plates taken from the Plates of Nephi. Wherefore it is an abridgment of the record of the people of Nephi, and also of the Lamanites; written to the Lamanites, who are a remnant of the house of Israel; and also to Jew and Gentile: written by way of commandment, and also by the spirit of prophecy and of revelation. Written, and sealed up, and hid up unto the Lord, that they might not be destroyed; to come forth by the gift and power of God unto the interpretation thereof: sealed by the hand of Moroni, and hid up unto the Lord, to come forth in due time by the way of Gentile; the interpretation thereof by the gift of God: An abridgment taken from the book of Ether: also, which is a record of the people of Jared; who were scattered at the time the Lord confounded the language of the people when they were building a tower to get to heaven: which is to shew unto the remnant of the house of Israel what great things the Lord hath done for their fathers; and that they may know the covenants of the Lord, that they are not cast off forever; and also to the convincing of the Jew and Gentile that Jesus is the Christ, the Eternal God, manifesting himself unto all nations. And now if there are faults, they are the mistakes of men; wherefore condemn not the things of God, that ye may be found spotless at the judgment seat of Christ. Translated by Joseph Smith, Jr. Kirtland, Ohio: Printed by O. Cowdery & Co. for P. P. Pratt and J. Goodson. 1837. 18mo, pp. (2), v-vi, 7-619, (2), verso blank.

C., NYP., SLC., IND. 83039

The second edition, with correction of some typographical errors and other changes, the whole having been carefully compared with the original manuscript and revised by Smith and Cowdery, according to the new preface by Parley P. Pratt and John Goodson. 5000 copies were authorized to be printed. Copyright notice, 1829, by Joseph Smith, Jr., on verso of the title; the preface, pp. v-vi; the testimony of three witnesses, on verso of p. 619, and of eight witnesses, on the page opposite, on the lower part of which is a statement to the reader, that the original intention announced in the preface, to include the "Doctrine and Covenants" in the same volume, had been found impracticable.

SMITH. The Book of Mormon. Translated by Joseph Smith, Jr. Third Edition, carefully revised by the Translator. Nauvoo, Ill: Printed by Robinson and Smith. Stereotyped by Shepard and Stearns, West 3rd St. Cincinnati, Ohio. 1840. 18mo, pp. (4), 7-571, (2), verso blank. NYP., SLC., IND. 83040

The publishers were Ebenezer Robinson, and Don Carlos Smith, the youngest brother of the prophet. The printing and binding were done in Cincinnati, under the supervision of Mr. Robinson, whose account of the undertaking is printed in the "Saints' Herald" of March 10, 1883, pp. 146-147. Copyright notice, 1829, by Joseph Smith, Jr., on verso of the title; full title of the book, without imprint, on recto of the second leaf, verso blank; the testimonies at the end of the volume.

Two copies in the New York Public Library have the above collation, the testimonies being on the verso of p. 571 and the page opposite. Another copy in the same library and also one in the New York Historical Society collection have the testimonies on the two sides of a single leaf, the verso of p. 571 being blank.

Not long after the book was published, an "Index" for it was printed at Nauvoo, on a sheet of four leaves, paged i-vii, quite different in wording from the former index found in a few copies of the first edition, and much fuller. Each page is in two columns, and the contents are listed, not alphabetically, but in the order and sequence of the books and chapters. This index is pasted in at the end of one of the New York Public Library copies of the 1840 edition, but has not been found in the other copies examined.

SMITH. The Book of Mormon: An Account written by the Hand of Mormon, upon Plates taken from the Plates of Nephi. Wherefore it is an abridgment of the record of the people of Nephi, and also of the Lamanites; written to the Lamanites, who are a remnant of the house of Israel; and also to Jew and Gentile: written by way of commandment, and also by the spirit of prophecy and of revelation. Written, and sealed up, and hid up unto the Lord, that they might not be destroyed; to come forth by the gift and power of God unto the interpretation thereof: sealed by the hand of Moroni, and hid up unto the Lord, to come forth in due time by the way of Gentile; the interpretation thereof by the gift of God: An abridgment taken from the book of Ether: also, which is a record of the people of Jared; who were scattered at the time the Lord confounded the language of the people when they were building a tower to get to heaven; which is to shew unto the remnant of the house of Israel what great things the Lord hath done for their fathers; and that they may know the covenants of the Lord, that they are not cast off for ever; and also to the convincing of the Jew and Gentile that Jesus is the Christ, the Eternal God, manifesting himself unto all nations. And now if there are faults, they are the mistakes of men; wherefore condemn not the things of God, that ye may be found spotless at the judgment-seat of Christ. Translated by Joseph Smith, Jun. First European, from the Second American Edition. Printed by J.

Tompkins, Liverpool, England: For Brigham Young, Heber C. Kimball, and Parley P. Pratt. By order of the Translator. 1841. 18mo, pp. (4), 634, index 637-643. NYP., SLC., IND. 83041

In this edition the testimonies of the witnesses, formerly at the end of the volume, were transferred to the front, as they now appear in all later editions, and an index was added at the end. This index is a revision of the one printed separately at Nauvoo in 1840, with a few corrections and added words. According to Elder Joseph Fielding Smith, the book was entered at Stationers' Hall in London, February 8, 1841. The contract was for 5000 copies, but only 4050 were delivered. An agreement was made in April, 1841, for the printing of another edition of 950 copies to supply the deficiency, at the expense of the printer, but the agreement was not carried out by the latter.

SMITH. The Book of Mormon. Translated by Joseph Smith. Fourth American, and Second Stereotype Edition. Carefully revised by the Translator. Nauvoo, Illinois: Printed by Joseph Smith. 1842. 18mo, pp. (4), 7-571, (2), verso blank.

C., SLC., IND. 83042

This edition is uncommon, and the only one in which "Jr." or "Jun." is omitted after Smith's name, his father having died in September, 1840. It was printed from the plates of the 1840 edition.

SMITH. The Book of Mormon: an Account written by the Hand of Mormon, upon Plates taken from the Plates of Nephi. . . . Translated by Joseph Smith, Jun. Second European Edition. Liverpool: Published by Orson Pratt, 15, Wilton Street. 1849. [Colophon:] Liverpool. Printed by Richard James, 39 South Castle Street. 18mo, pp. xii, 563, (1). SLC., IND. 83043

The only change was the transfer of the index to the front part of the book.

SMITH. [The same title.] + Third European Edition. Stereotyped. Liverpool: Published by F. D. Richards, 15, Wilton Street. London: Sold at the L. D. Saints' Book Depot, 35, Jewin Street; and by all Booksellers. 1852. [Colophon:] London: Printed by William Bowden, 16, Princes Street, Red Lion Square. 18mo, pp. xii, 563, (1). H., NYP., SLC., IND. 83044

Edited by Elder Franklin D. Richards, who added numbers to the verses, revised the punctuation, and had the book stereotyped. A half-title precedes the titlepage.

SMITH. [The same title.] + Fourth European Edition. Stereotyped. Liverpool: Published for Orson Pratt, by S. W. Richards, 15, Wilton Street. 1854. 18mo, pp. xii, 563.

H., NYP., SLC., IND. 83045

No colophon in this and the next following edition, the verso of 563 being blank.

SMITH. [The same title.] + Fifth European Edition. Stereotyped. Liverpool: Published by F. D. Richards, 15, Wilton

Street. London: Sold at the L. D. Saints' Book Depot, 35, Jewin Street, and by all Booksellers. 1854. 18mo, pp. xii, 563.

SMITH. The Book of Mormon. Translated by Joseph Smith, Jr. Reprinted from the third American edition, carefully revised by the Translator. New York: Jas. O. Wright & Company, 377 Broadway, Publishers. [1858.] 12mo, pp. (4), v-xix, 3-380.

C., UTS., SLC., IND. 83047

SMITH. [The same title. Another issue.] + New York: Jas. O. Wright & Company, 377 Broadway, Publishers. [Before 1862.] 12mo, pp. (4), v-x, [xiii]-xix, 3-380.

NYP., SLC., IND. 83048

There are two issues printed from the same stereotype plates, differing only in some of the preliminaries. The one described first was not authorized by any branch of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, but was published as a business venture. It was printed at the Directory Office of John F. Trow, no. 377 Broadway, for James O. Wright & Company of the same address, and came out late in 1858, being listed in the "Independent" of November 11 of that year, among new books received. In Trow's New York City Directory for 1859-60, issued in June, 1859, at the end, is a full page advertisement announcing the "Mormon Bible" as just published, and giving extracts from reviews. Messrs. Wright & Company's name is repeated as publishers of the "Mormon Bible" at 52 Greene Street, in the Directories from 1860 to 1864, after which date it does not appear. The half-page "Advertisement" following the title, claims that "The present Edition . . . is an accurate reprint of the Third American Edition, originally published at Nauvoo, eighteen years ago, under the official sanction of the leaders of the Mormon Church. The interest which attaches to this curious work, not only as a literary production, but as the recognized standard of the religious faith of a People whose history is attracting great attention, has appeared to the Publishers a sufficient reason for reissuing it," etc. Following the advertisement is an introduction of eight pages, numbered v-xii, giving first the orthodox view of the book, and secondly an account of Solomon Spaulding and his "Manuscript Found," and the possible connection of that work with the "Book of Mormon," through Sidney Rigdon; also Professor Anthon's statement that the strange characters shown to him by Martin Harris, purporting to be copied from the golden plates, were not Egyptian hieroglyphics. The next leaf, [xiii-xiv] unpagged, contains the long title and the testimonies of the witnesses. The contents or index, pp. xv-xix, was copied from one of the European editions, probably from that of 1849, as suggested by Elder Joseph Fielding Smith.

The other issue from the same plates, known as the "Huntley" or "Brooks-Huntley" edition, was made some time between 1859 and 1861 for a group of Mormons at Kirtland, Ohio, who were followers of Elder Zadoc Brooks and opposed to polygamy. It is said that "four thousand copies" were printed, the cost of which was paid by Elder Russell Huntley, a prosperous member of that church. The alteration consisted in the cancellation of the original advertisement and introduction, and the substitution of new ones, signed at the end, "Written by Z. Brook, Elder in the Church of Christ." The "Advertisement" was changed to read: "The present edition . . . is an accurate reprint of the third American edition, originally published at Nauvoo, eighteen years ago, under the official sanction of the leaders of the Church of Jesus Christ. The apostacy of the great body of the Church, through the influence of false teachers, who privily brought into the Church Damnable Heresies, . . . together with the fact that they have for a long time suppressed the Book, on account of its pointed condemnation of their practices, has appeared to the Publisher as a sufficient reason for reissuing it; so that the many firm believers in the Book that are scattered through the land, . . . may have an opportunity to avail themselves of its precious truths, . . . the real weapon with which to put down Polygamy and its kindred institutions," etc. The new introduction is called "a mere synopsis of the evidences of the divinity of the Book," and contains six pages only, numbered v-x, followed directly by [xiii], there being no pp. xi-xii as in the first issue.

It was from this second issue that the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints was supplied from 1862 to 1874, when their first official edition was printed at Plano. After the decline of the Brooks faction, Elder Huntley had a large number of these books on hand, many of which he gave away. "Long before he united with us, we sold these books for him and paid him for hundreds of them," says President Joseph Smith in the "Saints' Herald" for January 15, 1881. The date of this arrangement with Elder Huntley is indicated by the following extracts from the "True Latter Day Saints' Herald," the official magazine of the "New Organization," printed at Cincinnati. In April, 1861, it announced that "old publications of the church are frequently sent for, but we have none for sale"; and in February, 1862, that "An answer to those who have communicated their desire to purchase the Book of Mormon, and B. of Cov. may be expected in our next." This promise was partly fulfilled in the number for March, 1862, by offering for sale the Book of Doctrine and Covenants; but it was six months later, in September, 1862, before the Book of Mormon was ready for sale. After that date it was advertised regularly until January, 1873.

SMITH. The Book of Mormon: an Account written by the Hand of Mormon, upon Plates taken from the Plates of Nephi. . . . Translated by Joseph Smith, Jun. Sixth European Edition. Stereotyped. Liverpool: Published by Brigham Young, Jun., 42, Islington. London: Sold at the L. D. Saints' Book Depot, 30, Florence Street, Islington, and by all Booksellers. 1866. [Colophon:] Liverpool: Printed by Brigham Young, Jun., 42, Islington. 18mo, pp. xii, 563, (1). NYP., SLC., IND. 83049

As issued in 1866, like one of the copies in the New York Public Library, the book has the above collation and colophon, with the words "Entered at Stationers' Hall" on verso of the title, and was printed throughout from the stereotype plates made in 1852.

In a later issue with the same imprint and date, like the other copy in the New York Public Library, made about 1870, and like those with the Salt Lake City imprint of 1871, the Stationers' Hall entry and the colophon were omitted, and the following twenty-five pages were reprinted and replated from slightly different type: xii, 42, 114, 117, 154, 196, 197, 224, 260, 271, 292, 293, 348, 349, 351, 352, 353, 354, 376, 420, 452, 465, 517, 518, and 563.

A still later issue, like those with the Salt Lake City imprint of 1877, have the number of reprinted and replated pages increased to thirty-four, by the addition of pp. 304, 320, 429, 486, 490, 499, 505, 512, 514, and 538, while p. 154 reappears from the original plate of 1852.

SMITH. [The Book of Mormon in the Deseret alphabet.] New York: Published for the Deseret University by Russell Bros. 1869. 8vo, 3 prel. leaves, pp. v-xi, 443. C., NYP., SLC., IND. 83050

This edition was printed under the direction of Orson Pratt, in the phonetic or "Deseret" alphabet, a table of which, consisting of thirty-eight characters, faces the title. The New York Public Library has also a separate issue of the first seven books, called Part I, containing 4 prel. leaves, and pp. 116, with printed board cover. The alphabet was prepared and adopted by the regents of Deseret University in 1853, and the type was cast at New York in 1854, but on account of lack of funds it was not used until 1868, when the "Deseret First Book" and "Deseret Second Book" were printed in these characters at New York. See Bancroft's "Utah," pp. xxvi, 712-714. It was never adopted generally, and is now looked on as a curiosity.

SMITH. The Book of Mormon: an account written by the Hand of Mormon, upon Plates taken from the Plates of Nephi. . . . Translated by Joseph Smith, Jun. Salt Lake City: For sale at Deseret News Office, the Church Book Depot. Published by George Q. Cannon. 1871. 18mo, pp. xii, 563.

NYP., SLC., IND. 83051

The first edition with a Salt Lake City imprint, from the English stereotyped plates of 1852, with the replated twenty-five pages made for the reissue of the 1866 Liverpool edition, which see for description.

SMITH. [The same title.] + Salt Lake City: For sale at Deseret News Office, the Church Book Depot. Published by David O. Calder. 1874. 18mo, pp. xii, 563. SLC., IND. 83052

SMITH. The Book of Mormon. Translated by Joseph Smith, Jun. Reprinted from the Third American Edition. Plano, Ill.: Published by the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints. 1874. 16mo, pp. xii, 545. NYP., SLC., IND. 83053

The first edition published by the Reorganized Church. It is not a reprint from the third American, as the title reads, but follows the Liverpool stereotyped edition of 1852, with which it agrees in the numbering of the verses and revised punctuation, first adopted in that edition. The index, pp. v-xii, is entirely new, arranged in the order of the paging with references to the verse numbers. The book was stereotyped, and the plates used for about twenty later editions with the Lamoni imprint, until new plates were made in 1908.

SMITH. The Book of Mormon. Translated by Joseph Smith, Jun. Reprinted from the Third American Edition. Lamoni, Iowa: Published by the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints. 1874. 16mo, pp. xii, 545. CU., IND. 83054

Printed from the plates of the Plano edition, after the removal to Lamoni in 1881, with change of place name but not of the original date. The village of Lamoni was not laid out until 1879, and the publishing house of the Reorganized Church was not moved there from Plano until October, 1881. According to Elder S. A. Burgess, Church Historian, successive editions were printed from these plates with the Lamoni imprint until the publication of the authorized edition of that Church in 1908, many with the date 1874 unchanged, one or two without any date, the 22d edition in 1900, the 25th edition in 1901, the 26th edition in 1902, the 29th edition in 1904, the 30th edition in 1905, the 31st edition in 1906, and the 33d and last edition in 1907. In the numbering of these later editions, as in the numbering of the Book of Doctrine and Covenants, which began also about 1900, it is probable that all the early editions recognized as authentic by the Reorganized Church were included, counting the Plano 1874 edition perhaps as the eleventh, and followed during the next twenty-five years by about ten more editions from the same plates, all bearing the 1874 Lamoni imprint.

SMITH. The Book of Mormon: an account written by the Hand of Mormon, upon Plates taken from the Plates of Nephi. . . . Translated by Joseph Smith, Jun. Salt Lake City: For sale at Deseret News Office, the Church Book Depot. Published by Cannon & Young. 1877. 18mo, pp. xii, 563. NYP., SLC., IND. 83055

The last impression made from the Liverpool stereotype plates of 1852, before they were discarded. It includes the thirty-four replated pages mentioned in the note to the 1866 edition, which see for details.

SMITH. The Book of Mormon: an account written by the Hand of Mormon, upon Plates taken from the Plates of Nephi. . . . Translated by Joseph Smith, Jun. Division into chapters and verses, with references by Orson Pratt, Sen. Electrotpe Edition. Liverpool: Printed and Published by William Budge, 42, Islington. 1879. 16mo, pp. xii, 623. SLC., IND. 83056

Prepared under the supervision of Orson Pratt, who went to England in December, 1878, for the purpose of having plates made of the Book of Mormon and Doctrine and Covenants. He divided the book into chapters and verses, and added the footnote references. The electrotpe plates of this edition were used for many years in the Liverpool and Salt Lake City editions.

Printed on India paper, and perhaps on ordinary paper. This issue of the "Fifth Chicago Edition" is undated, but it bears in the imprint the North Sawyer Avenue address of the Chicago Mission, and for that reason is assigned to the latter part of [1912], the earliest possible date. The address of the Mission was at 149 South Paulina Street from 1905 to 1908, at 110 South Paulina Street in 1910, 1911, and the summer of 1912, and in North Sawyer Avenue in 1913 and following years. If some copies of the "Fifth Edition" were issued before 1912, as is probable, they would have the earlier address.

First edition printed at Independence for the Utah Church, by Zion's Printing and Publishing Company. From information at hand it would appear that eight editions in all were printed at Independence by this publishing company, the first four being from the plates of the earlier Chicago editions. New plates were made for the fifth edition, from type set by a monotype machine, and these plates were used until superseded by the Hammond plates in 1920. According to Elder Joseph F. Smith, between 1913 and 1918 the editions issued by this company amounted to more than 115,000 copies. They were all without date, and without edition number on the titles, but are referred to as first, second, third, and fifth editions, etc., as if the number appeared somewhere in the book.

Some copies of the first edition have bound at the end, "Helps to the study of the Book of Mormon," prepared by Joel Ricks, and printed for him, 88 pages, beside 48 pages of woodcuts and two double page maps. Mr. Ricks was alone responsible for copies so bound.

Preface by Erastus Snow, May 1, 1851. Some copies have an index, pp. 12. The first missionaries to Denmark, Apostle Erastus Snow and Peter O. Hansen, were appointed in October, 1849, and arrived in Copenhagen in the summer of 1850. The translation of the "Book of Mormon" was made by Elder Hansen, and was the first to be printed in a foreign language. In 1855, Elder Hansen conducted a colony of 440 Scandinavian converts from Europe to Salt Lake City. He died at Manti, Utah, August 9, 1895.—Jenson's "Church Chronology," pp. 38, 39, 43, 52, and 209.

Published by the Utah Church for circulation among the Armenians in the Turkish Empire. It has been stated that the book was printed in New York, which Elder Joseph Fielding Smith informs us is an error, and that it was really printed in Boston. This mission was begun by Elder Jacob Spori, first at Constantinople in 1885, and continued at Haifa in Palestine, in 1886. In May, 1898, Elder Hintze baptised at Jerusalem, two Armenian converts from Asia Minor.

With preface signed by W. S. Phillips, John Davis, Thomas Pugh, and dated from Merthyr-Tydfil, April 6, 1852. This translation into the Welsh language was made by John Davis, who printed the book in Georgetown, now a part of Merthyr-Tydfil. According to Jenson's "Church Chronology," the Welsh mission was opened by Elder Dan Jones in 1843, and in the following year there were 700 converts.

The Book of Mormon was also translated into Hindostani in Arabic characters, and into Hebrew in Hebrew characters, but not printed; the manuscripts being now in the library of the Church at Salt Lake City. The Hindostani version was by James Patrick Meik, a member of the India mission conducted by Elder Joseph Richards at Calcutta from 1851 to 1856. A Hebrew version was made in 1889, according to Jenson's "Church Chronology," but not being satisfactory, it was translated again in 1923, by Herman Miller, a Hebrew of Salt Lake City. Information from Elder Joseph Fielding Smith.

[SMITH.] A Book of Commandments, for the Government of the Church of Christ, organized according to law, on the 6th of April, 1830. Zion: Published by W. W. Phelps & Co. 1833. 24mo, pp. 160. A-E in sixteens. NYP., SLC., IND. 83147

The second publication of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints. Zion was the town of Independence, Missouri. This first edition was never completed. It was intended to contain the revelations made to Joseph Smith concerning the organization and government of the church, from July, 1828 to April, 1832, which had been written from his dictation by Oliver Cowdery, and later by John Whitmer, in a manuscript book called "The Book of Commandments," and sometimes, "The Book of the Law of the Lord." The continued growth of the church made it desirable to have these revelations published. In July, 1831, when it was decided to buy lands and settle in the neighborhood of Independence, Jackson County, Missouri, a revelation was received by Smith, naming the new location "Zion," and providing for the establishment of a printing office, with W. W. Phelps as printer. At a conference in September of that year Mr. Phelps was authorized to purchase a press and type in Cincinnati for the purpose of publishing a monthly magazine. A church council held at Independence on May 1, 1832, appointed Phelps, Oliver Cowdery and John Whitmer to select and edit revelations for the Book of Commandments, of which 3,000 copies were ordered printed at the church printing house conducted by Phelps and Cowdery. The first number of the magazine, "The Evening and the Morning Star," was issued from this office in June, 1832, and selections from the revelations were printed in it and the following numbers before they appeared in book form.

The printing of the book itself progressed slowly, being mentioned in the "Star" for October and December, 1832, and May, 1833, as still in the press. By July, 1833, five sheets of 32 pages each had been struck off, nearly to the end of chapter 65, pp. 157-160, a revelation to the elders in Kirtland, September, 1831, which was renumbered as section 21 and again as section 64 in the earlier and later editions of the book of Doctrine and Covenants. At this stage of the work, on July 20, the printing house was attacked by an anti-Mormon mob, and its contents, including the sheets of the printed revelations, destroyed or scattered through the streets. Some of these sheets were rescued, and a few copies of the book made up from them. It is probable that some other copies were also issued in sheets, while being printed. A letter of instructions to W. W. Phelps and others, in Zion, dated June 25, 1833, and signed by Joseph Smith, Sidney Rigdon, and F. G. Williams, reads, "First, as respects getting the Book of Commandments bound, we think that it is not necessary. They will be sold well without binding, and there is no book binder to be had as we know of, nor are the materials to be had for binding, without keeping the book too long from circulation."

Besides the copy preserved in the New York Public Library, there is one in the Library of Congress, formerly in the Berrian collection, two copies in the Office of the Church Historian at Salt Lake City, one in possession of the Reorganized Church Library at Independence, and half a dozen or more in private hands. The only public sales recorded are those of the Charles L. Woodward copy, by Messrs. Bangs & Co., Jan. 19, 1880; and of the Charles J. Barnes copy, at the Anderson Galleries, Oct. 13, 1920, the latter selling for $320.

The original books in which these revelations were written and preserved at the time they were given, recorded in the handwriting of Oliver Cowdery, John Whitmer, and other recorders, and known as the "Far West Record," "The Book of the Law of the Lord," and others, are now in the official library of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, at Salt Lake City, Utah, as we are informed by Elder Joseph Fielding Smith, the Church Historian.

A portion of the copied manuscript for the printer, from which the book was set up, including the last page printed and following pages, was preserved by Oliver Cowdery, passing at his death in 1850 to David Whitmer, and from the Whitmer heirs in 1903 to Joseph Smith, of Independence, Missouri, President of the Reorganized Church, and is now in the official library of that Church at Independence. The page of the manuscript showing how far the printing had gone, was reproduced by photogravure as a frontispiece to Walter W. Smith's bibliographical article in the "Journal of History," vol. 14, pp. 129-160, Independence, April, 1921, which also contains fac-similes of the title and last page of the printed book. The above article has been consulted in the preparation of this note, together with Joseph Smith's history and other contemporary sources in "Times and Seasons," and "The Evening and the Morning Star"; also Whitmer's "Address to all Believers in Christ," 1887.

SMITH. Doctrine and Covenants of the Church of the Latter Day Saints: Carefully selected from the Revelations of God, and compiled by Joseph Smith Junior, Oliver Cowdery, Sidney Rigdon, Frederick G. Williams, (Presiding Elders of said Church.) Proprietors. Kirtland, Ohio. Printed by F. G. Williams & Co. for the Proprietors. 1835. 18mo, pp. iv, 5-257, xxv.

C., H., NYP., SLC., IND. 83152

The second edition of the revelations, and the first with the title "Doctrine and Covenants." The publication was provided for at a conference held in Kirtland, Ohio, on September 24, 1834, and the preface is signed by Joseph Smith, jr., Oliver Cowdery, Sidney Rigdon, and F. G. Williams, at Kirtland, Ohio, February 17, 1835. In its new form the first part consists of lectures on faith, originally delivered before a class of the elders, in Kirtland, with questions and answers, pp. 5-74; the second part, "Covenants and Commandments," contains the revelations included in the earlier "Book of Commandments," differently arranged, and considerably revised, with some additional revelations for that period as well as for the years 1832 to 1834, followed by two articles, one on "Marriage," and the other, "Of Governments and Laws in General," the whole making 102 numbered sections, pp. 75-254. The minutes of the General Assembly of August, 1835, relating to the publication of the book and the adoption of the articles, fill pp. 255-257; the two indexes, one chronological in the order of the paging and the other alphabetical, pp. i-xxiii; and notes to the reader on the errata to be corrected, p. xxv.

This article on marriage, which appears in all of the editions prior to that of 1876, was written by Oliver Cowdery and submitted to the conference held August 17, 1835, by which it was approved, and ordered published. It contains the statement of belief, "that one man should have one wife; and one woman, but one husband, except in case of death, when either is at liberty to marry again." Joseph Smith was not present during this conference but was in Canada, and knew nothing of this article until his return to Kirtland some days later, after this action had been taken. According to Elder Joseph Fielding Smith, "We have it on the record of Orson Pratt and others that Joseph Smith was not pleased, but since the action had been taken and that was then the rule and regulation of the Church he permitted the article to stand. It should be understood clearly that this article and the one on government were not then, and never have been, received as revelations. There are those who have tried to make it appear that Joseph Smith gave this article on marriage as a revelation to the Church. The fact is that he had nothing to do with it and was not present when it was adopted."

A bibliographical account of the book, by Walter W. Smith, Church Historian of the Reorganized Church, including a fac-simile of the title, is in the "Journal of History," vol. 14, pp. 139-145, Independence, Mo., April 1921. It was proposed in 1837 to reprint the work in the same volume with the "Book of Mormon," but the plan was found to be impracticable.

SMITH. The Doctrine and Covenants of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints; carefully selected from the Revelations of God. By Joseph Smith, President of said Church. Second Edition. Nauvoo, Ill: Printed by John Taylor. 1844. 18mo, pp. (2), 5-448. NYP., SLC., IND. 83153

Issued under Joseph Smith's copyright of 1835. A note in "Times and Seasons," vol. 3, p. 639, January 1, 1842, stated that the book was being stereotyped and would be published in the spring, but its appearance was delayed until the latter part of 1844. Revelations received from 1834 to 1841, two epistolary addresses by Smith in September, 1842, and an article on the "Martyrdom of Joseph Smith and his brother Hyrum," were added to this edition, increasing the number of sections from 102 to 111. The chronological index was retained, pp. 446-448, but the minutes of the General Assembly of 1835 and the alphabetical index were omitted.

SMITH. The Doctrine and Covenants of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints; carefully selected from the Revelations of God. By Joseph Smith, President of said Church. Third Edition. Nauvoo, Ill: Printed by John Taylor. 1845. 18mo, pp. (2), 5-448. NYP., SLC., IND. 83154

A reprint from the stereotype plates of the second edition. The copyright is in the names of N. K. Whitney and George Miller, 1845.

SMITH. The Book of Doctrine & Covenants, of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints; selected from the Revelations of God. By Joseph Smith, President. First European Edition. Liverpool: Wilford Woodruff, Stanley Buildings, Bath Street. [1845.] [On verso of title:] Liverpool: Printed by James and Woodburn, 30, South Castle Street. 16mo, pp. xxiii, 336.

NYP., SLC., IND. 83155

This edition was issued from the "Star" office, with a preface by Thomas Ward, editor of the "Latter-Day Saints' Millennial Star," dated Liverpool, June 14th, 1845, pp. v-ix. The alphabetical index is reprinted from the 1835 edition, and occupies pp. xi-xxiii, but the chronological index is not included. Sections 108-111 are in the appendix, pp. 325-336, ending with the colophon: James and Woodburn, Printers, Liverpool. A half-title precedes the title.

SMITH. The Doctrine and Covenants of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints; carefully selected from the Revelations of God. By Joseph Smith, President of said Church. Fourth American Edition. Nauvoo, Ill: Printed by John Taylor. 1846. 18mo, pp. (2), 5-448. NYH., SLC., IND. 83156

"This was the last American edition to appear before the exodus, and for many years the publication of almost all the Church works was carried on at Liverpool."—JOSEPH FIELDING SMITH.

SMITH. The Book of Doctrine & Covenants, of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints; selected from the Revelations of God. By Joseph Smith, President. Second European Edition. Liverpool; Orson Pratt, 15, Wilton Street. 1849. [On verso of title:] Liverpool: Printed by R. James, 39, South Castle Street. 18mo, pp. xxiii, 336. NYP., SLC., IND. 83157

In this edition the preface of 1845 by Thomas Ward was omitted, its place being filled by an erratum on one leaf and by the addition of the chronological index, pp. vii-x, from the edition of 1835, the alphabetical index being on pp. xi-xxiii.

SMITH. [The same title.] + Third European Edition. Stereotyped. *Liverpool: Published by S. W. Richards, 15, Wilton Street. London: Sold at the L. D. H., SLC., IND. 83158

The stereotype plates made for this edition, omitting the erratum leaf of the 1849 edition, were used to supply the Church in England and America for nearly twenty-five years, until the publication of the new edition at Salt Lake City in 1876.

SMITH. [The same title.] + Fourth European Edition. Stereotyped. Liverpool: Published for Orson Pratt, by S. W. Richards, 15, Wilton Street. 1854. 18mo, pp. (4), vii-xxiii, 336. B., NYP., SLC., IND. 83159

[SMITH.] Book of Doctrine and Covenants of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints. Carefully selected from the Revelations of God, and given in the order of their dates. Cincinnati: Printed by the Publishing Committee of the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints. 1864. 16mo, pp. vi, 335. NYP., IND. 83160

The first edition published by the Reorganized Church, a division of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints protesting against the doctrine of polygamy adopted by the Utah Church in 1852, and organized in April, 1860, when Joseph Smith, son of the prophet, was called to the Presidency. The publication was authorized by the General Conference held in Pottawattamie County, Iowa, October 6-9, 1863, and copyrighted in the Southern District of Ohio by Joseph Smith and Israel L. Rogers in 1864. The revelations in this edition were rearranged in a more exact order of date, 1828-1842, the exceptions being the preface and appendix, both of 1831. A table of contents in the order of this edition is followed by an index in the order of the former publications, pp. iii-vi. The Lectures on Faith come first, pp. 1-62; then follow the revelations in 110 numbered sections, two of which are additions; and the volume closes with the three articles, one on marriage, one on governments and laws in general, and the last an account of the martyrdom of Joseph Smith and his brother Hyrum in 1844, numbered as sections 111, 112, 113, the latter ending on p. 335, the reverse blank. The additions are section 22, Revelation to Joseph Smith, Jr., given June, 1830, being the words of God which he spake unto Moses, pp. 105-108; and section 36, Extract from the prophesy of Enoch, pp. 127-134.

This edition served the Reorganized Church for many years, until new plates were made in 1897. The Cincinnati stereotype plates were stored in the office of the "Saints' Herald" at Plano, which was removed to Lamoni in October, 1881, and whenever the stock of books ran low, more were printed from the old plates. New title-pages were occasionally substituted, (1) Plano, 1880; (2) Lamoni, 1880, so dated, but really printed in or after 1882; and (3) Lamoni, 1894. Supplementary pages of later revelations as described below, were added in 1880, 1882 or later, 1887, 1890, and 1894, and bound with the books issued subsequently to those dates. These new pages were also printed separately and sent to subscribers of the "Saints' Herald," and by request to others, for pasting in their copies of the book.

(1) Supplement of pp. 336-341, printed at Plano in 1880, in the edition with the substituted title of that place and date. Contains the new revelations received by the Reorganized Church in 1861, 1863, 1865, and 1873, numbered as sections 114, 115, 116, and 117, which were ordered to be included in the book by the General Conference of September, 1878, and are here printed for the first time in that form. No separate issue of these six pages has been found.

(2) Supplement of pp. 336-342, printed at Lamoni in 1882 or later, in the edition with the substituted title of Lamoni, 1880, being a reprint of the preceding supplement, with the addition of the new revelation of September 28, 1882, section 118, on p. 342. Also issued separately, on four leaves, for insertion in the earlier issues of the book. One of the copies of the 1864 edition in the library of the Reorganized Church at Independence, Missouri, has these leaves pasted in at the end, according to Elder S. A. Burgess. The first page is blank.

(3) Supplement of pp. 343-346, printed separately at Lamoni in 1887, and containing the new revelation given April 11th, 1887, section 119. At the top of p. 343 are the words, "Supplement to The Saints' Herald," in which paper it first appeared on April 23, 1887, p. 259. These two leaves are pasted in two copies of the 1864 edition in the library of the Reorganized Church at Independence, Missouri, and in three copies with the substituted title of Lamoni, 1880, in the same library. They are also pasted in a copy of the 1864 edition in the New York Public Library.

(4) Supplement of pp. 341-352, printed separately at Lamoni in 1890, containing a reprint of the preceding pp. 341-346, and new revelations on pp. 347-352. There is besides a preliminary leaf with title, "Supplement to The Saints' Herald, June 28th, 1890," verso blank, and a final blank leaf, making eight leaves in all. The additions are the revelation of April 8, 1890, section 120, on pp. 347-350, and three of the revelations received at the Conference of 1885, numbered as section 121, on pp. 350-352, the last page having only four lines of print. This supplement is bound in the volume of the "Saints' Herald" for 1890, in the New York Public Library; and it is bound or inserted in several copies of the Book of Doctrine and Covenants with the Lamoni 1880 title, in the library of the Reorganized Church at Independence, Missouri.

(5) Supplement of pp. 352-359, printed at Lamoni in 1894, in the edition with the substituted title of that date, and described in the note to that edition. No separate issue is recorded.

Other copies of the 1864 edition are described as containing the revelation of 1901, pp. 385-391, and the revelation of 1902, pp. 391-394, both of which were pagged as supplements to the edition of Lamoni, 1897. Bound or inserted with some copies is the "Concordance and Reference Guide to the Book of Doctrine and Covenants," Plano, III., 1870, pp. 23; or later editions of the same without date, pp. 32.

C., NYP., SLC., IND. 83163

The first Salt Lake City edition, revised throughout and chronologically arranged, with added revelations and addresses increasing the number of sections from 111 to 136. It is the first also with the division into verses by Orson Pratt. The copyright, 1876, is by David O. Calder, editor of the "Deseret News." After the half-title and title, are the index to the Lectures on Faith, one leaf; the contents of the revelations, pp. vii-xxxix; the Lectures on Faith, pp. 1-71; the Covenants and Commandments, sections 1-132, pp. 72-432; and the Appendix, sections 133-136, pp. 433-448.

Among the twenty-six added sections are the earliest revelation received by Smith, September 21, 1823; the revelation of December 25, 1832, predicting civil war between the Northern and Southern states, beginning in South Carolina; the revelations received by Smith at Far West, Missouri, in 1838, and in Jail at Liberty, Missouri, in 1839; and the "Revelation on the Eternity of the Marriage Covenant, including Plurality of Wives, Given through Joseph, the Seer, in Nauvoo, Hancock County, Illinois, July 12th, 1843." This last, numbered as section 132, pp. 423-432, is here for the first time incorporated in the book, taking the place of the former article on "Marriage" in the earlier editions, now omitted. It was first publicly read at a conference held in Salt Lake City, August 28, 1852, and was printed in the "Deseret News Extra," of September 14, 1852. It was printed also in the "Latter-Day Saints' Millennial Star," Liverpool, vol. 15, 1853, January 1, and in the Supplement. Section 136, pp. 445-448 of the Appendix, contains "The Word and Will of the Lord, given through President Brigham Young, at the Winter Quarters of the Camp of Israel, Omaha Nation, West Bank of Missouri River, near Council Bluffs, January 14th, 1847," giving instructions for the organization of the journey to Utah.

Two additional sections, 137 and 138, comprising revelations of 1882, 1883, and 1884, were published in the Swedish and German editions, 1888 and 1893; but according to information from A. William Lund, Assistant Church Historian, Salt Lake City, these two sections were never included in the editions in English.

SMITH. The Doctrine and Covenants, of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints, containing the Revelations given to Joseph Smith, Jun., the Prophet, for the Building up of the Kingdom of God in the Last Days. Divided into verses, with references, By Orson Pratt, Sen. Electrotpe Edition. Liverpool: Printed and published by William Budge, 42, Islington. 1879. 12mo, pp. (4), 503. NYP., SLC., IND. 83164

A reprint of the revised edition of 1876, with the omission of the index to the Lectures on Faith and the list of contents of the revelations, the addition of footnote references to the revelations, which end with section 136 on p. 492, and the addition of an alphabetical index, pp. 493-503. Elder Orson Pratt went to England in 1877 and again in 1878, for the purpose of having electrotype plates made of this edition and of the Book of Mormon. The new plates were used for many years in the Liverpool and Salt Lake City editions of the Doctrine and Covenants, until superseded by the plates made at Hammond, Indiana, in 1921.

SMITH. [The same title.] + Salt Lake City, Utah: Deseret News Company, Printers and Publishers. 1880. 12mo, pp. (4), 503. C., SLC., IND. 83165

Editions of Salt Lake City, 1879, 1882, and 1885, were mentioned by Elder S. A. Burgess in his letter of May 9, 1927, but they have not been included here because we are informed that no copies could be located.

[SMITH.] Book of Doctrine and Covenants of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints. Carefully selected from the Revelations of God, and given in the order of their dates. Plano, Ill.: Published by the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints. 1880. 16mo, pp. vi, 341, verso of last leaf blank. IND. 83166

A reprint from the plates of the 1864 edition, with the substitution of a new title-page, and the added pages of later revelations. Concerning this edition, Elder S. A. Burgess wrote, from Independence, Missouri, May 9, 1927: "I have also a Plano edition of 1880, 4 x 6, published by the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints." In the "Saints' Herald" for May 1, 1880, p. 141, the report of the Board of Publication, made at the Annual Conference in Plano, Illinois, April, 1880, for the six months preceding, stated that on finding the stock of books on hand low, they had at once set to work to replenish it, and were at last able to report a full stock of all the Church publications with the exception of the Scriptures, which could not be printed upon the Taylor cylinder press then in use. Although this press was much worn by twelve years' constant use, it would still answer all the requirements of the "Herald" newspaper for some years to come; they had therefore contracted for a four roller Campbell book press, capable of producing the finest book work, at a cost of $1475; paid for paper, $1354.18; and paid for binding Church publications, $743.03. One year later, at the Annual Conference in Plano, April, 1881, the Board of Publication reported that during the last seven months, 500 copies of the Book of Mormon had been printed and bound, and 250 copies of the Book of Covenants had been printed and placed in the binder's hands.—"Saints' Herald," May 1, 1881, p. 134.

The added revelations, numbered as sections 114, 115, 116, 117, and paged 336-341, being the first supplement to the book, were those received by the Reorganized Church through President Joseph Smith, in 1861, 1863, 1865, and 1873, which were accepted as authoritative and binding, by the General Conference held at Galland's Grove, Iowa, in September, 1878. At that Conference it was resolved that these revelations be compiled with future editions of the Book of Doctrine and Covenants, and they appear here for the first time in that form.

[SMITH.] Book of Doctrine and Covenants of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints. Carefully selected from the Revelations of God, and given in the order of their dates. Lamoni, Iowa: Printed by the Board of Publication of the Reorganized Church of Latter Day Saints. 1880. [1882?] 16mo, pp. vi, 342. IND. 83167

Printed in 1882 or later from the plates of the 1864 edition, with the substitution of a new title-page, and the addition of the later revelations, pp. 336-342. These added pages make the second supplement to the book, comprising a reprint of the first supplement in the 1880 Plano edition, pp. 336-341, augmented here by the new revelation of September 28, 1882, numbered as section 118, on p. 342. There was no printing at Lamoni in 1880, the date on the title, and the office of the "Saints' Herald," where the book was printed, was not moved from Plano, Illinois, to Lamoni, Iowa, until October, 1881. The true date of publication is therefore not indicated, but is subsequent to September, 1882, the date on p. 342.

With this form of the title, the name Lamoni substituted for Plano in the imprint, and the date 1880 unchanged, many impressions of the book were struck off at Lamoni between 1882 and 1894, when a new title-page was made. During that interval the third and fourth supplements containing new revelations were printed, in 1887 and 1890, for pasting in at the end of copies already issued, and for binding with those sent out later, as already described in the note to the 1864 edition. Elder S. A. Burgess reports that several copies with the 1880 Lamoni imprint, in the library of the Reorganized Church at Independence, Missouri, contain one or both of these supplements; also one copy with two supplements of 1901 and 1909, pagged for the 1897 edition.

SMITH. [The same title.] + Salt Lake City, Utah: Deseret News Company, Printers and Publishers. 1883. 16mo, pp. (4), 503. NYP., SLC., IND. 83169

According to information from A. Wm. Lund, Assistant Church Historian, Salt Lake City, three revelations that were given to President John Taylor, in relation to filling vacancies in the Council of Twelve Apostles, and in the Seventies, were printed at Salt Lake City about this time as follows:

Section 137, the revelation given October 13, 1882, a pamphlet of three printed pages, 8 by 5¼ inches in size.

Section 138, the revelations given April 13 and 14, 1883, a four-page pamphlet, 8¼ by 5½ inches in size.

Although numbered in continuation of the 136 sections of the "Doctrine and Covenants," these revelations were not included in any of the editions in English. They were printed, however, in the Swedish and German translations of the book, in 1888 and 1893, as described under their respective titles.

This impression is also from the plates of the 1864 edition, with the substitution of a new title-page dated 1894, in place of the one of Lamoni, 1880, and the addition of the later revelations up to date of publication. The contents of the four supplements already issued were reprinted, pp. 336-352; and augmented on pp. 352-359 by the new revelation of April 15, 1894, numbered as section 122, the Minutes of the Joint Council of April, 1894, numbered as section 123, and paragraph five of section 121, being a revelation received in 1885, added by direction of the Conference of 1894, making altogether a fifth supplement. Following this are the Minutes of the General Assembly of the Church, August 7, 1835, relating to the adoption of the book of Doctrine and Covenants, pp. 1-4, reprinted from the first edition, 1835; and a new edition of the Concordance, pp. 3-30. The new revelation was also printed in the "Saints' Herald" of April 25, 1894, pp. 257-259; and remarks on it by J. R. Lambert, in the number of August 22 of the same year, pp. 542-543.

CU., IND. 83176

A revised edition, from new electrotype plates, with several changes and additions. The Lectures on Faith were omitted; section 9 of the revelations was renumbered 3, and the former 3-8 were made 4-9; the minutes of the General Assembly of the Church, August 17, 1835, relating to the adoption of the book of Doctrine and Covenants, were added after section 108, and numbered 108 A; the five supplements from 1880 to 1894, containing the later revelations of 1861, 1863, 1865, 1873, 1882, 1887, 1890, those received at the Conference of 1885, one of 1894, and the minutes of the Joint Council of 1894, were reprinted and included as sections 114, 115, 116, 117, 118, 119, 120, 121, 122, and 123; the new revelation of April, 1897, was added as section 124; and the Concordance was revised and enlarged, ending on the last page (32) with the revelation of December 25, 1832, predicting civil war between the Northern and Southern States, beginning in South Carolina. This last piece, reprinted here from Smith's "Pearl of Great Price," 1851, was first included in the Doctrine and Covenants published by the Utah Church in 1876, but has not been incorporated in any edition published by the Reorganized Church, except as appended to this concordance. It was omitted in the Concordance to the new edition of 1911. With some copies are bound pp. 197-248, "Synopsis of Faith and Doctrine," from the book called "The Compendium."

The reason for the renumbering of section 9 as section 3, was because the date of that revelation, May, 1829, was corrected to July, 1828, requiring a change of position in the chronological order, as explained in the "Saints' Herald" of January 31, 1894, p. 67, where the intention of making the correction was announced. Section 108 A, the Minutes of the General Assembly in 1835, was reprinted from the preceding edition of 1894, to which it was appended as a four page supplement.

A dozen editions or more were printed from these plates, some with the date 1897 unchanged, others with different later dates, and one or two without date. Beginning about the year 1900, as in the editions of the Book of Mormon, the number of the edition was given on the title-page, including evidently the nine editions from 1835 to 1864. The 26th edition was dated 1901, the 27th edition 1902, the 29th edition 1904, the 31st edition 1905, the 32d edition 1906, and the 33d edition 1907, after which date the numbering by edition was discontinued.

Four supplements containing later revelations were printed separately at Lamoni in 1901, 1902, 1906, and 1909, and described below, all four paged in continuation of this edition, and intended for pasting in it, or in the earlier editions of 1864 and 1880, where they are sometimes found.

- (1) Supplement of pp. 385-391, the revelation of April, 1901, section 125.
- (2) Supplement of pp. 391-394, the revelation of April, 1902, section 126.
- (3) Supplement of pp. 393-397, mispaged 597, the revelation of April, 1906, section 127.
- (4) Supplement of pp. 397-404, the two revelations of April, 1909, sections 128 and 129.

IND. 83179

Printed from the electrotype plates of 1897, and probably the first to bear the number of the edition on the title-page. To make up the total of twenty-six, the first nine editions from 1835 to 1864 would have to be included, and the other sixteen would be mostly small editions struck off from the old and new plates at short intervals between 1880 and 1900. The added pp. 385-391 contain the new revelation of April 15, 1901, section 125, which was first printed in the "Saints' Herald" of April 24, 1901, pp. 322-323. Separate issues of these supplementary pages were distributed for insertion in the earlier editions, with heading on p. 385, "Supplement to the Saints' Herald of June 26, 1901," and then the last paragraph of section 124, followed by the new section.

[SMITH.] [The same title.] + Twenty-seventh Edition. Lamoni, Iowa: Printed by the Board of Publication of the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints. 1902. 18mo, pp. 6, 394, Concordance 32. 83180

Another impression from the 1897 plates, with added pages containing the new revelation of April 18, 1902, section 126, pp. 391-394, first printed in the "Saints' Herald" of April 23, 1902, p. 372. These pages were also issued separately, for pasting in the earlier editions, and in that form have the heading on p. 391, "Supplement to Saints' Herald, May 21, 1902," below which are the last eight lines of section 125, and then the new one. The copy in the New York Public Library is bound at the end of the "Saints' Herald" for 1902.

Printed from new electrotpe plates with a larger size page, and including the later revelations up to 1909, section 129. Besides a thorough revision to correct typographical errors, section 22 was made to harmonize with the same revelation in the inspired translation of the Holy Scriptures. In other respects it corresponds with the preceding edition of 1897, the copyright notice of which is repeated. The contents, pp. 3-5, give the section and page numbers of four editions, 1835, 1864, 1897, and 1911. The concordance was enlarged to take in all the additions.

Supplementary leaves of later revelations were printed in 1913, 1914, 1916, 1920, 1922, and 1925, numbered 130-135, as described in the later editions, and were issued in separate form without paging for pasting in the books already published.

IND. 83202

A reissue from the 1911 plates, with the addition of the new revelation of April 14, 1913, section 130, pp. 294-296. First printed in the "Saints' Herald" of April 23, 1913, p. 402, this revelation was reprinted on two leaves of two and a half pages, not paged, with heading, "Supplement to Saints' Herald, Lamoni, Decatur County, Iowa, June 18, 1913," and in that form was distributed for pasting into copies of the 1911 edition. This supplement is bound at the end of the "Saints' Herald" for 1913, in the New York Public Library.

The following supplements were printed in 1914 and 1916, for pasting in this and the earlier editions:

(1) The revelation of April 14, 1914, section 131, on one leaf of two unnumbered pages, first printed in the "Saints' Herald" of April 22, 1914, p. 374.

(2) The revelation of April 5, 1916, section 132, one page only, first printed in the "Saints' Herald" of April 19, 1916, p. 373. This leaflet, with heading, "Supplement to the 'Saints' Herald,' August 23, 1916," is bound between pp. 808-809 of the volume for 1916, in the New York Public Library.

The revelation to Joseph Smith of December 25, 1832, predicting civil war between the northern and southern states, is added on pp. 29-30. Elder Burgess describes a copy, pp. 3-30 without title-page, as bound with the 1894 edition of the Book of Doctrine and Covenants, and states that it differs typographically from the two preceding editions. A fourth edition, pp. 32, without Stebbins's name and without imprint, was printed with the 1897 edition of the Book of Doctrine and Covenants, which see for a note about the revelation of 1832 given on the last page. A fifth edition, enlarged to 60 pages, and indexing all the revelations to 1909, was appended to the later editions of the same book, 1911-1925. These later editions of the Concordance were not advertised for sale separately.

According to Joseph Smith's "History," 1500 copies of this pamphlet were issued on February 24. It was in the form of an address to the people of the United States, signed and dated by Joseph Smith, Nauvoo, Illinois, February 7, 1844, and was first read at a public meeting in Nauvoo, February 8th, by Judge W. W. Phelps. Previously, on January 29th, the "Twelve Apostles" had voted unanimously "That we will have an independent electoral ticket, and that Joseph Smith be a candidate for the next presidency." An editorial followed in the "Times and Seasons" of February 15th, publicly proposing Smith for the Presidency. Other editions of the address have different titles, and it was printed also in "Times and Seasons" for May 15, 1844, vol. 5, pp. 528-533.

SMITH. . . . History of Joseph Smith. [Colophon:] Liverpool: S. W. Richards, 15, Wilton Street. Printed for the Publisher by R. James, 39, South Castle Street, Liverpool. [1852.] 8vo, pp. 88. NYP., SLC. 83245

No regular title-page; with heading as Supplement to vol. 14 of "The Latter-Day Saints' Millennial Star," 1852. It contains the history to November, 1831, first printed in the "Times and Seasons," vols. 3-5, Nauvoo, 1842-1844, reprinted in the "Millennial Star," vols. 3-5, Liverpool, 1842-1845, and here reprinted again in connected form. A note on p. 88 reads: "(For Continuation see Star, page 113.)"

The continuation from November, 1831, to August, 1844, was first printed in America, beginning in the "Times and Seasons" at Nauvoo, 1844 to 1846, and completed in the "Deseret News" at Great Salt Lake City in 1851 and following years, from which two periodicals it was reprinted in the "Millennial Star," vols. 14-25, Liverpool, 1852-1863. The complete work is an account by Smith of his own life and of the history of the Church to June, 1844, the time of his death. He included in the narrative, revelations, correspondence, official documents, and brief biographies of prominent elders. The account from June 22 to August 8, 1844, when a meeting of the Church entrusted its government to the Twelve Apostles, was compiled by the Church Historians, George A. Smith and Wilford Woodruff, who stated in conclusion: "The History of Joseph Smith is now before the world, and we are satisfied that a history more correct in its details than this was never published. To have it strictly correct, the greatest possible pains have been taken by the historians and clerks engaged in the work. They were eye and ear witnesses of nearly all the transactions recorded . . . most of which were reported as they transpired, and, where they were not personally present, they have had access to those who were. Moreover, since the death of the Prophet Joseph, the history has been carefully revised under the strict inspection of President Brigham Young, and approved of by him."

NYP., SLC., IND. 83246

This is the complete history to June 29, 1844, the night of the Prophet's burial. Each volume has its own index. According to the preface this edition was prepared "with constant reference to the original manuscript history, and all copies of it published in the Times and Seasons and the Millennial Star; and also to various editions of the Doctrine and Covenants, and the Book of Commandments." The biographical sketches introduced by Smith were condensed and placed in the notes. In some cases the order was changed, groups of documents dealing with the same subjects being brought together. Each volume has an historical introduction.

The Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints does not acknowledge this to be an authentic history as written by Joseph Smith, claiming that it was materially altered.

SMITH. The Holy Scriptures, translated and corrected by the Spirit of Revelation, by Joseph Smith, Jr., the seer. Published by the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints. Plano, Ill.: Joseph Smith, I. L. Rogers, E. Robinson, Publishing Committee. 1867. [On verso of title:] Westcott & Thomson, Stereotypers, Philada. [Followed by:] The Holy Scriptures of the New Testament, translated and corrected by the Spirit of Revelation, by Joseph Smith, Jr., the seer. Published by the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints. Plano, Ill.: Joseph Smith, I. L. Rogers, E. Robinson, Publishing Committee. 1867. 2 parts in one volume, 12mo, pp. 917; 286. NYP., SLC., IND. 83247

The preface, pp. 3-6, states how the work came to be published by the Reorganized Church, and gives extracts from the Book of Mormon and other works relating to the restoration of "many plain and precious parts" that have been taken away from the Bible; followed by "A Revelation, given to Joseph the seer, June, A. D. 1830," being the words of God which he spake unto Moses, pp. 7-9. The Old Testament fills pp. 11-917; the New Testament, pp. 3-286. Genesis, chapter 1, begins: "And it came to pass, that the Lord spake unto Moses, saying, Behold, I reveal unto you concerning this heaven and this earth; write the words which I speak. 2. I am the Beginning and the End; the Almighty God. By mine Only Begotten I created these things. 3. Yea, in the beginning I created heaven, and the earth upon which thou standest. 4. And the earth was without form, and void; and I caused darkness to come up upon the face of the deep." Genesis, chapter 50, was increased from 26 to 38 verses, the additions including a prophecy that after the delivery of the people from bondage in Egypt, they shall be scattered again, and a branch shall be broken off and carried into a far country, where they shall be remembered when Messiah cometh; and that in the last days a seer shall be raised up, "and his name shall be called Joseph, and it shall be after the name of his father." Similar changes and additions were made in other places, but generally the text agrees with that of the authorized English version.

A note in the official edition of Smith's History, vol. 1, 1902, p. 215, states that the work was rather a revision of the English text than a translation, the inspiration of God leading the Prophet to different renderings of various passages, and supplying some of the missing parts, which had been alluded to in the Book of Mormon. Some of the insertions contain prophecies of the part to be played by Smith. A series of extracts from this "inspired translation," in respect to morals, doctrine, improved readings, and history, is given in the "Saints' Herald," of November 29, 1884, pp. 771-772.

The translation was begun in New York state, in 1830, Sidney Rigdon being ordered in a revelation of December of that year to write for Smith, to whom the scriptures would be "given even as they are in mine own bosom." The work was completed on July 2nd, 1833, at Kirtland, Ohio, and it was Smith's intention to have it published at the church printing office, conducted by W. W. Phelps, at Independence, Mo., as he speaks in February, 1833, of sealing up the New Testament to be no more opened until it arrived in "Zion." He also wrote that the work was to come out as a whole, and not serially in the "Star." The destruction of the printing house postponed the publication, and it was still unpublished, except for a few extracts, in 1866, when Smith's widow gave it to a committee of the Reorganized Church.

This publication has not been accepted by the Church in Utah, which holds that the Prophet had intended to perfect his version still further.

After removal of the Church publishing establishment to Lamoni in 1881, copies of the book were issued without the words Plano, Ill. in the imprint. At a later period new titles were printed, bearing the number of the edition, as follows:

SMITH. [The same title.] Thirteenth Edition. Lamoni, Iowa: Published by the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints. 1903. 12mo, two parts in one volume, pp. 917, 286. IND. 83248

This was reissued, the 14th edition in 1906, the 15th edition in 1908, the 16th edition in 1909, the 17th edition in 1912, the 18th edition in 1915, and the 20th edition in 1920.

SMITH. [The same title.] Twenty-second Edition. Independence, Missouri: Published by the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints. 1925. 12mo, two parts in one volume, pp. 917, 286. IND. 83249

SMITH. The Holy Scriptures of the New Testament, translated and corrected by the Spirit of Revelation, by Joseph Smith, Jr., the seer. Published by the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints. Plano, Ill.: Joseph Smith, I. L. Rogers, E. Robinson, Publishing Committee. 1867. 12mo, pp. 286. 83250

The New Testament was issued separately, and advertised for sale in that form in the "Saints' Herald." There was also a special cheap edition for Sunday Schools. Some of the later Lamoni editions were numbered on the title-page, uniformly with the numbering of the complete "Holy Scriptures," the 15th edition appearing in 1908, etc.

SMITH. The Holy Scriptures of the New Testament, translated and corrected by the Spirit of Revelation, by Joseph Smith, Jr., the Seer. Lamoni, Iowa: Published by the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints. 1892. 8vo, pp. 374. IND. 83251

This was a special edition in large type, and although dated 1892, was not published until June, 1893, according to advertisements in the "Saints' Herald." Being uniform in size with the large type edition of the "Book of Mormon," published in 1892, the two were also issued bound together in one volume, lettered on the cover, "The Two Records Nephite Jewish."

SMITH. Joseph Smith's Last Sermon. As issued by Elder John Taylor, Nauvoo, Ill., June, 1844: Now republished according to resolution of the Presbyterian Teachers' Association, August, 1903; Salt Lake City, Utah. 12mo, cover-title, and pp. 16.

UTS. 83254

Reprinted from Smith's "Voice of Truth," Nauvoo, John Taylor, 1844, pp. 59-64. The sermon was delivered at the April Conference in Nauvoo, and printed also in "Times and Seasons," August 15, 1844, vol. 5, pp. 612-617, in the proceedings of the Conference. It was occasioned by the accidental death of one of the saints, and treated of the personality of God, the immortality of the soul, and the history of creation as given in the first chapter of the book of Genesis, with some explanation of the Hebrew words Berosheit and baurau.

SMITH. Joseph Smith's Levnetsløb, oversat, samlet og udgivet af A. Jenson og J. A. Bruun. . . . Salt Lake City, Utah. Trykt hos Cannon & Young, "Deseret News Office." 1879. 8vo, pp. (6), v-xi, 435.

SLC. 83255

According to Jenson's "Church Chronology," p. 97, the publication of this translation of the "History of Joseph Smith," was commenced by Elders Andrew Jenson and Joh. A. Bruun, in 1877, and it was the first book in the Danish-Norwegian language to be published in Utah.

C., NYP., SLC., IND. 83258

Edited by Franklin D. Richards, with preface dated Liverpool, July 11, 1851. The selections contain reprints from the "Times and Seasons," or from the "Latter-Day Saints' Millennial Star," and from the "Doctrine and Covenants," with some hitherto unprinted material. Among them are passages from Smith's translation of the "Holy Scriptures," including extracts from the prophecy of Enoch; the words of God which he spake unto Moses; a revelation of Dec. 25, 1832, predicting civil war between the North and South, starting in South Carolina; and the Book of Abraham, with three fac-similes from Egyptian papyri.

NYP., SLC., IND. 83259

Some copies were issued with paper covers. In this edition, the revelation of June, 1830, is placed first, with the title, "Visions of Moses." The passages from Smith's translation of the "Holy Scriptures," Genesis, chaps. 1-8, verse 18, are complete, the prophecy of Enoch being given in full as it appears there. Another addition is the revelation on "Plurality of Wives," first published in the "Deseret News Extra" of Sept. 14, 1852, and first incorporated in the "Doctrine and Covenants" in 1876.

NYP., UTS. 83282

Published by the Reorganized Church, at the office of the "Saints' Herald" in Plano; after 1881 at Lamoni, Iowa, and after 1921 at Independence, Missouri. It was first advertised in the "Herald" for October, 1864, as a "Revelation on the Rebellion," price 10 cents for twenty copies. The edition with the serial number 39 appears to have been printed in 1889, when the numbering of the tracts advertised was increased from 36 to 43. There are later editions.

This revelation of December 25, 1832, predicting civil war between the northern and southern states, starting in South Carolina, was originally printed at Liverpool in 1851, in Smith's "Pearl of Great Price." In 1876 it was incorporated as section 87 in the revised edition of the "Doctrine and Covenants" printed at Salt Lake City; and in 1897 it was appended to the Reorganized Church's edition of the same book, at the end of the concordance, but was subsequently omitted.

SMITH. Revelation on the Eternity of the Marriage Covenant, including Plurality of Wives, given through Joseph, the Seer, in Nauvoo, Hancock County, Illinois, July 12th, 1843. 83283

The title given above is the form in which it appears in the "Doctrine and Covenants" of 1876 and subsequent years. It was first printed in the "Deseret News," with the addresses of Orson Pratt and Brigham Young, and the Minutes of the Special Conference of August 28 and 29, 1852, at which it was read. An edition in pamphlet form was published with the following title heading on the first page:

"Deseret News—Extra. Great Salt Lake City, U. T., September 14, 1852. Minutes of Conference. A Special Conference of the Elders of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints, assembled in the Tabernacle, Great Salt Lake City, August 28th, 1852, 10 o'clock a.m. pursuant to public notice. Present, the First Presidency, Brigham Young, Heber C. Kimball, Willard Richards," etc. In double columns, the Revelation beginning on p. 25. A reprint of the pamphlet was issued shortly after, with the following cover title:

Deseret News, Extra, containing a Revelation on Celestial Marriage, a Remarkable Vision, two discourses, delivered by President Brigham Young, one discourse by Elder Orson Pratt; remarks by Elders H. C. Kimball, John Taylor, and others. Also Minutes of a Conference of the Elders of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints—held in Great Salt Lake City, Utah Territory, August 28th, [and 29th], 1852, &c. &c. [Great Salt Lake City:] Reprinted for H. S. Eldredge, St. Louis, Mo. [Back cover:] Deseret News, Published semi-monthly, by W. Richards. Gen. Horace S. Eldredge, St. Louis, Mo., is our general agent for The News in the States. . . . All remittances in the States may be made to Gen. Eldredge, St. Louis. Extra—Price 25 Cents. [1853?] 8vo, cover-title, pp. 48 in double columns, and printed back cover. NYP. The revelation on celestial marriage and plurality of wives, pp. 26–28; Elder Horace S. Eldredge appointed to go to St. Louis, August 28, 1852, p. 10. Another edition as follows:

The Latter-Day Saints' Millennial Star. . . . Vol. XV. Supplement, 1853. Price 5 d. Minutes of a Special Conference of Elders of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints, assembled in the Tabernacle, Great Salt Lake City, August 28, 1852. (From the Deseret News Extra of Sep. 14, 1852.) [Colophon:] Edited and published by S. W. Richards, 15, Wilton Street, Liverpool. Printed for the Publisher by R. James, 39, South Castle Street. [1853.] 8vo, pp. 64. NYP. The revelation on celestial marriage, pp. 32–36.

The revelation was also published in the "Latter-Day Saints' Millennial Star," January 1, 1853, vol. 15, pp. 5–8; by Orson Pratt in "The Seer," vol. 1, pp. 7–11, January, 1853; and in other publications. It is included in President George A. Smith's "Rise, Progress and Travels of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints, being a series of Answers to Questions, including the Revelation on Celestial Marriage," Salt Lake City, 1869, and later editions. In 1876 it was incorporated as section 132 in the revised "Doctrine and Covenants," published at Salt Lake City, retaining the same number in subsequent editions, printed for the Utah Church.

According to President Brigham Young, in his address of August 29, 1852, "The original copy of this revelation was burnt up; William Clayton was the man who wrote it from the mouth of the prophet. In the mean time it was in bishop Whitney's possession. He wished the privilege to copy it, which brother Joseph granted. Sister Emma burnt the original. The reason why I mention this, is because that the people who did know of the Revelation, suppose it was not now in existence. . . . This Revelation has been in my possession many years; and who has known it? None but those who should know it. I keep a patent lock on my desk, and there does not anything leak out that should not."

The public announcement and adoption by the Utah Church in 1852 of this doctrine of plurality of wives, was protested by the scattered saints remaining in Illinois and adjoining states, who did not acknowledge Brigham Young as leader, and did not accept the revelation as authentic. Declaring that polygamy was forbidden in the "Book of Mormon" and "Doctrine and Covenants," they joined in forming what was known later as the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints, under the presidency of Joseph Smith, son of the Prophet.

The enforcement by the United States government of the Congressional Acts of 1882 and 1887 against polygamy, by prosecutions, fines and imprisonments, led to the issue by President Wilford Woodruff, on September 24, 1890, of a Manifesto or Official Declaration, in which it is declared that "We are not teaching polygamy or plural marriage, nor permitting any person to enter into its practice. . . . Inasmuch as laws have been enacted by Congress forbidding plural marriages, which laws have been pronounced constitutional by the court of last resort, I hereby declare my intention to submit to those laws, and to use my influence with the members of the Church over which I preside to have them do likewise. . . . And I now publicly declare that my advice to the Latter-day Saints is to refrain from contracting any marriage forbidden by the laws of the land." This Declaration was printed in the "Deseret News" daily of September 25, and in the semi-weekly issue of September 26, 1890. It was ratified by the Church Conference on October 6 of the same year, and published in pamphlet form with the title, "President Woodruff's Manifesto. Proceedings at the Semi-Annual General Conference of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints." The Official Declaration, p. 2. In 1908 it was published with the "Doctrine and Covenants" for the first time, on pp. 543-544 of the Concordance at the end. It was appended also to the Liverpool editions of 1912 and 1920; and to the editions printed at Hammond, from 1921 to 1926, pp. 256-257, according to information from A. William Lund, Assistant Church Historian, Salt Lake City.

Henry Clay. . . . Nauvoo, Ill: Printed by John Taylor. 1844. 8vo, pp. 64. NYP., SLC., IND. 83288

The dedication is dated Nauvoo, June, 1844, on the 27th of which month Smith was killed. The pamphlet is a reprint of his writings which had appeared in the "Times and Seasons," "Nauvoo Neighbor," or in separate pamphlets from December, 1843, to June of the following year. The appendix gives "Joseph Smith's last Sermon, delivered at the April Conference, 1844." Some copies have also the following cover-title, dated a year later:

SMITH. . . . The Writings of Joseph Smith the Seer. Martyred June 27, 1844. . . . York, Neb.: John K. Sheen, Publisher. 1889. 2 nos., 8vo, pp. 32; (2), 35-48, each with printed covers.

NYP., IND. 83289

With heading: "The Relic Library Devoted to the Reproduction of Rare and Interesting Writings Connected with the Rise and Progress of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, (Derisively called Mormon.)" First ser. nos. 1 and 2, April 15 and May 1, 1889. Contains the article on "Church History" and the "History of Joseph Smith" to April, 1830. A notice of suspension appeared in the second number, but it was proposed if encouragement were given to continue the work. The editor and publisher, John K. Sheen, was until about 1868 connected with the "Saints' Herald," the organ of the Reorganized Church, and was the son of Isaac Sheen, its first editor. Because of a disagreement the connection was severed. An unfavorable criticism of the prospectus of the "Relic Library" appeared in the "Herald," vol. 36, pp. 161-162, March 16, 1889. In return, Sheen attacked the editors in the preface and printed cover of his first number.

Joseph Smith furnished the article on "Latter Day Saints" for Rupp's "History of the Religious Denominations in the United States," 1844, reprinted in 1849, and as late as 1871, revising for that purpose his sketch in "Times and Seasons," vol. 3, pp. 707-710, March 1, 1842. The same article was reprinted with additions in "The Cyclopaedia of Religious Denominations," Glasgow, 1853. The Prophet was nominally the editor of the "Elders' Journal of the Church of Latter Day Saints," Kirtland, O., and Far West, Mo., 1837-1838, but the editorial work was largely done by Sidney Rigdon, according to an article by Walter A. Smith, former Church Historian of the Reorganized Church, in the "Journal of History," vol. 14, p. 271, July, 1921. Smith also edited part of vol. 3 of "Times and Seasons," Nauvoo, Ill.,

March 1 to October 15, 1842, and was a contributor to the above and also to the "Evening and Morning Star," of Independence, Mo., the "Latter Day Saints' Messenger and Advocate," Kirtland, O., and the "Nauvoo Neighbor."

Title and imprint from the heading of p. 1. Approved by the annual conference of the Reorganized Church on April 11, 1870, and signed by Joseph Smith as chairman of the committee, and also as President, it claimed the right of the Reorganized group to be considered the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, and denounced the doctrine of polygamy advocated by the Utah church at the time. It was inspired by the opposition of the latter body to the Cullom bill, directed against that practice.

SMITH. . . . Polygamy not of God. By President Joseph Smith. [Lamoni, 1883.] 8vo, pp. 4, with heading, Supplement to the Saints' Advocate. IND. 83296

The series of letters of which this tract is the closing one, was begun by the publication of an "Open Letter to Joseph Smith and Others," written by Elder L. O. Littlefield of the Church in Utah, and printed in the "Utah Journal," Logan, Cache Co., Utah, dated April 27, 1883. Four of Mr. Littlefield's letters and three of Mr. Smith's in reply were published in the "Journal," and also in the "Deseret Evening News" of Salt Lake City, but Mr. Smith's fourth letter (this tract) was declined by the "Journal" management, because they thought that the correspondence had been prolonged far enough, and that the publication of it further in their columns might "surfeit" their subscribers. This refusal to publish Mr. Smith's last letter was deemed unfair, and for the purpose that those who might wish could have it to read, this tract was printed. All the letters were published in the "Saints' Advocate" at Lamoni. Title and note from Elder S. A. Burgess, Church Historian, Independence, Mo. For the complete series, see "Reply . . . to L. O. Littlefield," below.

President Smith was the editor of the "Saints' Herald," the principal organ of the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, from 1865 to 1914, and of "Zion's Hope," a publication for young people, from 1869 to 1887, and contributed many articles to these and other magazines. The "Official Statements of President Joseph Smith," were collected and printed in the "Journal of History," running through vols. 11, 12 and 13, from October, 1918, to October, 1920, with corrections in vol. 18, for 1925, pp. 252-3. Several sermons were published as supplements to the "Saints' Herald," the "Independent Patriot," and "Lamoni Gazette," of Lamoni, Iowa, and "Zion's Ensign" of Independence, Missouri. For a biographical sketch, see the "Journal of History," vol. 8, pp. 3-7, January, 1915.

SMITH (Joseph). Error for BLYTH (Joseph). An Oration on the Death of General George Washington . . . Boston. 1800.

See our vol. I, no. 6049, and F. B. Hough's "Bibliographical List" and "Washingtoniana," 1865. The double error arose first, in describing the Boston print as a separate pamphlet; and second, in accidentally substituting the name Smith for Blyth. The correct description is as follows:

An Oration, on the Death of General George Washington, delivered at the Chapel in All Saint's Parish, on the 22d of February, 1800, at the desire of the officers and privates of Capt. Ward's Company, and published by their request. By Doctor Joseph Blyth. Georgetown, S. C., Printed by John Burd, 1800. 8vo, pp. 22. c. Reprinted in "Eulogies and Orations on . . . General George Washington," Boston, 1800, pp. 196-215.

The names of the authors are not assigned in this collection, which contains hymns by Watts, Doddridge, Charles Wesley, and numerous others. Many which had appeared in Occom's "Choice Collection," 1774, etc., are included, and in the titles of the Troy, 1803, and Albany, 1804, editions, the name of Samson "Ockum" is given as one of the compilers.

Joshua Smith was a New Hampshire Baptist licentiate, who had considerable success as an evangelist from about 1791 to 1795. He became a member of the Baptist Church in Brentwood, N. H., June 17, 1792. Joshua Sleeper, one of the compilers, was also a member of the Brentwood Church. See Backus's "Church History of New England," vol. 3, 1796, p. 280, Cummings's "Annals of the Baptist Churches in New-Hampshire," 1836, p. 12, and Burrage's "Baptist Hymn Writers," 1888, p. 643.

SMITH (Joshua Hett), b. 1749, d. 1818. An Authentic Narrative of the causes which led to the death of Major André, Adjutant-General of his Majesty's Forces in North America. By Joshua Hett Smith, Esq. Counsellor at Law, late Member of the Convention of the State of New York. To which is added A Monody on the Death of Major André. By Miss Seward. London: Printed for Mathews and Leigh, 18, Strand. 1808. [On verso of title:] Printed by W. Clowes, Northumberland Court, Strand. 8vo, pp. vii, 357, (1), list of books, (2). Portrait, folded map, and plate.

B., C., NYP. 83421

The portrait of André was engraved by Hopwood, probably from the print by J. K. Sherwin. Letters from André to Miss Seward written in 1769 are included on pp. 336-357. This book was published by Mr. Smith to justify his own character against the charge of being involved in the Arnold treason.

SMITH. Record of the Trial of Joshua Hett Smith, Esq., for alleged complicity in the treason of Benedict Arnold. 1780. Edited by Henry B. Dawson. Morrisania, N. Y.: 1866. [On verso of title:] Bradstreet Press. 8vo, pp. (6), 116.

C., H., NYP. 83423

Fifty copies were printed in this form, from the type of the "Historical Magazine" Supplements, July to November, 1866, rearranged in single column pages. Some copies have the additional title-page: "The Magazine Miscellany. Edited by Henry B. Dawson. Vol. 1. Morrisania, N. Y. 1866."

This record of the trial was first printed in five consecutive numbers of the "New York Herald" of November 29, 30, and December 1, 2, 3, 1842, where it was stated that the originals had been found among seventeen trunks of manuscripts inherited by Col. Beekman of Flatbush, Long Island, from his grandfather, Governor George Clinton. This was no doubt George Clinton Beekman, whose father, Stephen D. Beekman, had married Maria Clinton, the governor's youngest daughter; and the collection of documents was that of the Clinton papers acquired by the state of New York in 1853. According to Mr. Dawson the manuscript of the trial had disappeared at the time of his publication, and he was indebted to James Gordon Bennett for the privilege of reprinting it from the "Herald." A summary of the trial containing much of the testimony was included in Chandler's "American Criminal Trials," vol. 2, 1844, pp. 183-265. The statement by Winsor that the Supplement to the "Gentleman's Magazine," 1780, gave an account of the Smith trial is an error, the trial there given being that of André.

Joshua Hett Smith, a brother of William Smith, the historian of New York, was a member of the provincial convention which drafted the constitution of the state in 1776-77. After being acquitted at the trial, he was rearrested and imprisoned, but escaped to New York, and on the close of the war went to England, returning subsequently to the United States for the last years of his life. The date of his birth given above is taken from the "Register of Baptisms in the Presbyterian Church in the City of New York," printed in the N. Y. Gen. and Biog. Record, vol. 4, 1878, p. 99.

SMITH (Joshua Toulmin), b. 1816, d. 1869. The Northmen in New England, or America in the Tenth Century. By Joshua Toulmin Smith. . . Boston: Hilliard, Gray, & Co. 1839. [On verso of title:] Printed by William A. Hall & Co. 12mo, pp. xii, 364, including a chart. 2 folded maps. B., C., NYP. 83424

The first edition, dedicated to Edward Everett, and listed in the "North American Review" for July, 1839. According to the preface, the book, which is in the form of a dialogue, is based on sources published in Rafn's "Antiquitates Americanae," 1837.

B., C., NYP. 83426

A reissue of the preceding edition, with a preface dated Oct. 31st, 1842, in which the author states that "some corrections and a few additions are made in this edition. One of the latter (p. 292, note) is of much importance as affording very strong additional presumptive evidence of the Northern origin of the Assonet Rock. Another on p. 51 gives a curious illustration of the subject, while the note added to p. 265 affords a striking proof of the correctness of the argument. An index also has been added."

SMITH. Journal in America, 1837-1838, by Joshua Toulmin Smith. Edited with Introduction and Notes by Floyd Benjamin Streeter, Archivist, Michigan Historical Commission. Ninety-nine copies printed for Charles F. Heartman, in Metuchen, New Jersey. Nineteen Hundred and Twenty-five. 8vo, pp. 54.

NYP. 83427

On verso of half-title: "Heartman's Historical Series Number 41." Mr. Smith came to America with the intention of settling in Michigan, but returned finally to England in 1842. A sketch of his life in the "Dictionary of National Biography" contains a list of his other writings. On the title-pages of later works he dropped the name Joshua and appeared as Toulmin Smith. While in this country he copyrighted in Massachusetts and published the following pamphlet:

Synopsis of Phrenology: directed chiefly to the exhibition of the utility and application of the science to the advancement of social happiness. With two plates. The following title was received too late for insertion at the beginning of the list:

SMITH (Josiah). The broken Heart relieved. A Sermon, preached at Charlestown, South Carolina, March 27, 1763. ... Second Edition. Charlestown; Printed for the Authour by Robert Wells. 1773. 8vo. Title from No. 1475 of the catalogue of "Rare Americana," by Henry Stevens, Son and Stiles, in November, 1927.

Josiah Smith was graduated from Harvard College in 1725, and after his ordination in 1726, was for a short time pastor of a church in Bermuda. Returning to this country in 1727, he was first in charge of a church in Cainhoy, S. C., and later of a Congregational church in Charleston, until in 1749 he was partially paralyzed. Even after that date he wrote and preached sermons. When Charleston surrendered to the British in 1780 he became a paroled prisoner, and being later ordered away from the city, went to Philadelphia, where he soon after died. For a biographical sketch, see Ramsay's "History of South-Carolina," 1809, vol. 2, pp. 524-526.

Junius Smith, an American, was the first to organize a line of steam packets to cross the Atlantic. As early as 1832 he had attempted to interest capital, and on June 1st, 1835, he published in London a prospectus of a joint stock "Steam Navigation Company" under his own name, which aroused little interest, but in October of the same year he issued another under the name of the "British and American Steam Navigation Company." In 1838 a small vessel chartered by this company made its first trip. On the strength of this success a third prospectus was issued by the company, probably in 1838, which is reprinted in Admiral Preble's "History of Steam Navigation," 1883, p. 129, as follows:

British and American Steam Navigation Company. Capital, £1,000,000, in 10,000 shares of £100 each. Directors: Henry Bainbridge, Esq., Chairman, [list of nine directors, including Col. Aspinwall, U. S. Consul]. Bankers—Messrs. Puget, Bainbridge & Co., 12 St. Paul's Churchyard. Secretary—Macgregor Laird, Esq. The object of this company is to establish a regular and certain communication by steamships between Great Britain and the United States. The vessels are intended to depart alternately from London and Liverpool to New York; their average passage will not exceed fifteen days. . . .

Smith's own account of his efforts is printed in the "Magazine of American History," vol. 8, pp. 774-783, Nov., 1882. See also Bullock's article on first steamships to cross the ocean, in the "Journal of American History," vol. 1, pp. 261-283.

At the time of the great Chicago fire, this book was mainly written; the manuscript, with the exception of a few of the chapters, was in the hands of the printer, and nearly one-half of the whole volume had been stereotyped. All this, including the manuscript, was of course destroyed; of the printed portions not even the proofs having been preserved. Various causes have delayed the reproduction of what was lost. — Preface, Chicago, March 1, 1873.

Dr. Justin A. Smith contributed the chapter on Home Missions in Moss's "The Baptists and the National Centenary," 1876, pp. 153-193. For a biographical sketch, see the "Standard," a Baptist newspaper, Chicago, for February 15, 1896, of which periodical he was editor from 1853-1896.

Preface dated, Boston, January, 1852. All of these issues are from the same stereotype plates, and have on verso of title the copyright of P. Brockett & Co. and the words: Foundry of Silas Andrus and Son, Hartford, W. C. Armstrong, Typographer. Lives of the following American missionaries are included: Gordon Hall, Samuel Newell, Adoniram Judson, George Dana Boardman, Walter Macon Lowrie, David Abeel, Samuel Munson, Henry Lyman, William G. Crocker, Lott Cary, Melville Beveridge Cox, Pliny Fisk, Levi Parsons, Asahel Grant, M.D., William Richards, Ard Hoyt, Cyrus Shepard, Grover Smith Comstock, and James Richards. Hoyt (pp. 451-457) was a missionary of the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions to the Cherokees from 1818 to 1828. The first issue contains portraits of Judson, Martyn, Fox, Boardman, Abeel, Crocker, and Hewitson. In the second issue a view of Constantinople, one of Fox's grave and a portrait of Thomas Coke are added, and the portrait of Martyn omitted. The 1855 issue has the same plates as that of 1853, with the omission of the view of Fox's grave and the portrait of Boardman.

Dr. Lucius E. Smith contributed the article on Baptists in Literary Activity in Moss's "The Baptists and the National Centenary," 1876, pp. 269-286. For a list of other periodicals with which he was connected, see Appleton's "Cyclopædia," and for his funeral sermon, "The Twofold Manhood. Sermon preached by Rev. C. H. Spalding, D.D., of Boston, in the Baptist Church, Groton, Mass., April 29, 1900. In Commemoration of Rev. Lucius E. Smith, D.D." ... [n. p. n. d.] 8vo, pp. 10.

SMITH (Mrs. Lucy), b. 1776, d. 1855. Biographical Sketches of Joseph Smith, the Prophet, and his Progenitors for many Generations. By Lucy Smith, mother of the Prophet. Liverpool: Published for Orson Pratt by S. W. Richards, 15, Wilton Street. London: Sold at the Latter-Day Saints' Book Depôt, 35, Jewin Street; and by all Booksellers. 1853. [Colophon:] London: Printed by William Bowden, Bedford Street, Holborn. 18mo, pp. 297, (1). B., NYP., IND. 83496

The preface by Orson Pratt stated that the work was written before the death of Joseph Smith, and under his supervision. This is an error, however, as the book was dictated by Mrs. Smith to a Mrs. Coray in 1845, a transcript being given to the former while the original was retained by Mrs. Coray, and taken to Utah. The transcript fell into the hands of Isaac Sheen, from whom it was bought by Orson Pratt in 1852, taken to Liverpool, and published without the authorization of President Brigham Young. On account of its inaccuracies, which were attributed to the age and failing memory of its authoress, the edition was later condemned by the President and Twelve Apostles of the Utah Church, in 1865, and some copies were destroyed. Young suggested in a letter of January 31, 1855, to the "Latter-Day Saints' Millennial Star," vol. 17, p. 297, May 12, 1855, the possibility that an authorized edition might be issued later. See prefaces to the Plano edition, 1880, and the Salt Lake City edition of 1902.

Mrs. Smith included an account of her own parents, Solomon and Lydia Gates Mack, and of her brothers and sisters; and genealogical tables of the Smith and Mack families. The main part of the book gives the life of her husband, her children and herself, and deals with the youth of the prophet, the finding of the Book of Mormon, and the early history of the Mormon Church, until the death of Joseph Smith in 1844. The appendix contains a journal and letters of her son Don Carlos Smith, and three poems by Eliza R. Snow on the death of members of the Smith family, the third relating to the assassination of Joseph and Hyrum in 1844. The autobiographical account of Solomon Mack from which Mrs. Smith's first chapter was compiled has the following title:

A | Narratve | of the life of | Solomon Mack, | containing | an Account | of the many severe accidents he met | with during a long series of years, | together with | the extraordinary manner in | which he was converted to the | Christian Faith. | To which is added, | a number [of] hymns composed on the | death of several of his | relations. | Windsor. | Printed at the expence of the | Author. | [1811.] 12mo, pp. 48. NYP.

On page 18 he says, "in the fall of the year 1810, in the 76th year of my age, I was taken with the Rheumatism and confined me all winter." This would fix the date of publication as not earlier than 1811. The second word of the title is misspelled.

According to a new preface, the work was issued by the Reorganized Church as being in the main a correct account, though the editors did not vouch for its accuracy. The preface to the first edition was reprinted also. According to Elder S. A. Burgess, Church Historian of the Reorganized Church, several issues were printed from these plates at Lamoni, Iowa, after the removal of the "Saints' Herald" printing office to that place in 1881, but with the imprint date of 1880 unchanged, until the Herald Office was burned in 1907.

The transcript of Mrs. Coray's manuscript from which this edition was printed, was revised by two cousins of Joseph Smith, appointed for the purpose by President Brigham Young some time previous to 1875, and the work approved by him. It was not published, however, until 1901, when the General Board of the Young Men's Mutual Improvement Associations, with the approval of President Lorenzo Snow, printed it serially in its organ, the "Improvement Era," of Salt Lake City, vols. 5-6, Nov., 1901-Dec., 1902. It was reprinted with the above title.

SMITH (Mrs. Mary). An | Affecting Narrative | of the | Captivity and Sufferings | of Mrs. | Mary Smith | Who with her Husband and three | daughters, were taken prisoners by | the Indians, in August last | (1814) and after enduring | the most cruel hardships | and torture of mind for | sixty days (in which | time she witnessed | the tragical death of her husband | and helpless Children) was fortuna- | tely rescued from the merciless | hands of the Savages by a | detached party from the | army of the brave | General Jackson. | Now commanding at New-Orleans. | Providence, (R. I.) Printed by L. Scott. | [1815.] 12mo, pp. 24. Folded frontispiece. C., HEH. 83535

Caption on p. 3: "Captivity & Sufferings of Mrs. Mary Smith, &c. (Communicated from a gentleman in the Western Country to his friend in Rhode-Island.)"

There are woodcuts on pp. 6, 9 and 11. The narrative ends on p. 18 with FINIS, followed by an account of "The Indians Killing & Scalping, Thirty Persons," pp. 19-24, taken from letters dated March 15th and 17th, 1815. Title and description supplied by Mr. Charles Martel.

This is presumed to be the first edition, because it is without the extra statement on the title concerning the "proceeding" pages, and reads printed "by" instead of "for" L. Scott. It also is one of the group with General Jackson "now" instead of "late" commanding at New Orleans. Another difference is that the supplementary account of "Killing & Scalping" thirty persons is omitted in all the others. Of the eight authenticated editions described here, four have the word "now," one the word "late," two the word "then," and one omits that part of the sentence containing the word. The copy sold at the Henry F. De Puy sale, in April, 1920, appears to be like the first.

The events took place in the West Florida region, now included in Mississippi, and the Indians were a band of Kickapoos and run away Chickasaws. The captives included Richard Smith, his wife Mary Smith, their three children, and a negro lad, who lived at the extreme part of a small township, 135 miles west of the Natchez. After being taken prisoners, Mr. Smith and the children were killed, while Mrs. Smith was spared to become the wife of one of the chiefs. Killing him while he slept, she escaped for several days, but was recaptured by the Indians, and shortly after rescued by the company of soldiers under Lieut. Brown.

SMITH. An | Affecting Narrative | of the | Captivity & Sufferings | of Mrs. | Mary Smith, | Who, with her Husband and three Daughters were | taken Prisoners by the Indians in August | last (1814) and after enduring the most cruel | hardships and torture of mind for sixty days | (in which time she witnessed the tragical | death of her Husband and helpless Child- | ren) was fortunately rescued from the | merciless hands of the Savages by | a detached party from the army | of the brave | General Jackson, | now commanding at New Orleans. |  As the proceeding pages will be found to | contain a particular account of the engagement | between the handful of Jackson's brave boys, | and the party of Savages, above alluded to — | the reader may judge of what materials | the hardy sons of Tennessee and Ohio | are composed. | Providence, (R. I.) | Printed for L. Scott. | [1815.] 12mo, pp. 24. Folded frontispiece colored. whs. 83536

This title and one of the following were supplied in photostat form by Miss Annie A. Nunns, Assistant Superintendent of the State Historical Society of Wisconsin. The account of the Indians killing and scalping thirty persons is omitted.

SMITH. An | Affecting Narrative | of the | Captivity and Sufferings | of Mrs. | Mary Smith, | Who, with her Husband and three Daughters were | taken Prisoners by the Indians, in August last | (1814) and after enduring the most cruel hard- | ships and torture of mind for sixty days (in | which time she witnessed the tragical death | of her Husband and helpless Children) | was fortunately rescued from the merci- | less hands of the Savages by a detach- | ed party from the army of the brave | General Jackson, |

I.) Printed for L. Scott. | [1815.] 24mo, pp. 32. Folded frontispiece.* HEH. 83537

There are also woodcuts on pp. 8, 15 and 18, and the Smith narrative continues to p. 32. Title from a copy formerly in the library of Jordan J. Rollins, sold by the Anderson Auction Company, in New York, May 1-3, 1912, lot 738. This is the only edition of 32 pages that we have seen. Photostat title supplied by the Huntington Library. It measures 5 x 3 $\frac{3}{8}$  inches.

SMITH. An | Affecting Narrative | of the | Captivity & Sufferings | of Mrs. | Mary Smith, | Who, with her Husband and three Daughters, | were taken Prisoners by the Indians in Au- | gust last (1814) and after enduring the most | cruel hardships and torture of mind for sixty | days (in which time she witnessed the trag- | ical death of her Husband and helpless | Children) was fortunately rescued | from the merciless hands of the | Savages by a detached party from | the army of the brave | General Jackson, | now commanding at New Orleans. |  As the proceeding pages will be found to | contain a particular account of the engage- ment | between the handful of Jackson's brave boys, | and the party of Savages, above alluded to | the reader may judge of what materials | the hardy sons of Tennessee and Ohio | are composed. | Providence, (R. I.) Printed for L. Scott. | [1815?] 12mo, pp. 24. MHS. 83538

A photostat of this title, supplied by Mr. Julius H. Tuttle from the copy in the Massachusetts Historical Society, differs but slightly from the one following. It has a comma after "Daughters," not in the other, and the line after General Jackson reads "now" instead of "late," with no hyphen in "New Orleans." The folded frontispiece is lacking in this copy.

SMITH. An | Affecting Narrative | of the | Captivity & Sufferings | of Mrs. | Mary Smith, | Who, with her Husband and three Daughters | were taken Prisoners by the Indians in Au- | gust last (1814) and after enduring the most | cruel hardships and torture of mind for sixty | days (in which time she witnessed the trag- | ical death of her Husband and helpless | Children) was fortunately rescued | from the merciless hands of the | Savages by a detached party from | the army of the brave | General Jackson, | late commanding at New-Orleans. |  As the proceeding pages will be found to | contain a particular account of the engagement |

The description and photostat title of the copy in the Rider collection at Brown University were supplied by Mrs. Dorothy Watts, of the John Carter Brown Library. The Wisconsin copy does not have the frontispiece.

One of the earliest pieces printed in Bangor, where Peter Edes set up his press and began printing in November, 1815. It is not mentioned in Williamson's "Bibliography of Maine," or in any other bibliography, and contains only the narrative of Mary Smith. Title from a copy formerly in the Eames collection. Photostat copy in the New York Public Library.

SMITH. An | Affecting Narrative | of the | Captivity and Sufferings | of Mrs. | Mary Smith, | who | With her Husband, and Three Daughters, | were taken prisoners by the Indians, in | August, 1814, and after enduring the | most cruel hardships and torture of | mind for sixty days, in which time | she witnessed the tragical death | of her husband and helpless | children, was rescued from | the merciless savages by | a detached party of the | army of the brave | General Jackson, | then commanding at New Orleans. | Williamsburgh: Printed by Ephraim Whitman. | 1818. | 12mo, pp. 24. NL. 83541

Photostat of title supplied by George B. Utley, librarian, from the copy described in the Newberry Library's list of "Narratives of Captivity among the Indians," in the Ayer collection, 1912. He states that it contains only the narrative of Mary Smith.

The printer, Ephraim Whitman, was the son of Rev. Samuel Whitman, pastor of the Church in Goshen, Hampshire County, Massachusetts, and his press was first set up in a building opposite the old Deacon Bodman homestead in the adjoining town of Williamsburg, as the name is now spelled. During the short time he was located there, he printed in 1817, a volume of 300 pages by Manoah Bodman, entitled "An Oration on Death," etc.; and in 1818, Elijah Hinsdale Burritt's "Logarithmick Arithmetick," Macgowan's "Life of Joseph," his father Samuel Whitman's "Treatise, concerning Christ the Foundation," and this narrative of Mary Smith, all with the Williamsburgh imprint. According to Hiram Barrus's "History of the Town of Goshen," Boston, 1881, Ephraim Whitman worked his press in his father's house in Goshen, where he published some of his father's works, and a few pamphlets for other parties. It is possible, therefore, that the Williamsburgh imprints of 1818 were really printed in Goshen. Ephraim died September 14, 1819, aged 23 years, and his father continued the printing business for a short time. His sermon preached at Cumington, October 5, 1819, second edition, has the imprint, Goshen, Ms. Printed at the Press of the Author, 1820, with the following advertisement on the last page, "Printing, on reasonable terms, and promptly executed, at this Office."

Mr. Barrus's "History" states that the press afterwards went to Poultney, Vermont, and was used for printing a newspaper there. From Gilman's "Bibliography of Vermont," p. 219, we learn that the first press at Poultney was started in November, 1822, by two young men, Sanford Smith, a son of the Rev. Ethan Smith, and John R. Shute. They began publication of the "Poultney Gazette," in 1822, the name being changed to "Northern Spectator" in January, 1825. It was in the office of the "Spectator" that Horace Greeley learned the printer's trade, where he remained from the spring of 1826, until the publication of the paper was suspended in June, 1830.

SMITH. An | Affecting Narrative | of the | Captivity and Sufferings | of | Mrs. Mary Smith, | who | With her Husband, and three Daughters, was taken prisoner by the | Indians, in August, 1814, and after enduring the most cruel | hardships and torture of mind for sixty days, in which | time she witnessed the tragical death of her husband and | helpless children, was rescued from the hands of | the merciless savages, by a detached party from | the army of the brave Gen. Jackson, | then commanding at New-Orleans. | [Woodcut.] | Price—Twelve and an half cents. | N. p., n. d. About 1818.] 12mo, pp. 24. Y. 83542

Title and photostat furnished by Miss Anne S. Pratt, of Yale University Library, from the Brinley copy, no. 5572. The verso of the title is blank, the text beginning on p. 3.

SMITH. An Affecting Narrative of the Captivity and Sufferings of Mrs. Mary Smith [etc., as in the first edition, with the addition of:]  As the preceding pages will be found to contain a particular account of the engagement | between the handful of Jackson's brave boys, | and the party of Savages above alluded to | the reader may judge of what materials | the hardy sons of Tennessee & Ohio | are composed. | Providence (R. I.): Printed for L. Scott (1818). 12mo, pp. 24. 83543

In this edition, the narrative of Mary Smith's captivity occupies the whole of the twenty-four pages, instead of, as in the other edition, filling only the first eighteen pages, and the relation of "The Indians Killing & Scalping Thirty Persons," is wholly omitted. Title and note from Thomas W. Field's "Indian Bibliography," no. 1457. Repeated as lot 2182 in the Field sale catalogue of May, 1875, but passed as being "out." This variety has not been located, and its existence is doubtful. It seems to differ from the others only in the line division of the word "con | tain."

AAS., B., C., UTS. 83572

The controversy began with Smith's sermon printed in the Boston Recorder, Oct. 15, 1846, attacking the Massachusetts Board of Education on the ground that it was trying to get the Bible out of the common schools, abolish the rod, and counteract the religious instruction of the home and Sunday school. The charges were denied by Mann and Fowle. The dispute was continued in Mann's "Sequel to the so called Correspondence between Rev. M. H. Smith and Horace Mann," 1847, our no. 44324, vol. 11, note, which was followed by Smith's "Reply," listed below.

Published by the Young Men of the Congregation. New York: Rudd & Carleton, 310 Broadway. M DCCC LVIII. 8vo, pp. 15, and printed front cover. UTS. 83597

Contains a defence of his own changes in religious affiliations.

According to the obituary notice in the "New York Daily Tribune," Nov. 8, 1879, Matthew Hale Smith was born in Medway, Mass., in 1810, instead of in Portland, Me., 1816, as is commonly stated. In his "Universalism Examined," 1842, he says: "My first sermon was preached in Medway, Massachusetts, in the month of August, 1828, at which time I was seventeen years and ten months old." Information from

Mr. Charles Martel. He had a varied and a controversial career as a clergyman in several denominations, as a lawyer, a lecturer, and as a journalist, being a correspondent for several years of the Boston "Journal," under the pen name of "Burleigh." Besides the books listed above he published several of a purely religious character. The following relates to him:

SMITH. Review of the Life and Writings of M. Hale Smith; with a Vindication of the Moral Tendency of Universalism, and the Moral Character of Universalists. By L. C. Browne. . . . Boston: Published by A. Tompkins. 1847. [Verso of title:] Stereotyped by George A. Curtis; New England Type and Stereotype Foundry, Boston. 12mo, pp. 360. NYH. 83598

Cary Smith) Historian of Eleazer Cary Family, and past President of Cary Family Association of Wyoming and Lackawanna Counties, for the purpose of corrections and further information; then to be published in a larger edition.* [1908.] 8vo, pp. 56, and printed cover. C., NYH. 83600

SMITH (May Riley). The Inn of Rest. Later Poems. By May Riley Smith, Author of "Sometime," etc. New York: Anson D. F. Randolph & Company, 38 West Twenty-Third Street. [Verso of title:] Edward O. Jenkins' Sons Printers and Stereotypers, New York. [1888.] 12mo, pp. 35. H. 83601

Copyrighted in 1888. Title supplied by T. Franklin Currier.

SMITH (Mayo G[errish]), d. 1901. A Popular Treatise on The Teeth: containing a History of the Dental Art, with anatomical descriptions of the mouth and its appendages, and accounts of chemical and physiological experiments on the teeth, also a full and accurate account of the History of Ether or Lethean, for the prevention of pain, with directions for use. Designed for the use of families, and as a manual for the student and the practical dentist. By Mayo G. Smith, Dental Surgeon. Illustrated by numerous engravings. Boston: John P. Jewett & Co. Sold by all the principal booksellers in the United States. 1848. [Verso of title:] Boston: Dickinson Printing-House—Damrell & Moore, No. 52 Washington Street. 12mo, pp. iv, (4), 9-316; Treatise on ether, 107, advertisement (4). Plate, with folding flap. H., NYAM., SG. 83602

Includes a general history of dentistry, with reference to its practice in America. The treatise on Ether has its own title as follows:

SMITH. A Treatise on the Inhalation of Ether for the Prevention of Pain. By Mayo G. Smith. Boston: J. P. Jewett & Co. 1848. [Verso of title:] Boston: Dickinson Printing House—Damrell & Moore, No. 52 Washington Street. 12mo, pp. 107, advertisement (4). H., NYAM., SG. 83603

The book gives an account of the gradual appreciation by scientists of the anaesthetic properties of ether, and of their first application by the dentist, Dr. William Thomas Green Morton, following the suggestion of his former teacher, Dr. Charles Thomas Jackson of Boston. The first recorded extraction under ether was performed at Dr. Morton's rooms in September, 1846. A description is given, pp. 97-99, of the first surgical operation carried on under its influence which was performed by Dr. John Collins Warren, Dr. Morton being the etherizer, at the Massachusetts General Hospital in October of the same year. Other dental and surgical operations in the United States and in Europe are also noted briefly. Practical directions for the use of ether, and description of the apparatus are given. No copy has been located separate from the "Treatise on the Teeth," although it is possible that some were so issued, the sheet-marks being distinct. For evidence of the use of ether as early as 1842, see under Smith (Truman).

[SMITH (Melancthon)], b. 1724, d. 1798. An | Address | to the | People | of the | State of New-York: | shewing the necessity of making | Amendments | to the | Constitution, proposed for the United States, | previous to its | Adoption. | By a Plebeian. | [New York:] Printed in the state of New-York. | M, DCC, LXXX, VIII. | 8vo, pp. 26. AAS., BA., C., JCB., NYP. 83604

Advertised for the first time in Thomas Greenleaf's "New York Journal, and Weekly Register," for April 17, 1788, as "Published this Day, and to be Sold, By Robert Hodge, No. 123, Queen-Street, and at This Printing-Office." The advertisement was repeated several times until as late as November 27. Mr. Paul L. Ford inferred from this notice that Robert Hodge printed the pamphlet, and so entered it in his "Bibliography and Reference List" of the Constitution; but it is possible that Thomas Greenleaf may have printed it for Hodge. The postscript, pp. 23-26, contains remarks on John Jay's anonymous "Address to the People of the State of New-York, on the Subject of the Constitution," which appeared "since the foregoing pages have been put to the press."

According to Mr. Ford, the pamphlet was "written by Melancthon Smith of New-York, a member of the Continental Congress (1785-88), and of the New York State Convention, in which he opposed, but ultimately voted for the ratification of the new Constitution." It was reprinted in Ford's "Pamphlets on the Constitution of the United States," 1888, pp. 87-115, from which a few copies were reissued as a separate pamphlet without title-page, pp. 27, repaged. NYP. Mr. Smith was one of the counsel for the defendant's side in the case of Rutgers vs. Waddington, in 1784, and with eight others signed the "Address from the Committee appointed at Mrs. Vandewater's," our no. 53473, vol. 13. For a biographical sketch see Thompson's "History of Long Island."

SMITH. Sketch of Hon. Melville C. Smith, from Men of Mark. Vol. II. 1875. [New York. 1875.] 8vo, pp. (2), 38, frontispiece portrait, and printed cover. NYH. 83608

Another sketch is in "Minnesota Biographies," vol. 14 of Minn. Hist. Soc. Collections, 1912.

[SMITH (Meriwether)], b. 1730, d. 1790. Observations | on the | fourth and fifth articles | of the | Preliminaries | for a peace with | Great Britain, | Designed for the | Information | and | Consideration | of the | People of | Virginia. | Richmond: | Printed by Dixon & Holt. | [1783.] 8vo, pp. 28. JCB. 83609

On the title-page of this copy is written in a contemporary hand, "By Meriwether Smith Esqr.," and beneath the imprint, "Published 20th July 1783." Meriwether Smith, of Virginia, was one of the committee appointed by Congress to draft instructions for the Peace Commissioner in February, 1779. This copy was first described in the auction catalogue of a portion of the valuable library of the Rt. Hon. Lord Ashburton, at Sotheby's, November 14, 1900, lot 24, as one of five pamphlets bound together, bought by Stevens. Title and description from Lawrence C. Wroth.

SMITH (Michael), Missionary to South Carolina. Christianity | Unmasqued; | or | Unavoidable Ignorance | preferable to | Corrupt Christianity. | A Poem. | In twenty-one cantos. | By | Michael Smith, A.B. | Vicar of South Mimms, in Hertfordshire. | . . . | London, | Printed for H. Turpin, Bookseller, in St. John's-street, West-Smithfield. | M.DCC.LXXI. | (Price Sew'd Four Shillings.) | 8vo, pp. (2), xxiv, 229. BM., c. 83610

The poem was based on the celebrated case of Father Jean Baptiste Girard, a Jesuit, and rector of the Royal Seminary of Chaplains of the Navy at Toulon, in 1731. Father Girard was accused by Miss Marie Catherine Cadière of the crimes of magic and sorcery, quietism, spiritual incest, procurement of abortion, and subornation of perjury. The trial took place at Aix, and Father Girard was acquitted. Numerous pamphlets relating to the affair were published at the time, in French and English, the entries in the British Museum Catalogue comprising eighteen under Cadière and sixteen under Girard.

In the list at the end, of "New books printed for H. Turpin," is the title of "Twelve practical and occasional discourses by Michael Smith;" and also the title of "Twelve Sermons, on the most interesting subjects of the Christian Religion; preached upon several occasions by Haddon Smith, curate of Saint Matthew, Bethnal-green, and late Chaplain of his Majesty's ship the Dreadnought," followed by another title by the same Haddon Smith. A Michael Smith who matriculated at Oxford in 1792, aged 19, is mentioned in Foster's Alumni Oxon., 1715-1886, vol. 4, as son of Haddon, of Prince William Town, South Carolina, clergyman, who may be the same Haddon Smith. Title and description from Mr. Charles Martel. A later edition as follows:

SMITH. Father Girard and Miss Cadière. A Poem . . . With a prose introduction detailing the true story of this celebrated case. First printed in 1771. London: R. Turpin. 1840. 16mo. BM. 83611

Only sixty copies were printed.

SMITH. Sermon, | Preached in | Christ-Church, in Newbern, | in | North-Carolina, | December the 27th, 1755. SMITH. [A Sermon preached before the Honourable House of Assembly in North Carolina, October 6, 1756. By Michael Smith, A.B. Newbern: Printed by James Davis. 1756. 8vo.] 83613

A factitious title, based on the following notice in the Journals of the House for Thursday, October 7, 1756:—"On motion resolved that Mr. Barker and Mr. Ormond return the Thanks of the House to the Reverend Mr. Smith for his Sermon preached before the House yesterday and to desire a Copy thereof in Order to have the same printed."—North Carolina Colonial Records, vol. 5, p. 696.

SMITH. Twelve | Sermons, | preached upon | Several Occasions. | By Michael Smith, A.B. | Late Missionary to the Society for Propagating the | Gospel in America. | London: | Printed for the
Author, | And Sold by H. Turpin, in St. John's Street, West Smith-
field. | M DCC LXX. | 8vo, pp. viii, 256. B., UTS. 83614

The writer states in his dedication to the Right Honourable Earl of Hillsborough, that as the sermons "were calculated for the Meridian of the Colonies, over which your Lordship presides, you have a peculiar relation to them; and, if you will pardon the expression, are under a neutral tie, if not to protect them, at least to pardon the Author."

Michael Smith was graduated M.A. of Trinity College, Dublin; ordained deacon in 1740, and priest in 1747; was a Curate for five years in Hertfordshire; then sent to America as a missionary of the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel, and located at Prince Frederick's Parish in South Carolina from 1753 to 1756, when his appointment was revoked on account of complaints about his conduct. He removed to Portsmouth, North Carolina, where he was still residing in 1760. Returning to England, he became vicar of South Mimms, in Hertfordshire, in 1771, and published his "Twelve Sermons" and "Christianity Unmasked." There was a different Michael Smith, rector of Freckenham in Suffolk, who died May 6, 1773, aged 53, and whose Latin epitaph was printed in the "Gentleman's Magazine," vol. 57 (1787), pt. 1, p. 352, and pt. 2, p. 675. Concerning our author, see the "Classified Digest of the Records of the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel in Foreign Parts, 1701-1892," page 850; Dalcho's "Hist. of Prot. Epis. Church in S. C.," p. 320; North Carolina Colonial Records, vol. 5, pp. 961-962, and vol. 6, pp. 312-313; and W. W. Boddie's "History of Williamsburg County, S. C.," 1923, p. 54.

SMITH (Michael), Rector of Portland, Jamaica. Twelve Sermons. 1764. 8vo. 83615

A doubtful title from Allibone. Possibly an error for the preceding title.

SMITH (M[ichael]), Minister of the Gospel. [A Complete History of the Late American War with Great-Britain and her Allies . . . By M. Smith, Minister of the Gospel. . . Richmond, Va. June, 1815. 18mo.] 83616

The authority for this edition is the author's own statement in the one next following. Referring to his "Geographical View," and to the fact that five editions had been printed, he adds:—"Connected with this View, on all the impressions, was printed a concise history of the war in Canada and the United States, and every time enlarged and corrected. The last impression (but this) was made in June, 1815, at the city of Richmond, Va. and which is now corrected also."

SMITH. A Complete History of the Late American War with Great-Britain and her Allies, From the commencement of hostilities in 1812, till the conclusion of peace with the Algerines in 1815. With Geographical Notes, relative to the seat of war and scene of battle. And Biographical Sketches of the principal Actors. By M. Smith. Minister of the Gospel, Author of "The View of the British Possessions in North-America, and History of the War, &c. Sixth Edition revised and corrected by the Author. To which is added, A Narrative Of the Author's sufferings in Canada, with his Family, and Journey to Virginia and Kentucky. Lexington, Ky. Printed for the Author, by F. Bradford, Jun. (Price, One Dollar.) 1816. 18mo, pp. 287, (1). C., NYP., WHS. 83617

In calling this the "Sixth Edition," the author counted the five editions of his "Geographical View," to which is appended a concise history of the war. The preface is dated Lexington (Ken.), May 1st, 1816, in which he mentions an earlier edition of Richmond, 1815, of which no copy has been found. The copyright on verso of the title is that for the "Geographical View of the British Possessions," and is dated District of Virginia, Jan. 1, 1814. The personal narrative at the end was first printed separately at Richmond in 1814, as "Human Suffering and Divine Comfort," and appears here in its second edition on pp. 229-287, as "A Narrative of the Sufferings," with its own title and imprint, given in full under that title below.

SMITH. A Geographical View, of the Province of Upper Canada, and promiscuous remarks upon the Government. In two parts, with an Appendix: containing a complete description of the Niagara Falls. And remarks relative to the situation of the inhabitants respecting the War. By M. Smith. Hartford: Printed for [sic] the Author, by Hale & Hosmer. 1813. 12mo, pp. 107. NYH. 83618

The first edition, with author's preface dated Winchester, [Conn.] April 16, 1813, while on his journey from Poughkeepsie through Litchfield County to Hartford. Copyrighted April 24, 1813, by Michael Smith, in Connecticut. Several weeks before this date, in February or March, while on his journey from Canada through Vermont, Mr. Smith had Proposals printed for the book at Bennington, and circulated them to obtain subscribers. At that place he met a Mr. Bishop, a Baptist preacher like himself, who offered to advance some money to print the work, and to let him have a few hundred copies, in return for the privilege of printing what he wanted. This offer was accepted, and Mr. Bishop had 3000 copies printed at Hartford as described above, giving Mr. Smith the number agreed upon, containing the words "Printed for the Author" in the imprint. It is possible that the remainder of the edition had a partly different imprint, omitting reference to the author.

SMITH. A Geographical View of the Province of Upper Canada, and promiscuous remarks upon the government. In two parts. With an Appendix containing a Complete Description of the Niagara Falls, and Remarks relative to the Situation of the Inhabitants respecting the War. Second edition, revised and corrected. By Michael Smith. Hartford: Printed and Sold Wholesale and Retail, By John Russell, Jr.—State-Street. 1813. 18mo, pp. iv, 119, and printed cover. B., BM. 83619

The cover-title has the imprint: Printed and Published by B. & J. Russell, Jr. at their Printing-Office and Book-Store, Two Rods East of the Court-House, State-Street. 1813.

There being a ready sale for the book on account of the war, the 3,000 copies of the first edition were soon gone, and Mr. Bishop, mentioned in the preceding note, had 10,000 more of a second edition printed on his own account, according to Mr. Smith's statement. The author therefore had no financial interest in this edition.

SMITH. A Geographical View of the Province of Upper Canada and promiscuous remarks on the Government. In two parts, with an Appendix: containing a complete description of the Niagara Falls. And remarks relative to the situation of the inhabitants respecting the War, and a concise history of its progress, to the present date. By M. Smith. New-York: Printed for the Author, by Pelsue & Gould. August, 1813. Price 50 Cents. 12mo, pp. 118, (1). AAS., C., H., NYP. 83620

The author's second edition, enlarged and corrected, with the Connecticut copyright of April 24, 1813, and the history of the war "brought down to the 21st of August, 1813, to the very hour the last sheet was struck." Concerning it Mr. Smith states, "In the month of August, another Baptist preacher said that he would pay for the printing of three thousand more if I would let him, and give me 700 copies, and to which I agreed also—accordingly we came to New York and set a printer to work." There may have been two varieties of the imprint, the above being one of the 700 printed for the author.

SMITH. A Geographical View of the Province of Upper Canada. And promiscuous remarks on the government. In two parts, with an appendix: containing a complete description of the Niagara Falls. And remarks relative to the situation of the inhabitants respecting the war, and a concise history of its progress, to the present date. By M. Smith. (Third Edition, Revised.) Trenton: Published and Sold by Moore and Lake. William & David Robinson, Printers. November, 1813. 12mo, pp. 117, contents (1). Plate. AAS., B. 83621

Early in October, Mr. Smith sold the liberty of printing and selling the work in the Jerseys to Moore and Lake, of Trenton, for sixty dollars, bringing the continuation of the history, taken from the New York papers, down to October 9th, 1813. It is therefore the author's third edition, although the imprint is dated a month later than the Philadelphia edition. The plate is a wood-engraving entitled Perry's Victory, which in one copy is a frontispiece, and in the other faces p. 114. Information partly from S. A. Chevalier, of the Boston Public Library.

SMITH. A Geographical View of the Province of Upper Canada; and Promiscuous Remarks on the Government; in two parts; with an appendix, containing a complete description of the Niagara Falls: and remarks relative to the Situation of the Inhabitants respecting the War; and a concise history of its progress, to the present date. By M. Smith. Third Edition. Philadelphia—Printed for the Author, by John Bioren. October, 1813. Price—Fifty Cents. 12mo, pp. 118, (2). NYH. + Third Edition. Philad.—Printed by J. Bioren, for Thomas and Robert Desilver. October, 1813. Price—Fifty Cents. 12mo, pp. 118, (2), and printed board covers. AAS., BA., H., NYH., WHS. 83622

This is the third edition in order of publication, but it is really the author's fourth edition, since he brought the continuation of the history, from the public papers received at New York and Philadelphia, down to October 21st, 1813. Mr. Smith sold the copyright of this edition, for sale in Pennsylvania and Maryland, to Thomas and Robert Desilver of Philadelphia, in return for 400 copies of the same, the latter having the words Printed for the Author in the imprint.

SMITH. A Geographical View of the British Possessions in North America: comprehending Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, New Britain, Lower and Upper Canada, With all the Country to the Frozen Sea on the North, and Pacific Ocean on the West. With An Appendix, containing A Concise History of the War in Canada, To the date of this volume. By M. Smith, Author of the View of Upper Canada. Baltimore: Printed by P. Mauro, for the Author. 1814. 18mo, pp. 288. B., C., H., NYP., WHS. 83623

The fifth edition of his book on Upper Canada, enlarged and with an altered title. It was first intended to print it in Richmond, and it has the Virginia copyright dated Jan. 1, 1814. Printed Proposals were issued in February, 1814, and by the first of April nearly 2500 names of subscribers had been received. On account of the high price of paper, printing and binding in Richmond, it became necessary to publish the book in Baltimore, and to have it done in brevier as an 18mo, instead of in pica as a 12mo.

In his preface dated Richmond, Virginia, April 17th, 1814, Mr. Smith stated that the success of his View of Upper Canada had led him to bring out this larger edition on the whole of British North America, but that while the material on Upper Canada and part of Lower Canada was taken from personal observation, the rest was a compilation from the works of G. Heriot, Esq., Winterbotham, Carver, Mackenzie, Payne and several French authors, and from some manuscript material of the Catholic missionaries. The preliminary advertisement to subscribers is dated Balt. May 10, 1814. The Appendix, pp. 211-270, contains the history of the war, continued to June 10th, 1814, according to the contents on p. 288. A long list of subscribers, chiefly in Virginia, is printed in small type on pp. 271-282.

The edition consisted of at least 2500 copies, some of which were destroyed by fire in the City of Washington, where they had been sent from Baltimore, to the Rev. O. B. Brown, Chaplain to Congress and Clerk of the Treasury Office. Into this office he had taken them where he was engaged, only a few days before the British burnt the building and the books.

SMITH. Human Sorrow and Divine Comfort, or a Short Narrative of the Sufferings, Travel, Present Feelings and Situation of M. Smith, Preacher of the Gospel, author of the View of Upper Canada & British Possessions, intended to Illustrate the Goodness of God. . . . Richmond: Printed for the Author by Samuel Pleasants. Price 25 cents. 1814. 12mo, pp. 38, and printed front cover.

HEH. 83624

The only copy traced is one formerly in the Eames collection of American imprints, now in the Huntington Library. The preface is dated Caroline county, Va. July 20, 1814. Concerning this edition the author states:—"I wrote and printed 1800 copies of this narrative, the most of which I distributed gratuitously among the soldiers in the several camps in Virginia, where I sometimes preached, and believe that the reading thereof did some good by inducing the soldiers to trust in God." The pamphlet contains an account of Smith's experience with the Indians, of his sufferings during the winter journey from Canada back to the United States, and information about the printing of the various editions of his "Geographical View." Reprinted with additions under the following title:

SMITH. A Narrative of the Sufferings in, and Journey from Upper Canada to Virginia and Kentucky, Of M. Smith, Minister of the Gospel, Author of the View of the British Possessions in North-America, and History of the War, &c. Intended to Illustrate the goodness of God. . . . (Second Edition.) Lexington, Ky. Printed for the Author by F. Bradford, Jun. 1816. 18mo, pp. 229-287 of the same author's "Complete History of the Late American War." C., NYP., WHS. 83625

Contains the preface of the first edition, dated Caroline County, Va. July 20, 1814, and a continuation of the narrative to May 20, 1816.

SMITH. A Narrative of the Sufferings in Upper Canada, with his Family, in the Late War, and Journey to Virginia and Kentucky, of M. Smith, Minister of the Gospel, Author of the "View of the British Possessions in North America," "History of the Late War," and "Beauties of Divine Poetry," &c. &c. Interspersed with Appropriate Remarks relative to British North America—the Late War—Indians: Missionaries, and other Ministers of the Gospel—and Religion. Intended to illustrate the Goodness of God. (Third Edition— with Alterations and Additions.) Lexington, Ky. Printed for the Author by Worsley & Smith. 1817. 18mo, pp. 161, (1). NYH., WHS. 83626

[SMITH.] On the Vanity of Human Actions. A Little Sermon, By a Big Sinner. . . . Price, Six Cents. [Hartford.] 1813. 12mo, pp. 12. NYH. 83627

Signed and dated at the end, A Miserable Sinner. Connecticut, (Blooming-Hill,) May 17, 1813. Title from the Brinley copy, bound with Smith's "Geographical View," Hartford, 1813. As the style of printing is the same in both works, it is probable that the pamphlet was also printed by Hale and Hosmer, and perhaps for Rev. Michael Smith, who was at that time in or near Hartford.

Mr. Smith states that he was born ten miles from Philadelphia, and removed with his family to Upper Canada in 1808, in order to obtain land upon easy terms. In 1810 he undertook to prepare for publication a geographical and political view of the province, with the permission and approval of Francis Gore, the governor. Early in 1812 he joined in the printing of a weekly newspaper. In June of the same year he had already sent part of the manuscript of his book to the printers in Buffalo, but the outbreak of the war prevented its publication at that time. After some ill treatment by the Indians in his vicinity, he obtained passports to the United States, but his remaining manuscript was confiscated, and the work as published later was made up from the manuscript formerly sent to Buffalo, the political view being left out, and the account of the war substituted. Leaving Canada at the end of December, 1812, he travelled from Ogdensburgh in New York to Vermont, staying for a while at Bennington, and preaching in Baptist churches on the way. By the end of March, 1813, he had reached Poughkeepsie, from which place he turned his journey towards Hartford in Connecticut, where the first edition of his book was printed. In August he went to New York, and in October to Trenton in New Jersey, and thence to Philadelphia, making arrangements in each place for printing other editions of the book. From Philadelphia he travelled to Richmond, Virginia, where he resided during 1814 and 1815, removing to Kentucky in 1816. In one of his prefaces he made the statement that upwards of thirty thousand volumes of his books had been published altogether.

SMITH (Nathaniel), Editor and Publisher. The Rejected Addresses; together with the Prize Address, presented for the Prize

Medal, offered for the Best Address, On the opening of the New Park Theater, in the City of New-York. . . . New-York: Published by Nathaniel Smith, No. 15, Cedar-Street. J. Johnson & Co. Printers. 1821. 18mo, pp. (4), [vii]—182. Folded plate, Lansing Sc. NYH. 83665

The wood-engraving is inscribed, "View of the Interior of the Park Theatre," and is often lacking. On the night of the 25th of May, 1820, the New-York Park Theatre was destroyed by fire. The proprietors resolved to rebuild it; and while the work was proceeding, the managers, Messrs. Price & Simpson, published an advertisement, offering the freedom of the theatre to the author of the best poetic address, consisting of not more than sixty, and not less than fifty lines, to be pronounced at the opening of the theatre; and in case the author should be a non-resident, a gold medal of the value of fifty dollars was to be awarded. The opening ceremonies took place on September 1, 1821, and the prize was awarded to Charles Sprague, of Boston, whose poetic address is printed first. Among the competitors were Samuel Woodworth, Moses Y. Scott, James B. Sheys, M'Donald Clarke, J. Griffith, and J. A. Lee, of New York. Most of the others are unsigned, and were sent from Sackets-Harbour, N. Y., Oswego, N. Y., Woodbridge, N. J., Mount-Holly, N. J., Scotch-Plains, N. J., Philadelphia, Pa., Petersburg, Va., Newbern, N. C., Charleston, S. C., Newport, R. I., Portland, Me., St. Louis, Missouri, from Maryland, Illinois, and the Wilds of the West. The introduction, although unsigned, was by Nathaniel Smith, a bookbinder at 15 Cedar Street, and the copyright of the book is in his name as proprietor. See Ireland's "Records of the New York Stage," vol. 1, p. 381. Corrected title of our no. 69154, vol. 16.

[SMITH (Dr. Peter).] Appeal of the American Citizens resident in Peru to their Government, for Protection from Outrages committed upon their Persons and Property. Addressed to the Senate and the House of Representatives U. S. [N. p. 1856.] 8vo, pp. 39. 83711

The pamphlet contains protests against the official action of John Randolph Clay, American Minister to Peru at the time, signed by Peter Smith. According to a letter from Clay to Secretary of State Marcy, in which he defends himself, "Peter Smith of California notoriety," and the other petitioners were mostly idle, irresponsible adventurers, stranded sailors, etc. Clay's character was cleared by Z. B. Caverly, who spoke of Smith as from Kentucky, and Secretary Marcy wrote to Clay that the petition, and personal hearing of Smith by President Pierce had turned out entirely in Clay's favor. Title and information supplied by Charles Martel of the Library of Congress, from the printed card title of a copy in the John Crerar Library at Chicago, and from letters in the archives of the State Department.

BA., C., H., HEH., NYP., WHS. 83742

Some copies were also printed on large paper in royal octavo size, with two plates instead of three, the two plans of the old stone house being brought together on one plate. NYP. The book was edited by Dr. Lewis H. Steiner, a son-in-law of Judge Smith. A biographical sketch of the author is on pp. 136-141, reprinted from the N. E. Hist. and Gen. Register, vol. 29, pp. 326-328, July, 1875.

SMITH. Statistics of the Connecticut Election Sermons, 1674 to 1830. From the Manuscripts of the Hon. Ralph D. Smyth, of Guilford, Conn. Edited by Bernard C. Steiner, PH.D. His Grandson. Boston: New-England Historic Genealogical Society. 1892. [Verso of title:] David Clapp & Son, Printers, 115 High Street. 8vo, pp. 6, and printed cover. 83743

As first printed in the "New England Historical and Genealogical Register," vol. 46, 1892, pp. 123-126, the article consists of a four page title-a-line list, giving date, name of preacher, graduation, residence, text, size, and number of pages, of each sermon, during the whole period of their publication, from 1674 to 1830. The author's name is also spelled "Smyth" in the "Register," which adds the words, "Communicated by his grandson, Bernard C. Steiner, PH.D., Instructor in History, Williams College." Title supplied by Mr. William Prescott Greenlaw, librarian of the Society. Only a few copies were reprinted in separate form.

According to the biographical sketch in the "History of Guilford," the manuscripts left by Judge Smith are very voluminous, comprising: (1) A sketch of the history of Guilford, with the genealogy of its principal families, which would probably make two volumes of some 600 pages; (2) A Biographical Record of the Class of 1827, Yale College; (3) The Biographical Sketches of Yale Graduates from 1702 to 1767; (4) A catalogue of Connecticut Election Sermons; (5) Fragmentary sketches of the early history of the First and Fourth Congregational Societies of Guilford, etc.

Providence: Printed for the Society by the E. L. Freeman Co. from the original MSS. in the Archives of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts [1924.] 8vo, pp. (4), 7—31. B., C., HEH., NYP. 83760*

Richard Smith, the younger, of Narragansett, his letter dated October 8, 1675, pp. 11-12; Paine's letter, pp. 13-16; the Commissioners' letter, pp. 17-19; Mrs. Pray's letter, pp. 21-25; notes, pp. 27-31. A petition of Smith's to the "Comishionors of the united Colloneys," dated "First day of septem 1684," forms pp. 27-29 of a companion volume entitled, "The Petition of Abigail Lay . . . Issued at the General Court of the Society of Colonial Wars in the State of Rhode Island . . . December 30, 1920." For a biographical sketch, see Updike's "A History of the Episcopal Church in Narragansett, Rhode Island," 1907, vol. 1, 320-322.

SMITH (Richard), of New Jersey, b. 1735, d. 1803. A Tour of Four Great Rivers, the Hudson, Mohawk, Susquehanna and Delaware in 1769, being the journal of Richard Smith of Burlington, New Jersey. Edited, with a short history of the pioneer settlements, by Francis W. Halsey, author of "The Old New York Frontier." New York. Charles Scribner's Sons. 1906. [Verso of title:] The De Vinne Press. 8vo, pp. x, (4), xiii-lxxiii, 102. Map, and 16 plates.

B., C., H., HEH., NYP. 83761

The object of the tour was to survey a large tract of land purchased from the Indians, comprising 69,000 acres known later as the Otego patent, on the upper Susquehanna. The original manuscript of the journal was in 1906 in the possession of Mr. J. Francis Coad, of Charlotte Hall, Maryland, one of Mr. Smith's descendants. A copy of it was made in 1790 for the use of M. Pierre Eugène du Simitière, the Swiss artist, with notes added by Mr. Smith. The book was printed from a later transcript of this copy, formerly owned by Dr. George H. Moore, of the Lenox Library, at the sale of whose manuscripts in 1894 it was bought by Mr. Halsey.

The historical introduction contains a biographical sketch of Mr. Smith on pp. xiii-xxii, and the illustrations include his portrait and residence at Smith Hall, in Laurens, Otsego County, N. Y. Richard Smith's diary of the proceedings in the Continental Congress, from Sept. 12, 1775, to March 30, 1776, was printed in "The American Historical Review," vol. 1, 1896, pp. 288-310, 493-516.

SMITH (Richard), of Pennsylvania. Interesting Trial! The Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, vs. Lieut. Richard Smith, charged with the late Murder of Captain John Carson, at Philadelphia. Boston: Printed by N. Coverly, Milk-Street. 1816. 12mo, pp. 14.

AAS. 83762

According to Clarence S. Brigham, who supplied the title, the pamphlet contains only the charge to the jury and the circumstances of the sentence.

SMITH. The Last Speech and Repentance of Lieutenant Richard Smith . . . Philadelphia. 1816. 12mo. 83763

A copy was in the auction sale of Edmund B. Wynn's library, by Bangs & Co., Feb. 7 to 11, 1893.

SMITH. The Trials of Richard Smith, Late Lieutenant in the 23d Regiment U. States Infantry, as Principal, and Ann Carson, alias Ann Smith, as Accessary, for the Murder of Captain John Carson, on the 20th day of January, 1816, at a Court of Oyer and Terminer held at Philadelphia, May, 1816, by the Judges of the Court of Common Pleas, Judge Rush—President; together with the Arguments of Counsel, the Charges and Sentence of the President. Taken in short hand by J. C. a member of the Philadelphia Bar. Philadelphia: Published by Thomas Desilver, 220, Market Street. [1816.] 8vo, pp. (4), 1-68, 81-236, appendix vi, (2). Frontispiece plan of murder. c. + [A later issue, same imprint. 1816.] 8vo, pp. (4), 1-68, 81-240, (1), 241-247, appendix vi, (2). Frontispiece. H., NYP. 83764

The work was copyrighted in 1816. On p. 68 is the following note: "Because of the division of the Trial into Numbers, it has unavoidably arisen that page 81 immediately follows page 68." The two issues agree as far as p. 227. In the first issue Mr. Ingersoll's argument ends on p. 228, followed on pp. 229-236 by Mrs. Carson's trial. In the second issue, Judge Rush's charge follows Mr. Ingersoll's argument on pp. 228-237, the sentence, etc., on 237-240, and Mrs. Carson's trial, 241-248 (mispaged 241-247), the additions being included in the index, and the errata increased from 7 lines to 12 lines. The trial of Ann Carson, the account of which precedes the appendix in both issues, was concluded three days before that of Smith. It is possible that the first issue came out before his trial was ended. In the "Army Register," 1814, a Rd. C. Smyth is listed as third lieutenant in the 23rd regiment of infantry.

[SMITH (Richard), of Washington.] To the Stockholders of the Bank of the United States. [Washington, 1825.] 8vo, pp. 30. C., NYP. 83765

No title-page; title from heading of p. 1. The pamphlet is signed Richard Smith, and dated Washington, Aug. 26, 1825. It is a reply to charges brought by Roger Chew Weightman in his pamphlet, "To ——— a stockholder in the Bank of the United States." Smith was cashier of the Washington Branch of the Bank of the United States.

Designed as a successor to the Confederate spelling book. A manuscript note in the Congressional Library copy says this was prepared by R. M. Smith, professor in Randolph Macon College.—Weeks's "Confederate Text-Books," 1900, p. 1145.

[SMITH.] The Confederate Primer. . . . Fourth Edition. Richmond: George L. Bidgood, Bookseller and Publisher, 121 Main Street. 1864. [Verso of title:] Macfarlane & Fergusson, Printers. 18mo, pp. 32, with illustrations in text. C., HEH. 83773

There is a woodcut on the title-page of William and Mary College before the fire of 1859. A manuscript note in the copy in the Congressional Library says that the work is by R. M. Smith. (Richard M. Smith, professor of ancient and modern languages and natural sciences in Randolph Macon College.) The paper cover in which the booklet is bound is wall paper, the title being put on the reverse or wall side. There are 47 pictures, some of which had evidently been made to do service in illustrating advertisements. Fourth edition announced as ready on the cover to Confederate First Reader, published in 1864.—Weeks's "Confederate Text-Books," 1900, p. 1141.

[SMITH.] The Confederate Spelling Book, with Reading Lessons for the Young, adapted to the Use of Schools or for Private Instruction. Fifth Edition. *Richmond, Va.: Published by George L. Several of the maps have the inscription: "To illustrate R. M. Smith's New Common School Geography. Drawn and engraved by H. A. Brightly." Titles and information supplied by Miss Etheldred Abbot, and T. Franklin Currier.

Richard McAllister Smith was editor of "The Alexandria Sentinel" and "The Richmond Enquirer and Sentinel," according to a letter from his son, Rev. Richard M. Smith, dated Aug. 16, 1927.

SMITH (R[ichard] Morris), b. 1827, d. 1896. The Burlington Smiths. A Family History. By R. Morris Smith. Philadelphia: Printed for the author, by E. Stanley Hart, 38 Hudson St. 1877. 4to, pp. 296. 9 separate photographs mounted, and one in the text.

BA., C., NYP. 83776

Printed for members of the family, and now rare. Following the title are two leaves, the first one dedicating the book to the Earl of Derby, and the second one acknowledging literary help, dated December 1st, 1877, from Stanley, near Philadelphia. An addendum was issued in 1880, 8vo, pp. 9. For a biographical notice, see Moon's "The Morris Family of Philadelphia," 1898, vol. 2, p. 740.

According to John Foster Kirk's "Supplement" to Allibone, Mr. Richard Morris Smith was the author of the following book, under the pseudonym of "Stanley," perhaps from his place of residence: "An Outline of the Future Religion of the World, with a Consideration of the facts and doctrines on which it will probably be based. By T. Lloyd Stanley . . . G. P. Putnam's Sons, New York: 27 and 29 West 23d street. London: 25 Henrietta Street, Covent Garden. 1884." 8vo, pp. xi, 588. UTS.

C., H., NYP. 83777

Mr. Smith also wrote a play, "The Actress of Padua," which was acted at the American Theatre in Philadelphia, June 13, 1836, according to McCullough. This work contains the same story in narrative form, together with "The Daughter" and other tales, several of which had appeared previously in magazines.

[SMITH.] Col. [Verso of title:] London: Bradbury and Evans, Printers Whitefriars. 12mo, pp. vii, pp. 152. NYP. + Cincinnati: Published by U. P. James, No. 26 Pearl-street. 1839. 12mo, pp. viii, 13-216. HSP. 83778

A pseudo-autobiography, the preface purporting to be written by an Alex. J. Dumas, who says he had this book published from David Crockett's manuscript which he received from a certain Charles T. Beale. A letter is included from Beale stating that he has written the final chapter. This book is entered under Crockett, as our no. 17566, vol. 5. An article in Burton's "Gentleman's Magazine," Philadelphia, vol. 5, 1839, pp. 119-121, attributes it to Richard Penn Smith, and states that in the course of a single year upwards of ten thousand copies were sold. McCullough's thesis, and most of the short sketches of Smith, list this book among his works.

This book is divided into three parts, the introduction, which is a biographical sketch of Richard Penn Smith written by Morton McMichael, pp. 7-14; poems, pp. 15-137; fugitive prose now first collected, pp. 139-326.

SMITH. Quite Correct; a comedy—in two acts. By R. Penn Smith. As performed at the Chesnut Street Theatre, Philadelphia. [Philadelphia. 1835.] 18mo, pp. (3), 120-155.

B., H., NYP. 83787

This was published in Alexander's "Modern Acting Drama, consisting of the most popular plays produced at the Philadelphia Theatres and Elsewhere," vol. 2, 1835, pp. 117-155; and also issued as a separate.

SMITH. Rosine Laval: a Novel. By Mr. Smith. . . . Philadelphia. Carey, Lea & Blanchard, Chesnut Street. 1833. 8vo, pp. (6) advertisements, v, 300. B. 83788

The play "Is she a Brigand," was also published in "Alexander's Modern Acting Drama," vol. 1, pp. 81-116, Philadelphia, 1835; and the "Triumph at Plattsburgh" for the first time in Prof. A. H. Quinn's "Representative American Plays," 1917, pp. 165-180. There were other plays, which were not printed, the manuscripts of the following being preserved in the Historical Society of Pennsylvania: "A Wife at a Venture," "The Sentinels," "William Penn," "The Pelican," "The Last Man," "The Solitary," "Shakespeare in Love," "The Bombardment of Algiers," "The Divorce," and a fragment of "The Bravo." The following plays have not been preserved, according to Mr. McCullough: "Caius Marius," "The Actress of Padua," "My Uncle's Wedding," and "The Water Witch."

Some other works have been attributed to Richard Penn Smith, on doubtful authority. He was editor of the "Aurora" from 1822 to 1827, and also one of the contributors to the "Atlantic Souvenir," an annual published from 1826 to 1832. See also "The Deluge. A Semi-Serious Poem . . . These publications relate chiefly to the validity of the votes of Otsego County, also briefly to those of Tioga and Clinton Counties, in the April elections of 1792, the question affecting the election of Governor George Clinton and Lieutenant-Governor Van Cortlandt, and the state senators. The Otsego county votes were forwarded by Richard R. Smith as sheriff to the Secretary of the state, because though his term had expired on February 18th of that year, his successor had not yet qualified. It was questioned whether this fact invalidated the votes of the county. The first pamphlet gives a statement of the case by the Canvassers; opinions of Aaron Burr and Rufus King; the certificate of the majority of the Canvassers; the protest of the minority; the reasons of the majority for their decision to reject the votes; a collection of law opinions, including those of Pierpont Edwards, Jonathan D. Sergeant, Edmund Randolph, and others; and a statement of two members of the state Council of Appointment. The editor of the second pamphlet claiming that the first publication was put out in the interest of the Canvassers, published contrary opinions of W. Lewis of Philadelphia, Abraham Ogden, Richard Stockton, Aaron Ogden, Elisha Boudinot, Andrew Kirkpatrick, and Frederick Frelinghuysen of New Jersey, and of John Trumbull of Connecticut; and a statement by Stephen Van Rensselaer of the Council of Appointment. The third pamphlet was prepared by a group of six New York lawyers, Richard Harison, John Cozine, C. I. Bogert, Robert Troup, James M. Hughes, and Thomas Cooper, whose previous opinion dated June 7, 1792, was printed on pp. 22-24 of the "Impartial Statement," and which held that as Smith was the only acting sheriff of the county, the inhabitants should not be deprived of their right of suffrage. Richard R. Smith was the son of Richard Smith, member of the Continental Congress from New Jersey. See Richard Morris Smith's "The Burlington Smiths," 1877, p. 243.

SMITH (Richard Somers), the elder, b. 1789, d. 1884. Reminiscences of Seven Years of Early Life. By Richard S. Smith. Wilmington, Del. Ferris Bros., Printers. 1884. 12mo, pp. vi, 122. Frontispiece portrait of Smith, 3 plates, and facsimile.

On verso of title: "The proceeds of the sale of this volume are to be devoted to Calvary Church, [which Smith founded] Rockdale, Delaware County, Pa." A sermon in memory of Smith, preached at that church by Rt. Rev. Alfred Lee on June 29th, 1884, forms pp. 85-106. The appendix contains letters and notes relating to Smith. These reminiscences were written for his eleven year old godson, and are dated June 17th, 1867. They relate the story of his life from April, 1806, when he started work for a counting-house in Philadelphia, until his return from Sweden in 1813. Mr. Smith's full name appears on p. 111.

SMITH (Richard Somers), the younger, b. 1813, d. 1877. Ceremonies on the Inauguration of Prof. Richard Somers Smith, as President of Girard College, June 24, 1863. Philadelphia: King & Baird, Printers, 607 Sansom Street. 1863. 8vo, pp. 32, and printed cover.

H., WHS. 83793

The inaugural address by Smith forms pp. 18-26. The Wisconsin copy contains a portrait of Smith on a separate sheet. Title and information from Miss Annie A. Nunn, and T. Franklin Currier.

Also: "A Manual of Topographical Drawing," 1854, and "A Manual of Linear Perspective," 1857, and later editions of both. A biographical sketch of Smith is included in Scharf and Westcott's "History of Philadelphia," vol. 3, 1884, p. 2116-2117.

SMITH (Robert), of Charleston, S. C., b. 1732, d. 1801. Catalogue of a Collection of Books belonging to the Rev. Robert Smith, of South Carolina, and Mr. James Cannon, deceased, late of this city. To be sold at Auction, April 24th. Philadelphia: Francis
Bailey (?). 1782. 83804

Title from Hildeburn, no. 4189, apparently from a newspaper advertisement. Rev. Robert Smith, rector of St. Philip's Church, in Charleston, S. C. was banished to Philadelphia at the time of the surrender of that city in 1780, and returned home in 1783, evidently selling off some of his library before that time. He was elected Bishop of the Protestant Episcopal Church in South Carolina in 1795. He was also the first Principal of Charleston College, which had been started by him as an Academy. See Dalcho's "Historical Account of the Episcopal Church in South Carolina," 1820, pp. 214-219, also Sprague's "Annals," vol. 5, 1859, pp. 170-173, which contains some added material.

SMITH (Robert), of Savannah, Ga., d. 1803. A Discourse, on occasion of the Death of the Rev. Jonathan Edwards, D.D. President of Union College, delivered on the third day of August, A.D. 1801, in the Reformed Dutch Church, at Schenectady. By Robert Smith, A.M. Pastor of the Presbyterian Church in Savannah. Albany: Printed by Charles R. and George Webster. MDCCCI. 8vo, pp. 23. AAS., H., NYH. 83808

An "Historical Sketch, of the Presbyterian Church in Savannah, transmitted to the editor, by their present worthy Pastor, the rev. Robert Smith," forms pp. 49-51 of the [Georgia] "Analytical Repository," vol. 1, no. 2, July and August, 1802. Information from Mrs. Mary R. Reynolds, from a copy in the library of the American Antiquarian Society. For a biographical sketch, see Dwight's "Travels in New England and New York," vol. 2, 1821, pp. 489-490.

SMITH (Robert), of Maryland, b. 1757, d. 1842. An Address. See nos. 83824, 83825, 83826, below.

[SMITH.] Documents accompanying the Message of the President of the United States, to the two Houses of Congress, at the opening of the second session of the Eleventh Congress. November 29th, 1809. Printed by order of the Senate. Washington City: Printed by Roger C. Weightman. 1809. 8vo, pp. 88; preceded by the President's Message, pp. 8, and followed by Documents relating to France, pp. 7. NYP. 83809

Robert Smith's correspondence as Secretary of State of the United States, with David M. Erskine, Francis James Jackson, and William Pinkney, including the letters to him, all in relation to the British Orders in Council, and the rights of the United States as a neutral, occupies more than three-quarters of the 88 pages. Five hundred copies as above were ordered to be printed for the Senate. The House edition is as follows:

[SMITH.] Documents accompanying the Message of the President of the United States, to the two Houses of Congress, at the opening of the second session of the Eleventh Congress. November 29th, 1809. Read, and referred to a Committee of the whole House on the state of the Union. Washington City: Printed by

Roger C. Weightman. 1809. 8vo, pp. 88; preceded by the President's Message, pp. 8, and according to Greely followed by Documents relating to France, pp. 8. NYP. 83810

Gen. A. W. Greely's "Public Documents," pp. 530-531, gives the imprint as Washington, A. & G. Way, 1809, and states that 5,000 copies were printed.

[SMITH.] The Documents accompanying the President's Message, at the second session of the eleventh Congress. Newport: Printed by William Simons, At the Office of the Rhode-Island Republican. 1809. 8vo, pp. 80. NYP. 83811

This edition contains all the documents of the original in a slightly different order.

[SMITH.] Important Documents which accompanied the Message of the President of the United States, at the opening of the second session of the eleventh Congress. November, 1809. New-York: Published by Prior and Dunning, No. 111, Water-Street. Southwick & Pelsue, Printers. 1809. 8vo, pp. 88, 8. NYP. 83812

[SMITH.] Important Documents presented to Congress with the President's Message on the 29th of November 1809, containing the Correspondence Between the Governments of America, Great Britain and France, which has taken place since the late session of Congress. SMITH. Important State Papers. Boston Gazette Office, Monday, Dec. 4, 1809. ☞ The Editors having been favoured with the late Correspondence between the British Ministers and Mr. Smith, . . . deem it a duty to lay them before the public, with as much despatch as possible. The limits of a single paper, being inadequate . . . they have judged it would be acceptable . . . in the portable form of a pamphlet, particularly, as there are further papers to be disclosed, and which, when received, can be so connected with this, as to form in one view, the whole ground of dispute between the two governments, and their respective Ministers. Documents accompanying the President's Message to Congress, Nov. 29, 1809. [Boston. 1809.] 8vo, pp. 27. BA., H., NYH. 83814

SMITH. Important State Papers. No. 2. Boston Gazette Office, Friday, Dec. 8, 1809. ☞ The editors are furnished with the remaining Documents presented to Congress with the President's message, in which is included the remaining part of the correspondence between Mr. Smith and Mr. Jackson; and which agreeable to promise, we present to the public in a supplementary Pamphlet. [Boston. 1809.] 8vo, pp. 29-52. H., HEH., NYH. 83815

This includes the correspondence with France, which ends on p. 52, with a Post-script note on the last letter of Champagny. There is a statement on p. 50, that three of the documents were omitted here, because they had appeared in all the American papers.

[SMITH.] Important State Papers. Documents accompanying the President's Message to Congress, November 29, 1809. [N. p. 1809.] 8vo, pp. 72. BA. 83816

This edition contains an "Exposition of the conduct of the Hon. Francis James Jackson in his correspondence with Robert Smith, Esq., Secretary of State," pp. 54-72, reprinted from the "National Intelligencer."

[SMITH.] Important State Papers. Newport Mercury Office, Dec. 14, 1809. Documents which accompanied the Message of the President of the United States, to Congress, November 29, 1809. [Newport. 1809.] 8vo, pp. 40. NYP. 83817

A note on page 38 states that five of the documents were omitted in this edition because they had been previously published in the "Newport Mercury." The correspondence was also printed in the "American State Papers," Foreign Relations, vol. 3, 1832, pp. 299-326. For reviews, see [Dwight (Theodore)], Remarks on the Documents, no. 21533, vol. 6; [Hanson (Alex. AAS., B., C., NYP. 83818

First edition, signed on p. 38, "R. Smith, Baltimore, June 7, 1811." The appendix, pp. 39-41, contains correspondence with Thomas Jefferson. Robert Smith was Secretary of the Navy under President Jefferson's two administrations, 1801 to 1809, and Secretary of State under President Madison, from March, 1809, to March, 1811, when he resigned on account of disagreement with the president's foreign policy. This address contains the diplomatic correspondence by Smith which was the subject of disagreement.

SMITH. Robert Smith's Address to the People of the United States. Lexington, (Ky.) Printed at the Office of the Reporter, by William W. Worsley. 1811. 8vo, pp. 34. 83819

A reprint of the first edition, with no additional notes. Title from a copy in the possession of H. V. Jones, Minneapolis, Minn.

SMITH. Robert Smith's Address to the People of the United States. [N. p. 1811.] 8vo, pp. 20. AAS., C., H., NYP. 83823

SMITH. An Address to the People of the United States, from the late Secretary of State; with some remarks.  The following Address has been issued at Baltimore, by the Hon. Robert Smith, late Secretary of State. It develops secrets of State which are deeply interesting to every citizen of the United States. We shall make no comment upon it.—It is a "plain unvarnished tale." We only ask of every American, who loves his country, better than any other; and who dares, even in these times, to peruse Facts, to read it attentively;—to ponder on its contents, and to communicate his sentiments upon it, Boldly and Impartially. [N. p. 1811.] 8vo, pp. 24. NYH. 83824

The appendix, pp. 21–24 contains "A Letter from General Turreau to Mr. Smith," and "An Extract from the New-England Farmer."

SMITH. An Address to the People of the United States: by The Hon. Robert Smith, late Secretary of State. To which are added a Review of the Above and Mr. Pickering's Address to the Same; also, Certain Observations on the Release of American Property. From the American Papers. London: Re-printed for J. Hatchard, bookseller to Her Majesty, opposite Albany, Piccadilly. 1811. [Verso of title:] J. Brettell Printer Marshall Street, Golden Square, London. 8vo, pp. 96. H. 83826

Smith's address was reprinted in the "National Intelligencer," vol. 11, on July 2, 1811, followed by hostile reviews on July 4, 6, 9, and 11. The numbers for July 11, 13, 16 and 23, contain comments on the address from "The Virginia Argus," "Petersburgh Intelligencer," "Boston Patriot," "The Columbian," "Essex Register," etc. The following are replies:

SMITH (Robert), of the Society of Friends, d. 1851. The Friend. A Religious and Literary Journal. Edited by Robert Smith. Vol. 1. Philadelphia: Published by John Richardson, Corner of Carpenter and Seventh Streets. Adam Waldie and Co. Printers. 1828. 4to, pp. 5, 416. C., NYP. 83829

Corrected title of our no. 25943, vol. 7. The first two numbers of the journal were published Tenth Month (October) 13 and 27, 1827. Continued as a weekly, still being published in 1927. Smith was editor for nearly twenty-four years, until Fifth Month (May) 1851, a brief notice of his death appearing on p. 272 of vol. 24.

SMITH (Robert), Universalist. Both Sides of Religious Ceremonies: A Monthly Periodical, devoted to the Investigation of every variety of Rituals in Religion. Edited by Robert Smith. Looker & Graham, Printers. Cincinnati, O. 1839-1840. 12mo, pp. iv, 284. CINPL., NYP. 83830

Mr. Smith states in the prospectus on p. 23 that he will not take sides with any denomination, and that the purpose of the publication is to investigate the authority for religious ceremonies to which he is opposed. On p. 277 he announces that the second volume will be commenced in January, 1841, and that he intends to continue publication indefinitely. Apparently, however, this first volume was all that was published. Rev. Mr. Smith was a Universalist and lived at New Trenton, Indiana, at the time that he published this book. Opposition to his views against public prayer led him to change his fellowship to the Disciples. See "Indiana Magazine of History," vol. 13, 1917, p. 6.

SMITH. "A Rod for the Fool's Back."—Bible. The Scourge: devoted to the mental and moral improvement of Revs. John A. Gurley, E. M. Pingree, and the Connecticut Convention of Universalists. Prepared and applied by Elders Robert Smith and J. J. Moss.

[SMITH (Robert Hall)]. A Series of Intercepted Letters, captured by the American Guard at Tacubaya, August 22, 1847. October 1847. "American Star" print, Mexico. 8vo, pp. 37, in double columns. HEH. 83867

The author's name does not appear in this edition. The press of the "American Star" accompanied the American Army invading Mexico, 1847-1848. The newspaper was first published at Puebla, Mexico, by Peoples, Barnard & Callahan, in June, 1847, appearing Thursday and Sunday during the stay of the army. The first number of the "Daily American Star," City of Mexico, September 20, 1847, states that it had previously followed the army and had been set up wherever it made a stay. No. 205 of the first volume was published May 27, 1848. The later issues were published by John H. Peoples, with motto, "Our Country, Right or Wrong." Information supplied by Clarence S. Brigham from the file in the library of the American Antiquarian Society. Among the pamphlets from the press the following may be mentioned:

A Thanksgiving Sermon, preached in the National Palace, City of Mexico, on Sunday, October third, A. D. 1847, on the occasion of a public thanksgiving for the victories achieved by the army of the United States, in the basin of Mexico, under command of Major-General Winfield Scott: consummated by the capture of the Capital. By the Rev. John McCarty, Chaplain U. S. A. . . . (Published by request of many officers of the Army.) Mexico, October, 1847. Printed at the office of the "American Star," Mexico. 16mo, pp. 16.

Official List of Officers who marched with the Army under the command of Major General Winfield Scott, from Puebla upon the City of Mexico, the seventh, eighth, ninth and tenth of August, one thousand eight hundred and forty-seven, and who were engaged in the Battles of Mexico. An address by Mr. Smith on "The Iowa Frontier during the War of the Rebellion," was published in the "Pioneer Lawmakers' Association of Iowa, Reunion of 1898," Des Moines, 1898, pp. 56-71. According to the obituary notice published by the Historical Department of Iowa in the "Annals of Iowa," ser. 3, vol. 13, pp. 478-479, Oct., 1922, Mr. Smith was born in Wyoming County, New York, October 12, 1829, and came to Iowa in 1856. He was a member of the relief expedition at the time of the Spirit Lake Massacre, and settled in Dickinson County for the rest of his life, holding county offices at various times and serving as representative in the Twelfth General Assembly of Iowa. In the review of the "History" published in the "Annals of Iowa," ser. 3, vol. 5, p. 474, July, 1902, his name was given as Rodney, but the list of representatives in the Iowa "Acts and Resolutions," 1868, confirms the form Roderick.

Lucas & Richardson, Book and Job Printers, Nos. 130 East Bay Street.* 1886. 8vo, pp. 8, [17]-627. Folded map. WHS. 83905

Title supplied by Miss Annie A. Nunns. According to the preface: "When the first volume of the South Carolina State Gazetteer and Business Directory was issued in 1880, the favor with which it was received by the public confirmed the hope of the publishers that a regular biennial publication, prepared to meet the requirements of the business community, could be permanently established and made a standard work of reference. Each succeeding issue has added to its popularity . . . The publishers . . . hope that this, our third number, is of such a character as to retain for us the confidence of the people, and cause them to renew their patronage in future editions."

SMITH (Roswell C[hamberlain]), the elder, Educator, b. 1797, d. 1875.

Roswell C. Smith was born in Franklin, Conn., April 6, 1797, the eldest of five children, all of whom became school teachers. He began teaching district school at sixteen years of age; prepared for college at Andover, Mass.; and then entered Yale, but for lack of means was obliged to leave before completing his course. To support himself he opened a Grammar School at Norwich, and from there he removed on invitation to Providence, where he started a Grammar and Classical School. While teaching in this place he compiled in manuscript a series of questions in simplified form on Grammar, Arithmetic and Geography, for use in his own school. Being advised to publish, he prepared the Practical and Mental Arithmetic, which was printed in 1826. The success of this venture led to a new edition in 1827, and a third, largely rewritten, in 1829, in which final form it was used extensively for many years. In 1829 he published also the Intellectual and Practical Grammar, followed in 1831 by the Productive Grammar, reissued as Smith's New Grammar on the Productive System. The Introductory Arithmetic or Little Federal Calculator appeared in 1832; the Geography on the Productive System in 1835, with a separate Atlas in quarto; the New Arithmetic on the Productive System in 1840; the First and Second Books in Geography in 1846; the Inductive Arithmetic and Federal Calculator in 1854; and the New Geography in 1860. The great demand for these publications obliged Mr. Smith to relinquish active teaching, and devote his whole time to their preparation and revision. About 1835 he removed to Hartford, where he resided until his death, April 20, 1875. A biographical sketch was printed in the Western Review (late Ohio Teacher), for March 15, 1852, vol. 2, pp. 197-203, with a portrait by H. B. Hall of New York, "Engraved expressly for the Ohio Teacher."

SMITH. Practical and Mental Arithmetic, designed principally to accompany Daboll's system of Arithmetic, (And equally adapted to any other) containing in a catechetical method, all his rules; which are requisite to the solution of any sums, ordinarily occurring in actual business, simplified, with corresponding examples. To be answered by a mental process, without the aid of slate or paper. By Roswell C. Smith, Associate Principal of North Main-street Academy. Providence. Printed at the Microcosm Office. 1826. 12mo, pp. 107. AAS., BU. 83906

Copyrighted by Roswell C. Smith, as author and proprietor, September 30, 1826; with preface, October, 1826. This was the first of a series of school books on Arithmetic, Grammar, and Geography, which had a wide circulation throughout the United States, for over seventy years, and of which it is estimated that more than a million copies were sold.

SMITH. Practical and Mental Arithmetic on a new plan, in which mental arithmetic is combined with the use of the slate: containing a complete system for all practical purposes; being in dollars and cents. Second Edition, revised and enlarged, with exercises for the slate. To which is added, A Practical System of Book-Keeping. By Roswell C. Smith. Boston: S. G. Goodrich and Richardson and Lord. J. H. A. Frost, Printer, 1827. 18mo, pp. 196, (1). BU., C., H. 83907

Copyrighted 20th December, 1827, by Richardson & Lord, and S. G. Goodrich. Preface to the second edition, by Roswell C. Smith, October, 1827, states that "the present edition is not only revised and corrected but materially enlarged and improved."

SMITH. Practical and Mental Arithmetic, on a new plan, in which mental arithmetic is combined with the use of the slate: containing a complete system for all practical purposes; being in dollars and cents. Stereotype Edition, revised and enlarged, with exercises for the slate. To which is added, a Practical System of Book-Keeping. By Roswell C. Smith. Boston: Richardson & Lord. 1829. 18mo, pp. viii, 268. AAS. BU., C., H. 83908

The book contains a "Preface to the Third Edition," dated January, 1829, stating that it differs from the preceding in many respects, and that "the present edition professes to be strictly on the Pestalozzian, or inductive plan of teaching." In this final form the "Practical and Mental Arithmetic" was frequently stereotyped with the copyright of 21 January 1829, by Richardson & Lord, and S. G. Goodrich, as proprietors, or the copyright of 1835, by Carter, Hendee, and Co., until the 1859 copyright of J. B. Lippincott & Co.

The pagination from 1829 to 1833 was pp. viii, 268, with sometimes an added one page advertisement of the Introductory Arithmetic; from 1834 to 1843 or later, pp. xi, (1), 284; from 1847 to 1859, pp. iv, (2), 282; and finally, pp. vi, 282. Editions with the same pagination are not always of the same typography, showing that new stereotype plates were frequently made. In 1835, 1837, 1838 and 1839, the words "Fifty-first Edition" appear on the titles; in 1836, "Fifty-third Edition," and in all the others, "Stereotype Edition." In some of the later editions, after 1859, the words "Smith's Second Book in Arithmetic" appear as a heading to the cover title.

An advertisement in 1850, in one of Smith's smaller Arithmetics, states that "This work has lately been adopted as a text-book in Washington College, Penn., and has been recommended by the Vermont and Rhode Island School Commissioners for use throughout those states; and it is also extensively in use in Massachusetts, Connecticut, New York, and other parts of the country. It is used in many places on the score of economy . . . it being one of the cheapest books extant, embracing all that is valuable in the two systems, mental and practical, at the usual price of a treatise on one." SMITH. Intellectual and Practical Grammar, in a series of inductive questions, connected with exercises in composition. By Roswell C. Smith . . . Names should succeed ideas. Providence:

Sold by the Author and Booksellers generally. 1829. [Verso of title:] H. H. Brown—Printer—15, Market Square. 12mo, pp. 276, and printed board covers. AAS., B., BU., C., H., 83915

First edition, with copyright of 10 November, 1829, by Roswell C. Smith as author, and preface without date. The volume is in two parts, but the first part of 57 lessons, ending on p. 197, is not called Part I in this edition. Part II occupies pp. 199-276, and contains progressive exercises in syntactical parsing. The author having decided to issue Part I separately, as well as with Part II, transferred the copyright to Perkins and Marvin of Boston, who published the next edition. Some copies of the above two parts have cover title dated and reading as follows: "Smith's First Part. Intellectual and Practical Grammar. Part First. . . Providence: Roswell C. Smith. 1830." H.

With copyright of 21 January, 1830, by Perkins and Marvin, as proprietors. This edition is in smaller type, the 56 lessons of the first part ending on p. 123, with a note referring to Part II.

Some copies have printed front cover reading, "Smith's First Part. Intellectual and Practical Grammar. Part First. . . Providence: Roswell C. Smith. 1830." BU. Others have Part II bound with it, pp. 3-82. H. Reissued as follows:

Part I. Boston: Published by Perkins and Marvin, 114, Washington Street. 1831. [Verso of title, copyright of 21 January, 1830, and imprint:] T. R. Marvin, Printer. 12mo, pp. 123; Part II, 3-82, and printed board covers, 1832. AAS., H.

AAS., BU., C. 83917

Slip pasted on verso of title: "Entered according to act of Congress, in the year 1831, By Chas. H. Thomas, in the Clerk's Office of the District Court of Connecticut." From the copyright and imprint it may be inferred that this first edition was printed in Hartford. It was published anonymously, the author's name not appearing anywhere in the book. In 1832 the copyright passed to Perkins and Marvin of Boston, who got out a new edition with a different title heading, and with the addition of the author's name as follows:

SMITH. Smith's New Grammar. English Grammar on the Productive System: a method of instruction recently adopted in Germany and Switzerland. Designed for Schools and Academies. By Roswell C. Reissued with the same imprint and paging, with the copyright of 1832 by Perkins & Marvin, in 1846 (AAS., H.); in 1847, 1848; 1849 (AAS., NYP.); 1850 (AAS.); 1851 (WATKINSON); 1852-1856; 1857 (NYP.); 1858; 1859 (AAS.); 1860, with new copyright 1859 by Roswell C. Smith (H.); 1861-1864; 1865 (C.); 1866; 1867, a revised edition from new electrotype plates, with the Massachusetts and Connecticut copyrights of 1860 by Roswell C. Smith, and the Pennsylvania copyright of 1866 by the publishers (AAS., B.); 1868; 1869 (NYP.); and 1870.

In 1873 or earlier, the name of the firm was changed to J. H. Butler & Co. (Jonathan H., Theodore H., Jonathan H., junior, and Edgar H.), who published the book until 1880, the edition of 1877 having pp. 208 (C.). In 1881, the publishers were T. H. Butler & Co. (Theodore H., etc.); and from 1882 to 1897, E. H. Butler & Co. (Edgar H., etc.), the book still having pp. 208 in 1883 and 1885 (C.). In 1898, the publishing firm was Sheldon & Co.; from 1899 to 1902, Butler, Sheldon & Company; and in 1903 it was merged in the American Book Company of New York, who advertised Smith's Grammar in their catalogues until 1913, after which date its publication was discontinued.

Roswell C. Smith's Grammar on the "Productive System," generally known as "Smith's New Grammar," was in very general use throughout the United States from 1832 until after the year 1900. In 1849 the publishers stated in an advertisement, that "This work has been before the public several years, and its merits have been well tested. It is introduced into the public schools in the city and county of Philadelphia; also those of Lancaster, Columbia, Carlisle, and Harrisburg, in Pennsylvania; and in nearly every public school in the states of Massachusetts, Connecticut, Vermont, New Hampshire, and Rhode Island; extensively in the states of New York, New Jersey, Maryland, Delaware, Virginia, and all the southern states. It is used almost exclusively in the schools of Ohio, Kentucky, and Missouri; and its circulation in the private schools and academies is believed to be greater than that of any other work on the subject. . . . The demand for it has steadily increased; and it now enjoys the approbation of nearly half the teachers in the United States." Also, in the new electrotyped edition copyrighted in 1866, the statement was made: "Smith's English Grammar has been before the public many years. During all this time it has received a very general approval from teachers, and friends of education, in all parts of the United States. It is believed that this book, after a sale of millions of copies, is now more highly esteemed by teachers than at any time since its first publication. In electrotyping it anew for the present edition, opportunity has been taken to have the work carefully revised, with a view to make it more adequately represent the advanced state of the science."

SMITH. Smith's Geography. Geography on the Productive System; for Schools, Academies, and Families. By Roswell C. Smith. Author of "Intellectual and Practical Grammar," "Practical and Mental Arithmetic," "The Productive Grammar," "Introductory Arithmetic," &c. Philadelphia: W. Marshall & Co. Hartford: D. Burgess & Co. Boston: Russell, Odiorne and Co. —New York: B. and S. Collins.—Baltimore: J. N. Lewis.—Providence: Marshall, Brown and Co.—Louisville: Kellogg and Parker.—Buffalo: T. and M. Butler.—Cincinnati: C. P. Barnes.—Albany: Oliver Steele.—Northampton: J. H. Butler.—Concord: H. Hill.—Petersburgh: J. W. Campbell.—Brooklyn, L. I.: A. Hegeman and Son. 1835. 12mo, frontispiece, pp. (4), 1-315, mispaged 215, and printed board covers. B., BU., C. 83922

First edition, without printer's name, but probably printed in Hartford, and copyrighted 1835, by W. Marshall & Co., in the Eastern District of Pennsylvania. Pages 314 and 315 are mispaged 214 and 215. The leaf following the title refers to the Preface of the Productive Grammar for an explanation of the Productive System. The American portion fills pp. 92-210, with twenty-four states in the union. The maps to accompany the different editions of this book are described under the title "Smith's Atlas," below.

SMITH. Smith's Geography. Geography on the Productive System; for Schools, Academies, and Families. Accompanied by a large and valuable Atlas. By Roswell C. Smith . . . Second Edition. Philadelphia. W. Marshall & Co. Hartford. D. Burgess & Co. And sold by Booksellers generally throughout the United States. 1836. [Verso of title:] Case, Tiffany & Co., Printers, Hartford, Conn. 12mo, frontispiece, pp. (2), 1-296, and printed board covers. AAS. 83923

Many changes were made in this second edition, and the type was mostly reset, but the Pennsylvania copyright of 1835, by W. Marshall & Co., was retained. Part First, Introductory Course, pp. 1-84; Part Second, Descriptive Geography, pp. 85-

288; Tables, pp. 289-296. The part relating to America fills pp. 97-202. Michigan and Arkansas are both among the Western Territories, pp. 166-167; Missouri Territory, pp. 167-168; North West, or Huron Territory, pp. 168-169; Oregon Territory, pp. 169-170. The book was not stereotyped, the type being kept standing, so that alterations could be made. The Atlas is described separately, below.

SMITH. Smith's Geography. Geography on the Productive System; for Schools, Academies, and Families; Revised and Improved. Accompanied by a large and valuable Atlas. By Roswell C. Smith . . . Fourth Edition. Philadelphia. W. Marshall & Co. Hartford. D. Burgess & Co. Sold by Booksellers throughout the United States. 1836. [Verso of title:] Case, Tiffany & Co., Printers, Hartford, Connecticut. 12mo, frontispiece, pp. (2), 5-274, and printed board covers. AAS. 83924

A number of changes were made in this fourth edition, which has the words "Revised and Improved" added to the title. On the verso are the double Pennsylvania copyrights of 1835 and 1836, by W. Marshall & Co.; also "Suggestions to Teachers," including a note in which the author apologizes for the frequent changes which had been made, and states that "the work is now to take a uniform and permanent form." This edition is divided into three parts: Part First, Introductory, pp. 5-58; Part Second, Geographical Terms, etc., pp. 59-85; Part Third, Descriptive Geography, pp. 86-266; Tables, pp. 267-274. The American part is on pp. 91-184, and the names of the Western Territories (pp. 151-155) are the same as in the second edition. Reissued with the same paging, but without edition number, as follows:

Philadelphia: W. Marshall & Co. Hartford: D. Burgess & Co. Sold by Booksellers throughout the United States. 1836. [Verso of title:] Case, Tiffany & Co., Printers, Hartford, Connecticut. 12mo, frontispiece, pp. (2), 5-274, and printed board covers. BA., NYP. In this edition Michigan and Arkansas are included with the states, the latter having been admitted to statehood on June 15, 1836, and the former on January 26, 1837, thus increasing the number from twenty-four to twenty-six, pp. 151-152; and three Western Territories only are named, Missouri Territory, pp. 153-154, Wisconsin Territory, formerly North West or Huron, p. 154, and Oregon Territory, pp. 154-155.

Philadelphia: W. Marshall & Co. Hartford: D. Burgess & Co. Sold by Booksellers throughout the United States. 1837. 12mo, frontispiece, pp. (2), 5-274, and printed board covers. H.

Hartford: Daniel Burgess & Co. And Spalding and Storrs. Sold by Booksellers throughout the United States. 1839. [Verso of title:] Case, Tiffany & Burnham, Printers, Pearl Street, Hartford, Conn. 12mo, frontispiece, pp. (2), 5-274, and printed board covers. AAS., PLIMPTON. In this edition the number of Western Territories was increased to four by the addition of Iowa Territory, detached from Wisconsin in 1838.

SMITH. Smith's Geography. Geography on the Productive System; for Schools, Academies, and Families; Revised and Improved. Accompanied by a large and valuable Atlas. By Roswell C. Smith . . . Hartford: Spalding and Storrs. Sold by Booksellers throughout the United States. 1840. 12mo, frontispiece, pp. (2), 5-312, and printed board covers. AAS., B., C., H. 83925

A new edition, with the Connecticut copyright of 1840, by Daniel Burgess; and the addition of the emblematic arms, the number of square miles, and population of each state. According to a statement on back of the title, dated Hartford, January, 1840, the plates of the Atlas having been destroyed by fire (in 1839), a favorable opportunity occurred for revising the entire work, and for incorporating the latest geographical discoveries in the text as well as in the new maps. Like the former edition, the book was not stereotyped, but the type kept standing, to allow for yearly corrections. The arrangement in three parts was continued, America occupying pp. 91-202, with the number of Western Territories increased to five by the addition of Indian Territory; the Tables, pp. 299-306; and General Questions, pp. 307-312. The new Atlas is described under its own title, below. The geography was reissued as follows:

Hartford: Published by John Paine, successor to Spalding & Storrs. Sold by Booksellers throughout the United States. 1841. 12mo, frontispiece, pp. (2), 5-312, and printed board covers. AAS., H. Revised to include population of the United States according to the new Census of 1840, and with notice on back of title dated Hartford, August 1, 1841. Reissued with the same imprint and paging in 1842. BU., H.

SMITH. Smith's Geography. Geography on the Productive System; for Schools, Academies, and Families; Revised and Improved. Accompanied by a large and valuable Atlas. By Roswell C. Smith . . . Hartford. Published by John Paine. Sold by Booksellers throughout the United States. 1843. 12mo, frontispiece, pp. (2), 5-312, and printed board covers. H. 83926

A new edition, the geography and atlas being thoroughly revised, for our own country from the Gazetteer and Map of the United States by J. C. Smith, and for all foreign countries from the Geographical Dictionary of J. R. McCulloch. With Advertisement for 1843 on back of title, describing these changes. The old frontispiece of five small woodcuts was replaced by a new one in four divisions, showing the growth from savage to civilized life. The five Western Territories are named Mandan District, formerly called Missouri Territory; Wisconsin Territory, formerly North West or Huron; Iowa Territory; Indian Territory; and Oregon Territory. In this form the book was reissued in the editions described below, with the new frontispiece, the 1840 copyright of Daniel Burgess, the Advertisement of 1843, and the same paging, but with frequent revisions of the American pages up to the dates of publication.

Hartford. Published by John Paine. Sold by Booksellers throughout the United States. 1844. 12mo, frontispiece, pp. (2), 5-312, and printed board covers. AAS., H.

In 1851 the Geography was thoroughly revised, according to the census of 1850, and the number of pages increased. California was included as the thirty-first state, having been admitted September 9, 1850. The organized Western Territories were named as Minnesota, Oregon, Utah, and New Mexico; with Nebraska and Indian, unorganized, pp. 169-176. The cover title was headed, "Revised Edition, with Census of 1850." The imperfect copy belonging to the American Antiquarian Society lacks the title and all after page 314, but the date of revision is given on page 126.

SMITH. Smith's Geography. Geography on the Productive System for Schools, Academies, and Families; Latest Revised and Improved Edition, containing the addition of Ancient Geography, accompanied by a large and valuable Atlas, of modern and ancient maps. By Roswell C. Smith, A.M., Author of Primary and Quarto Geography; Introductory, Practical, and Mental and New Arithmetic; Productive Grammar, etc. New York: Published by Daniel Burgess & Co., Philadelphia: Lippincott, Grambo & Co. Cincinnati: Applegate & Co., And sold by Booksellers throughout the United States. 1854. 12mo, frontispiece, pp. (2), 5-356. c. 83927

A new edition, enlarged, with the Connecticut copyright of 1840, and the New York copyright of 1853. On verso of title, Advertisement to the Revised Edition. The part relating to America fills pp. 92-213. Cover-title: "Smith's Geography. Revised and enlarged edition," etc. Lettered on the back, "Smith's Modern and Ancient Geography."

The book was reissued with the same imprint, copyrights and paging in 1855 (H.); with the same copyrights and paging, Philadelphia: J. B. Lippincott & Co. 1860 (PLIMPTON); and by the same publisher in later revised, illustrated, and corrected editions, until 1894, after which date it was omitted from the catalogue. These later editions recorded the admission of new states, from Minnesota the thirty-second in 1858, to Wyoming the forty-fourth in 1890.

SMITH. Smith's Atlas, for Schools, Academies, and Families. An Atlas, to accompany The Productive Geography. By Roswell C. Smith. Containing 1. A Map of the World. 2. A Map of North America. 3. A Map of the United States. 4. A Map of the Eastern States. 5. A Map of the Middle States. 6. A Map of the Southern States. 7. A Map of the Western States. 8. A Map of South America. 9. A Map of Europe. 10. A Map of Asia. 11. A Map of Africa. 12. A Chart of the World. Exhibiting, on a new plan, the comparative and actual size of the different empires, kingdoms, states, &c.; their population; the number of inhabitants to the square mile; the actual and comparative number of inhabitants in every important city and town; the length and height of mountains; the length, width, and depth of the largest lakes; the width of isthmuses, straits, and oceans; length of rivers, gulfs, bays, sounds, &c.; the navigation of rivers, lakes, gulfs, &c.; the forms of government; prevailing religions; state of civilization and the races of men inhabiting each country. Philadelphia: W. Marshall and Co. Hartford: Daniel Burgess and Co. [1835.] Entered according to Act of Congress, in the year 1835, by W. Marshall & Co. in the Clerk's office of the District Court of the Eastern District of Pennsylvania. 4to, cover title, no inside title, 12 colored maps on 18 leaves, of which 6 are single page and 6 double page, and printed back cover. AAS., C. 83928

First edition of the Atlas, published in 1835, with eleven of the maps engraved by J. T. Hammond, of New York, and the world chart engraved by O. Pelton. On the back cover are the titles of five popular school books. The map of the United States includes 24 states, and the six territories of Florida, Michigan, North West, Arkansas, Missouri, and Oregon. Texas was still a part of Mexico, and is so represented. A later issue as follows:

Philadelphia: W. Marshall and Co. Hartford: Daniel Burgess and Co. [1837.] Entered according to Act of Congress, in the year 1835, by W. Marshall & Co. in the Clerk's office of the District Court of the Eastern District of Pennsylvania. 4to, cover title, no inside title, 12 colored maps on 18 leaves, and printed back cover. AAS. No change was made in the cover title, but on the back cover an extra line was added for the Key to the Practical and Mental Arithmetic. The map of the United States was revised to include 26 states, Arkansas having been admitted in 1836, and Michigan in 1837. The four territories are named as Florida, Wisconsin (replacing North West and beyond), Missouri, and Oregon. The plates of this edition were destroyed by fire in 1839, and the following new edition was prepared:

SMITH. Smith's Atlas. Containing 1. Map and Chart of the World. 2. World on a Polar Projection. 3. Central Europe. 4. North America. 5. United States. 6. Mexico. 7. Eastern States. 8. Middle States. 9. Southern States. 10. Western States. 11. South America. 12. Europe. 13. British Isles. 14. Asia. 15. Palestine. 16. Africa. 17. Liberia. 18. Oceanica. Hartford: Spalding and Storrs. [1840.] Entered according to Act of Congress, in the year 1839, by Daniel Burgess, in the Clerk's office of the District Court of Connecticut. 4to, cover title, no inside title, 13 colored maps on 18 leaves, including insets of five other maps named on the title, and printed back cover. NYP. 83929

An entirely new edition, to replace the former one destroyed by fire in 1839. The maps were drawn and engraved by Stiles, Sherman & Smith, of New York. The title on the front cover is partly surrounded by a woodcut scroll border containing portraits of the five races of mankind. The back cover has two columns of recommendations, the latest dated May 29, 1839. Pasted on the inside of the front cover is a notice "To the Public" by Spalding and Storrs, dated Hartford, January 1, 1840, describing the improvements made in the new edition of the Geography and Atlas. The map of the United States shows 26 states, and the six territories, Florida, Wisconsin, Iowa, Indian, Missouri, and Oregon; also the independent state of Texas, and an inset map of Mexico and Guatemala. The population of the different states of the union is marked on the maps according to the census of 1830. A copy of this edition belonging to the American Antiquarian Society contains among the recommendations on the back cover, seven which are dated in 1840, the latest being June 17th, 1840. Reissued as follows:

Hartford: Published by John Paine. [1841?] Entered according to Act of Congress, in the year 1839, by Daniel Burgess, in the Clerk's office of the District Court of Connecticut. 4to, cover title, no inside title, 13 colored maps on 18 leaves, including insets of five other maps named on the title, and printed back cover of recommendations. AAS. The only change in this edition is the correction of the population of the different states to agree with the census of 1840.

SMITH. Smith's Atlas. Containing Eight additional Maps, in all Twenty Eight. Designed to Accompany the Geography, by R. C. Smith, A.M. 1843. Hartford: Published by John Paine. Entered according to Act of Congress, in the year 1839, by Daniel Burgess, in the Clerk's office of the District Court of Connecticut. 4to, cover title, no inside title, 15 colored maps with 12 insets on 20 leaves, paged i-xx, and printed back cover containing list of 28 maps. AAS. 83930

On the cover title the ornamental border is the same as in the preceding edition, but four of the inserted portraits were replaced by other figures. In this edition four of the old maps were omitted, and six new ones were added with copyright in 1843 by John Paine, drawn and engraved by Sherman & Smith of New York. The new maps comprise the Eastern States in two separate parts; South America with inset of France; Europe with inset of Denmark; Central Europe with two insets; and Asia with two. On the map of the United States Missouri Territory was renamed Mandan District; a list of railroads was added in each case to the maps of the Middle States and of the British Isles; and another inset added to the map of Africa. The maps were also paged for the first time.

Reissued with the date 1844, but with no other change, the title and list of 28 maps remaining the same. H.

SMITH. Smith's Atlas. Designed to accompany the Geography, by R. C. Smith, A.M. Hartford. Published by John Paine. [1844?] Entered according to Act of Congress, in the year 1839, by Daniel Burgess, in the Clerk's office of the District Court of Connecticut. 4to, cover title, no inside title, 17 colored maps on 22 leaves, paged I-xx, and printed back cover containing list of 30 maps. AAS. 83931

The ornamental cover design was made and engraved by Lossing. On the back cover is the statement: "Large Maps of Michigan, Wisconsin and the West Indies, were added, September, 1844." The two new maps, that of Michigan and Wisconsin together, and the one of the West Indies, have the copyright date of 1844 by John Paine, and were placed among those already numbered 1-xx. The map of the Western States was also revised and additions made in several places. This was probably the last edition published in Hartford, before removal of the publishing office to New York.

SMITH. Smith's Atlas. Designed to accompany the Geography. By R. C. Smith, A.M. New-York. Published by Paine & Burgess, 62 John Street. [1845.] Entered according to Act of Congress, in the year 1839, by Daniel Burgess, in the Clerk's office of the District Court of Connecticut. 4to, cover title, no inside title, 17 colored maps on 22 leaves, and printed back cover with list of 30 maps. H., NYP. 83932

First New York edition. The date is determined by the New York Directory for 1845, the only year in which the publishers were located at 62 John Street. The contents are the same as in the preceding Hartford edition.

SMITH. Smith's Atlas. Designed to accompany the Geography. By R. C. Smith, A.M. New-York 1849. Published by Cady & Burgess, 60 John Street. Entered according to Act of Congress, in the year 1839, by Daniel Burgess, in the Clerk's office of the District Court of Connecticut. 4to, cover title, 22 leaves of colored maps, and printed back cover with list of 30 maps. H. 83933

The number of states in the union at this time was thirty, Florida and Texas having been admitted in 1845, Iowa in 1846, and Wisconsin in 1848. Another issue, similar to this, but without date on the cover title, is also in the Harvard College Library.

SMITH. Improved Edition. Smith's Atlas. Designed to accompany the Geography. By R. C. Smith, A.M. New-York. 1850. Published by Cady & Burgess, 60 John Street. Entered according to Act of Congress in the year 1839, by Daniel Burgess, in the Clerk's office of the District Court of Connecticut. 4to, cover title, 22 leaves of colored maps, and printed back cover with list of 31 maps. C., H. 83934

The chief addition to the map of the United States in 1850, was California as the thirty-first state.

SMITH. R. C. Smith's Reply to the Charges of Daniel Adams. [Providence. 1831.] 8vo, pp. 12. AAS., H., MHS. 83958

Signed and dated, "Roswell C. Smith, Providence, R. I. Oct. 1831." The charges of plagiarism made against Mr. Smith by Daniel Adams, of Keene, New Hampshire, appeared probably in July, 1830, as an "Expose," called also a "Full Length Portrait," in which it was claimed that material had been copied from Adams's books, without giving credit to the source. This expose has not been seen, the description being taken from his later "Answer." Smith replied in the above pamphlet, dated more than a year after, and Adams rejoined in the following:

Answer of Daniel Adams, to the Reply of Roswell C. Smith. [Keene, N. H.? 1831.] 16mo, pp. 18. AAS. Signed and dated: "Daniel Adams. Mont Vernon, (N. H.) Dec. 1831." The pamphlet repeats the charges of the earlier "expose," claiming particularly that the changes introduced by Smith in the stereotype edition of his arithmetic of 1829 were based on Adams's "New Arithmetic," published at Keene in 1827.

SMITH (Roswell C[hamberlain]), the younger, Publisher, b. 1829, d. 1892. Eulogy on the Life and Character of P. G. M. Henry C. Lawrence, delivered in the Lafayette Lodge Room, Jan. 21, 1863. By Roswell C. Smith. Indianapolis: H. H. Dodd & Co., Book & Job Printers. 1863. 12mo, pp. 13. NYP. 83959

Mr. Smith was a nephew of Roswell C. Smith, the writer of school books. He was born in Lebanon, Conn., March 30, 1829, studied at Brown University, became a lawyer, and settled in Lafayette, Indiana, where he was married in 1852. Giving up the profession of law, he joined with others in founding "Scribner's Monthly," in 1870, followed in 1873 by "St. Nicholas," a magazine for children. In 1881 he and his associates formed the Century Company, publishers of the "Century Magazine," "Battles and Leaders of the Civil War," Nicolay and Hay's "Abraham Lincoln," and the "Century Dictionary." He died in New York, April 19, 1892. For a portrait and biographical sketch, see the "Century Magazine," June, 1892, pp. 162, 310-317.

The leaf facing the title has a crude allegorical border or frame, engraved on wood or type-metal, in the center of which is a short typographic title, "The Great | Assize: | or, | Day of | Jubilee." At the top the Angel Gabriel is blowing the trump for the final Resurrection; at the bottom the dead are rising from their graves, and along the sides are praying souls who have reached the clouds, while just below the angel is a row of the elect among the cherubim. Description from a photostat furnished by Mr. Ernest Kletsch, from the Brinley copy no. 7806, now in the Library of Congress.

The "Great Assize" is concluded on p. 194, and on the same page below the word "Finis" begin the two sermons, entitled "A Fold for Christ's Sheep," on Canticles 1, verses 7 and 8 (not 6, 7, as on the title), which continue through pp. 1-47 of the second pagination. These are followed by "Holy living and dying," pp. 47-51, and "A Dialogue between a beggar and a Divine," pp. 52-54. Information from Charles Martel of the Library of Congress. Smith was an English puritan, and his book was entered at Stationers' Hall, April 28th, 1615. The earliest London edition listed in the "Short Title Catalogue," 1926, is one of 1618, now in the Huntington Library. It ran through nearly fifty editions in England.

[SMITH (Samuel), Trustee of Georgia.] Publick Spirit, | Illustrated in the | Life and Designs | Of the Reverend | Thomas Bray, D.D. | Late Minister of | St. Botolph without Aldgate. | [2 lines from Philippians.] | [Ornament.] | London: | Printed for J. Brotherton, at the Bible, next | Tom's Coffee-House in Cornhill. MDCCXLVI. | (Price One Shilling.) | 8vo, pp. 54, "A List of the Associates of the late Dr. Bray" (1). HEH., NYP. 83976

This work has been attributed usually to Samuel Smith on the authority of the following note in the Journals, now missing, of the Associates of the late Dr. Bray, but which is printed in the introduction to the second edition by H. J. Todd:—"An historical Account was laid by Mr. Smith, before the Associates, of Dr. Bray's Life and Designs; and with some alterations, the whole was approved." The Associates were a body of Trustees organized by Dr. Bray soon after Christmas, 1723, to carry out his "designs" of founding parochial libraries, and conducting schools for negroes, in the "plantations." Three of the first four Associates were later charter Trustees for establishing the Colony of Georgia. Dr. B. C. Steiner has attributed the authorship of the book to Richard Rawlinson, the nonjuring bishop, topographer, and collector, in the Maryland Historical Society "Fund Publication," no. 37, 1901, where he prints one of the Rawlinson manuscripts written in the hands of Rawlinson and his amanuensis, which is evidently an earlier draft of the same work. Dr. Verner W. Crane in the "American Historical Review," vol. 27, p. 64, Oct. 1921, returns to the earlier theory on the ground that a non-juror would not be likely to have intimate knowledge of the latitudinarian Bray and his group, and that as Rawlinson was frequently an editor and collector, the fact that the work was in his hand could be so explained. Extracts from the life were printed in several of the early Georgia tracts before the whole was printed in 1746, as in the Smith "Sermon," below.

According to the preface signed by Henry J. Todd, Rector of Allhallows, Lombard Street, London, Jan. 25, 1808, the suggestion was made at the meeting of the Associates in July, 1807, that the book be reprinted because of its rarity. Mr. Todd, one of the members, offered to edit it. He added to the earlier work an Appendix containing Additions to the Life and Designs of Dr. Bray, pp. 53-59; The Account of the Designs and Proceedings of the Associates . . . for the year 1807, pp. 61-84; a list of the Associates at the time, with the dates of their admission, letters of thanks, etc., pp. 85-99; and A Catalogue of the Books given by Dr. Tho. Bray, in his will, to Sion College Library, London, pp. 100-120.

Following the Sermon, pp. 29-34 have the heading: "Some Account of the Designs of the Trustees for Establishing the Colony of Georgia in America," and contain a reprint of Benjamin Martyn's anonymous tract with the same title published in 1732, for a description of which, see under "Some Account." An account of the designs of Dr. Bray, pp. 35-39, taken from the biography listed above; a petition of Dr. Bray to the king, evidently in regard to a charter for the S. P. G. and the royal reply dated April 7, 1701, complete the work. Information as to title and note from Lawrence C. Wroth.

The map included in connection with "Some Account of the Designs of the Trustees" is from the same copper plate as the map in the two folio editions of "Some Account" published by the Trustees in 1732, and in the three editions of Martyn's "Reasons," 1733. There is a copy of the first of the 1732 editions in the DeRenne Library, which contains an earlier state of the map, discovered by Dr. George Watson Cole in August, 1917. This earlier state has an inscription on the map of Florida which is not found in the later one, though traces of its erasure are apparent. According to Verner W. Crane, in his contribution to "Bibliographical Essays," 1924, p. 288, the source of the map is the Nairne inset in Crisp's "Compleat Description of Carolina," [1711], and the plate as originally engraved followed the Nairne map more closely than the later impressions would indicate at first glance. However, a careful examination reveals signs of the erasure of inscriptions which can be identified with legends on the Carolina map. Mr. Leonard L. Mackall points out that the map in the DeRenne copy of the 1732 issue of "Some Account" was an impression printed before the erasures were completed. See the latter's contributions to the "Georgia Historical Quarterly," vol. 2, 1918, p. 76, and to the "American Historical Review," vol. 30, 1925, pp. 305-306. A slightly reduced process-facsimile of the map in the Smith "Sermon," from the Harvard College copy, is in Winsor, vol. 5, p. 365.

Samuel Smith matriculated at Magdalen Hall, 13 Nov. 1719, aged 17, and was not only one of the Associates of Dr. Bray, but also one of the Common Council of the Trustees. His sermon was the first of the anniversary series, a list of which, from 1731 to 1751, is given below. The names of the preachers of those sermons of which printed copies have not been located are taken from the Earl of Egmont's diary published by the Historical Manuscripts Commission, or from the journals of the proceedings of the Trustees, in the "Colonial Records of . . . Georgia," vol. 1. At the meeting of March 28, 1752, a memorial was signed by the Trustees offering to surrender the trust to the crown.

This bill in chancery was brought against the heirs of Colonel Peter Schuyler, Archibald Kennedy being his son-in-law. In 1758, Schuyler having advanced sums for the expenses of New Jersey troops under his command in the campaign against the French and Indians, requested reimbursement. An act was passed March 29, 1758, by the New Jersey Assembly authorizing the payment to him of 6000 pounds, but as he had not his accounts with him he was required to give a bond for the same, with the provision that on the settlement of the accounts, if his demands should exceed that sum, the deficiency should be made good, and on the other hand that any surplus should be repaid to the province. Schuyler died in 1761, without having discharged the bond, and as his heirs had taken no steps to meet the obligation, Smith as one of the treasurers of the province brought suit against them. See "Documents relating to the Colonial History of ... New Jersey," vol. 17, 1892, pp. 154-156; and Nevill's "Acts of the General Assembly of the Province of New-Jersey, 1753-1761," vol. 2, 1761, pp. 187-188. In Allinson's "Acts," 1776, the act of 1758 is marked obsolete with a note, "Colonel Schuyler's Accounts being settled before the House of Representatives, this Sum was accounted for."

There were two different settings of type for the title-page, one with the imprint date MDCCLXV, the other punctuated M,DCC,LXV, and with the spacing of some of the lines varying slightly, so that the positions of certain letters differ in relation to those above and below, in the two settings. During the course of printing, some of the typographical errors listed on the last page were corrected; but the books were apparently made up of a mixture of the earlier and later impressions of the sheets, some with and others without the corrections. A comparison of several copies shows the following variations. Page 35, line 14, corrected to "were" from "was" in four with the MDCCLXV date, and in four with the M,DCC,LXV date, but not corrected in three others. Page 40, line 13, corrected to "masters right" in all of the eleven copies examined. Page 118, line 1, corrected to "could" from "would" in eleven copies, and also in the M,DCC,LXV uncut Lefferts-Church-Huntington, but not corrected in the other Church-Huntington copy dated MDCCCLXV. Page 488, line 4, corrected to "in other parts" from "in many in other parts" in four of the MDCCCLXV date, and in two of the M,DCC,LXV, but uncorrected in the five others examined. Page 500, line 34 footnote, reads "both meet against it" in eleven, including the ordinary Church-Huntington copy, but corrected to "meet against it" in L. C. Harper's copy with the MDCCCLXV date and in the uncut Lefferts-Church-Huntington copy with the M,DCC,LXV date. Page 512, line 6, reads incorrectly "IMPRIMUS" in eleven, including the MDCCCLXV Church-Huntington copy, but was corrected to "IMPRIMIS" in Mr. Harper's MDCCCLXV and in the uncut Church-Huntington M,DCC,LXV copies. In nine of the copies mentioned, page 339 was misprinted "33," but correctly printed in the four others, two of MDCCCLXV and two of M,DCC,LXV. Page 552 was misprinted "2" in the ordinary MDCCCLXV Church-Huntington copy, but corrected in the twelve others.

Extracts from the letters of James Parker to Benjamin Franklin, relating to the printing of the book, were given by Mr. William Nelson in the Proceedings of the American Antiquarian Society for April, 1911. Writing from Woodbridge, March 28, 1765, he says: "Samuel Smith, Esqr of Burlington, has some years since been composing a History of New Jersey:— I had told him seven years ago, if he had it printed by me, I would go to Burlington to do it:— A few Weeks ago, he claim'd my Promise, and as I have not much Work here, and I was otherwise strongly invited thither, upon deliberating of it,— I apprehended, that the Printing Materials of Ben: Mecom's which were in my Store Room in New York, if you wanted them for any Cause, they would be handier for you at Burlington, than at NYork, but that, if not, I would take them myself and pay you for them:— They are indeed valued in B. Mecom's Book, as they cost new, whereas they are not quite so: However, I apprehended, we should not differ about them; and if you did not chuse to let me have them, I could but allow you for the little Use I might make of them till called for: I went to New York, and this Day Week shipp'd them on board of a sloop to go round by Water to Philadelphia, in order that they might not be bruised by Land Carriage: . . . I shall take two or three of my Boys with me, and leave my Wife here, as also my Son . . . it is probable I shall finish in 5 or 6 Months, or perhaps sooner."

In another letter, from Burlington, April 25, 1765, he announced the arrival of the press and printing materials, and continued: "I should not have come to Burlington, where my Family of Boys only are with me, but for the Governor's Desire, and a Book I am going to print for Sam: Smith, Esqr called The History of New Jersey, which I had promised him to come and do seven years ago, if he proceeded on with it." The printing was begun in May or June, and finished in or before December, in an edition of six hundred copies, according to Parker's letters of June 14, and December 20. The preface was dated, Burlington, 5th October 1765, and the book was advertised in the Pennsylvania Gazette of October 31, as "Now in the Press, to be speedily published, in one Volume Octavo, neatly bound and lettered, and sold by David Hall, in Philadelphia, and James Parker, in Burlington." The bill for printing reads:

"Samuel Smith Esqr to J. Parker Dr.

The edition was mostly bound in calf, with a simple two line border in gilt on each cover. Good copies measure from  $8\frac{3}{8}$  to  $8\frac{3}{4}$  inches in height, by  $5\frac{1}{4}$  in width. Uncut copies are over an inch taller, the Rice-Menzies-Ives-Weeks copy, now in the William L. Clements Library, being  $9\frac{3}{4}$  by  $6\frac{3}{8}$  inches; the Lefferts-Church copy in the Henry E. Huntington Library,  $9\frac{3}{4}$  by  $6\frac{3}{8}$  inches; and Dr. A. S. W. Rosenbach's copy,  $9\frac{3}{4}$  by  $6\frac{5}{8}$  inches. At the time of the Menzies sale, in November, 1876, Mr. Sabin stated in the catalogue that "We know of only one other uncut copy." Some years later, Mr. Charles R. Hildeburn discovered in one place five more uncut copies, one of which was shown at the Grolier Club's Bradford Exhibition in 1893. All copies have the same measurement on the inner margin,  $\frac{5}{8}$  of an inch.

The printing press and type of B. Mecom's used for this job were probably the same which Franklin sent to St. John's, Antigua, in 1748, in charge of Thomas Smith, who had worked for three or four years in the office of Franklin and Parker in New York. This was the first press in Antigua, and Smith printed the first book there in 1749, William Shervington's "Occasional Poems." After Smith's death, Franklin sent his nephew Benjamin Mecom to the island in 1753, to take charge of the business. Four years later, in 1757, Mecom tired of the place, and removed the press from Antigua to Boston, where he operated it until near the close of 1762. He then moved to New York and started the "New-York Pacquet" in 1763, but the venture being unsuccessful he stored the press and materials with Parker, and went to New Haven in 1764, to take charge of Parker's press there. After the printing of Smith's History at Burlington, Parker wrote to Franklin, February 10, 1766, "I shall send down B. Mecom's Printing Office to Philadelphia, immediately, as Mrs. Franklin says she will see Care taken of it." On the 20th of the same month he adds: "All Mecom's Materials are sent down to Philadelphia."

SMITH. The History of the Colony of Nova-Cæsaria, or New-Jersey: containing, an account of its first settlement, progressive improvements, the original and present constitution, and other events, to the year 1721. With some particulars since; and a short view of its present state. By Samuel Smith. Burlington, in New-Jersey: Printed and sold by James Parker: Sold also by David Hall, in Philadelphia. M,DCC,LXV. [On verso of title:] Trenton, N. J.: Wm. S. Sharp, Stereotyper and Publisher. 1877. 8vo, pp. xiv, 1 blank leaf, 573, (1). Folded map. CU. NYP. + [Another issue, about 1880.] 8vo, pp. xiv, 1 blank leaf, 573, (1), index 575-602. 2 folded maps. C., NYP. 83981

An exact reprint, with the addition of a new preface, a sketch of the author, by his great nephew, John Jay Smith, and fac-simile of a map of "The Province of New Jersey," engraved and published in 1777, by William Faden, Charing Cross, London. The later issue, with added index, contains also Cook's geological map of New Jersey, published by the Geological Survey of the state in 1880.

SMITH. The Colonial History of New Jersey. A Reprint. With Maps. Published by authority of the State of New Jersey. Trenton, N. J.: William S. Sharp. 1890. 8vo, pp. xiv, 573, page of errata, 575-613. 3 folded maps and one on verso of 1765 title. HEH. 83982

The preface to the second edition is omitted, and a new title-page as above, with a copyright notice of 1890 on the verso, precedes the reprint of the 1765 title.

Appendix II., added in this issue, contains "John Tatham, New Jersey's Missing Governor," by John D. McCormick, pp. 575-584, and is followed by the index, pp. 585-612, and the index to Appendix II., pp. 612-613. Information as to copies in the State Library of New Jersey, and the Public Library of Newark, from John P. Dullard, and Miss Beatrice Winser.

Instead of the maps included in preceding issues, photo-lithographic reproductions of the following are substituted: on verso of the second title, the New Jersey portion of the map in Vander Donck's "Beschryvinge van Nieuw-Nederlant," 1656, as made for Whitehead's "East Jersey under the Proprietary Governments," 1846; the map of the State of New Jersey from "The Petitions and Memorials of the Proprietors of West and East-Jersey, to the Legislature of New-Jersey," issued in 1784, and again in 1785; and the first and second maps from "A Bill in the Chancery of New-Jersey," 1747, reduced in size.

SMITH. History of the Province of Pennsylvania. By Samuel Smith. Edited by William M. Mervine. Published by the Colonial Society of Pennsylvania. Printed by J. B. Lippincott Company Philadelphia, Pa. 1913. 8vo, pp. xiii, 3-231, (4).

C., NYP. 83983

This work being the first part of the History of the Province of Pennsylvania was printed from Samuel Smith's MS. in the library of the Historical Society of Pennsylvania. The second part with the exception of chapters 16-17, which were omitted as unimportant, was printed by Samuel Hazard in the "Register of Pennsylvania," vols. 6-7, 1830-1831.

C., NYH. 84005

In 1862-1863 Smith went to investigate the prospects for making use of Indian cotton to take the place of American in the English market, but was doubtful of the success of cotton growing in India, see pp. 58-60. The letters were originally published in the "Times of India," February 12-April 12, 1863. Pp. 61-67 contain a letter dated, Levant, May 12th, 1863, on "The Cotton Trade of Egypt," being a comparison of American and Egyptian cotton.

According to Ellison's "Cotton Trade of Great Britain," 1886, pp. 210-211, Smith made his first literary attempts in occasional letters on the cotton trade written to the "Liverpool Daily Post," under the pseudonym of Mercator, and later started the "Monthly Circulars," which he continued to 1883, and which gained him a great reputation in the cotton markets of the world.

The account includes extracts from letters and speeches. Smith describes American conditions at the time of his first visits to America in 1860 and 1866. As a cotton broker, he was interested in visiting New Orleans and the cotton growing districts of the South. His business was affected by the Civil War, and in 1862-63 he visited India to investigate the possibility of substituting Indian cotton for American, see above the "Cotton Trade of India." Other visits to America are described. Smith was elected member of parliament in 1882, and continued in that body most of the time until 1905. He was also a manufacturer, and interested in religious and philanthropic work. For information as to his writings not listed here, see the sketch in the Dictionary of National Biography, second supplement.

SMITH (Samuel B.), late a Priest. Decisive Confirmation of the Awful Disclosures of Maria Monk, proving her residence in the Hotel Dieu Nunnery, and the existence of the subterranean passages. By Samuel B. Smith, Late a Popish Priest. New York: Published at the office of the "Downfall of Babylon," 131 Nassau Street. 1836. 8vo, pp. 16, (4), 19-30, including wood-engravings. Frontispiece. c., H. 84021

An earlier issue is included in "The Escape of Sainte Frances Patrick" below. Title supplied by Charles Martel. For other works relating to Maria Monk, see our nos. 49992-49997, vol. 12. She was a Canadian impostor, who came to New York and excited much anti-Catholic feeling and controversy, by the account of her supposed experiences in a nunnery in Montreal, published in the "Awful Disclosures of Maria Monk," 1836, and "Further Disclosures," 1837. These charges were not taken seriously by Protestant newspapers in that city, according to quotations given in an article in the "Dublin Review," vol. 1, pp. 151-174, May, 1836. William L. Stone of the "New York Commercial Advertiser," visited Montreal in order to investigate the matter, and published his "Maria Monk, and the Nunnery of Hotel Dieu," 1836, which disclosed her impostures.

Vol. 1, no. 2, Oct. 30, 1834, was also published in Philadelphia, but no. 3, Nov. 29, was published at 146 Nassau Street, New York, as were following numbers until May 2, 1835, when the office was finally moved to 131 Nassau Street. The imprint in some issues of vol. 1 shows that it was printed by Henry R. Piercy, no. 7, Theatre Alley. Published weekly, Nov. 29, 1834, to Jan. 23, 1836; biweekly thereafter through June 24, 1837, and changed to a monthly July 22nd of that year. This is the last issue in the library of the American Antiquarian Society, but there is nothing to show that it is the final issue, except that Smith bemoans the bad times and tells of his personal danger because of his attacks on Catholicism. Smith was "Editor and Proprietor" of the periodical and author of most of the articles. Information from Clarence S. Brigham.

The author was born and educated in Philadelphia, his father being a member of the Society of Friends. After his father's death, at the age of twenty-one he went west, settling for a time in St. Louis. Here he was taken seriously ill, and was befriended by a Roman Catholic family, through whose influence he was converted to Catholicism. After teaching for some time in church schools, he studied for the priesthood and was ordained, remaining in the Church altogether seventeen years. In his "Renunciation of Popery" he gives these facts, and the reasons for finally changing his belief. In 1833 he published his first Anti-Catholic book, and in 1834 opened the office of the "Downfall of Babylon," in Philadelphia, later in the year removing to New York, where he kept an office as editor at 131 Nassau Street as late as 1838. His home address for that year was 11 Laight Street, and there he opened a dentist's office in 1839. In 1848 he began to sell electromagnetic machines at 293 Broadway, which he continued to do as late as 1865 at 439 Broadway.

Printed by Rockwell and Churchill.* [1884.] 4to, 32 leaves, including illustrations. C., NYP. 84041

Contains a biographical sketch of the author by G. H. Whittemore, followed by the hymn, "America," in four stanzas, profusely illustrated, chiefly with wood-engravings by Harry Fenn, Granville Perkins, Robert Lewis, and Thomas Moran. Information from Charles Martel of the Library of Congress. The 1884 edition contains twelve other poems by Smith, and additional illustrations.

According to Smith's account in Miss Ferris's article on "Our National Songs," in the "New England Magazine," vol. 2, 1890, pp. 483-504, he wrote the hymn in February, 1832, because he had been attracted to the air for "Heil dir im Siegerkranz," first published in 1790, which he had come across in a collection of German patriotic songs. The air was originally composed for the English national song "God save the King." He frequently stated that Lowell Mason, to whom he gave a copy, had it sung for the first time on July 4th, 1832, at a Sunday school meeting held in Park Street Church, Boston. Mr. W. C. Winslow in the "Boston Evening Transcript," October 27, 1908, on the other hand, stated that it was first sung at the Bowdoin Street Church of which Mason was organist, and later at the Park Street Church service. The hymn was printed in Lowell Mason's "The Choir," 1832, with the heading "America," and Smith's name at the end, and consisting of five stanzas. This edition of the collection contained as a third stanza, one which is not usually found, but appears crossed out on the "Fac-simile of the Original Draught of 'America,'" given in Miss Ferris's article. It was evidently cut out before the manuscript was framed for presentation to Harvard College, as it does not appear in the fac-simile published with an account of the gift in the "Harvard Graduates' Magazine," for December, 1914. Information as to the history of the hymn was furnished by O. G. T. Sonneck, whose "Report" on the national songs, published by the Library of Congress in 1909, should be consulted as to additional stanzas, etc.

Signed: S. Hanbury Smith, M.D. Dr. Smith was known as a pioneer at this time in promoting the use of mineral waters in the treatment of disease. On coming to New York, he opened the "Spa," where he prepared and dispensed the waters. His name appears, for the first time, at the above address, in Trow's "New York City Directory" for 1860-1861, and also in that for the following year, but is not found in those succeeding. In this prospectus he addresses himself to the profession and the public, and announces that the "Spa" will be open from 6 A.M. to 11 P.M.

Dr. Smith, who was of English birth, practised for several years in Sweden before coming to America, and was the author of the following: Sketch of the Epidemic Religious Monomania, which occurred in Sweden, in the Year 1841 and 1842. . . . (From the Ohio Medical and Surgical Journal.) Columbus: S. Medary's Steam Press. 1850. 8vo, cover title, and pp. 481-512. AAS.

He edited with Francis Gurney Smith the second series of Drake's "Treatise on the Principal Diseases of the Interior Valley of North America," Philadelphia, 1854, our no. 20825, vol. 5; and was also editor of the "Ohio Medical and Surgical Journal," published in Columbus, from 1849-1850. SMITH. Trial of Samuel Chase. See our no. 12205, vol. 3.

Mr. Smith began printing in Philadelphia in 1791. He was active in newspaper work, and appears to have established "The New World" of Philadelphia in August, 1796, the first number located by Mr. Brigham being that for Sept. 19, 1796, which was published by him. This was discontinued in August, 1797. In November of that year he began in the same city the publication of "The Universal Gazette," and continued it there until September, 1800, moving at that time to Washington. In the following November he resumed its publication in that city, and it became virtually the weekly edition of his "National Intelligencer and Washington Advertiser," a tri-weekly, which he had started in October. He continued to publish these two papers until 1810, part of the time being associated with Joseph Gales, Jun., who took them over in that year. See Brigham's "Bibliography of American Newspapers."

He was also connected with "The American Universal Magazine," which was established in January, 1797, and its first numbers have the imprint, Philadelphia: Printed by S. H. Smith, for Richard Lee, No. 131, Chesnut St. To whom Communications for this Work must be directed, (Post paid). In later numbers of vol. 1 and 2 his name disappears, but in the last number of vol. 2, June 13, 1797, is the announcement that the "present Editors, will at the commencement of the Third Volume be assisted by a gentleman whose literary abilities have been frequently sanctioned by public approbation." Vols. 3 and 4 have the imprint: Philadelphia: Printed by Samuel H. Smith and Thomas Smith, No. 118, Chesnut street; Where communications will be received. The last number published was that of March 7, 1798.

For a biographical sketch, see "Centennial History of the City of Washington," 1892, pp. 119-121. See also the collection of letters by his wife, Margaret Bayard Smith, "First Forty Years of Washington Society," our no. 83509, vol. 20.

An issue with a general title-page, apparently printed by Samuel Hall, of the three pamphlets given above: A Discourse on the Guilt and Folly of being ashamed of Religion; A Sermon on Slander; and A Discourse on . . . Small Faults. These were possibly first issued separately, as their signature marks are distinct, and moreover as the first was printed by Bumstead, not Hall.

Dr. Smith was one of the authors of the continuation of Ramsay's history included in his "History of the United States," 1816-1817, our no. 67694, vol. 16. Three of his sermons, Faith the principle of a holy life, The sinner blinded to truth, and On a death-bed repentance, are nos. 1, 6 and 16 of "The New-Jersey Preacher," 1813.

B., NYP. 84139

Copyrighted by J. K. Wellman in 1845, and with a preface by the editor, Seba Smith, dated New York, Dec., 1845. One of the gift book collections of prose and verse so popular at the time, the work contains five selections each by Mr. Smith and his wife, Elizabeth Oakes Smith; also others by American writers such as Longfellow, Bryant, Whittier, Miss Sedgwick, Mrs. Child, Dr. Muhlenberg, and Bishop Madison.

The publisher reissued the book with some extra pages and plates, under the same title in 1847; another publisher issued it under the titles of "The Keepsake" and "The Gift of Friendship," both for 1848, from the same stereotype plates; and it was issued again under the original title by still another publisher in 1854.

SMITH. Dew-Drops of the Nineteenth Century; gathered and preserved in their brightness and purity. By Seba Smith. . . . Floral Department. By John B. Newman, M.D. New York: Published by J. K. Wellman, 116 Nassau Street. 1846-47. 12mo, pp. 216. 8 colored plates of flowers. BA. 84140

Title supplied by Miss Elinor Gregory. From the stereotype plates of the earlier edition, with the addition of the "Floral Department," describing nine flowers and their emblematic meanings, pp. 204-216. The added flower plates illustrate the descriptions of the plants in the text. For issues published for 1848, see "The Gift of Friendship," and "The Keepsake," below.

SMITH. Dew-Drops of the Nineteenth Century; gathered and preserved in their brightness and purity. By Seba Smith. . . . Floral Department. By John B. Newman, M.D. New York: Lamport, Blakeman and Law, 8 Park Place. 1854. 12mo, pp. 216. 5 plates, and added lithographed title in color. B. 84141

Instead of the plates of flowers, this edition contains engravings, two by W. G. Jackman, and three by J. C. McRae. The lithographed title was printed by J. Bien, 90 Fulton St. N. Y.

[SMITH.] Downing Gazette. . . . By Major Jack Downing, Editor and Proprietor. Portland: Office of the Daily Courier. 1834-1835. Sm. folio, weekly, each number, pp. (4), with four columns to a page. 84142

No. 1 appeared July 4, 1834, according to Miss Wyman's "Two American Pioneers," p. 48, and it was apparently continued weekly on Fridays for the rest of the year, judging from her reference to the number dated September 26, 1834. Early in 1835, the day of issue was changed to Saturday, as shown by the number dated January 17 of that year. The American Antiquarian Society has numbers 38, 43 and 46, of vol. 1, for March 21, April 25, and May 16, 1835, each with a statement in the first column that "This paper is published every Saturday morning at the office of the Daily Courier, in the Mariners' Church building, second story, eastern end, Fore Street, Portland, away down east, in the State of Maine." Miss Wyman states that it "seems to have been discontinued in the spring of 1836," letters of March 22, 1836, in the "Portland Courier and Family Reader" of April 1, 1836, indicating that the Downing correspondence was temporarily closed.

Beside discussions of American political conditions, the paper contained a few items of general news or of literary interest. Jack Downing's letters in the "Gazette," according to Miss Wyman, differ from the first series in their severe criticism of Jackson. There are also occasional letters from "Sargent" Joel Downing to his Cousin the Major. Like the latter he plays the part of confidential adviser to President Jackson. From February to June, 1835, correspondence between the Major and Colonel Crockett was a feature. These Downing letters are not among those reprinted in "My Thirty Years out of the Senate."

SMITH. The Gift of Friendship, or Token of Remembrance for 1848. Dew Drops of the Nineteenth Century. . . . Edited by Seba Smith. New York: John Levison, 196 Chatham Square. [n. d.] 12mo, pp. 216. 6 plates. 84143

A reissue of the 1846-47 edition of the "Dew-Drops of the Nineteenth Century," omitting the colored plates, but adding a mezzotint frontispiece, unsigned, and five engravings, two of the latter being by J. B. Neagle, and one each by O. Pelton, A. B. Durand, and J. I. Pease. Title supplied by Walter M. Smith, librarian of the University of Wisconsin. The same publisher, John Levison, issued an earlier edition from the same plates, for which see "The Keepsake," below.

[SMITH.] Jack Downing's Letters. By Major Jack Downing. . . . Philadelphia: T. B. Peterson and Brothers, 306 Chestnut Street. [1859.] 12mo, pp. 119, list of books 2-9, and printed cover. H., NYP. 84144

A reissue with undated prefaces and with some of the paging altered, from the stereotype plates of Smith's "May-Day in New York," 1845, and having the original copyright of that year by Burgess, Stringer & Co. on the verso of the title. The edition may be dated by the fact that a "complete edition" of Dickens's works advertised by Messrs. Peterson and Brothers in the attached list of books includes "Little Dorrit," published first in 1857, but not the "Tale of Two Cities," 1859, the latter being the first year in which the firm name appears as above in the Philadelphia directories.

[SMITH.] John Smith's Letters, with 'Picters' to match. Containing reasons why John Smith should not change his name; Miss Debby Smith's Juvenile Spirit; together with the only authentic history of the late war in our disputed territory.

"Is John Smith within?"

Yes, that he is."

MOTHER GOOSE.

New-York: Published by Samuel Colman, no. 8 Astor House, Broadway. 1839. [Verso of title:] Stereotyped by James Turney, Junr. 12mo, pp. 139. 8 plates. C., NYP. 84145

Some copies have printed board covers, like one in the New York Historical Society. The etchings with which the book is illustrated have the inscriptions, Fungus Del Little Nap Sc., or Fungus Del Little Ben Sc. D. C. Johnston, who had illustrated the "Life and Writings of Major Jack Downing" in 1833, was one of the few etchers working in the country at the time, and was possibly the artist.

Mr. Smith at this time used the pseudonym, John Smith, evidently to disassociate himself from his imitators who had used that of Jack Downing. In the letter dated from "Smithville, Down East, in the State of Maine, April 25, 1839," and addressed to Colman he says: "I see by some of the papers that you are a goin' to put out a book, containing my letters that I've been writing to the New-York Mirror . . . if you think the letters that I and my son John have writ, are worth making into a book, I'm willing you should do it. . . . I want it to be [dedicated] to uncle Joshua Downing, of Downingville, out of respect I feel for the memory of my cousin, Major Jack Downing. I don't mean none of your New-York counterfeit Jack Downings, that stole my cousin Jack's name, but my own dear cousin, the Major, that writ all his letters in the Portland Courier, and the Downing Gazette, printed in Portland, State of Maine."

The letters, five of which relate to the Aroostook War, had appeared in the "New York Mirror" from January 12 to May 11, 1839, the last being dated April 20, 1839. Miss Wyman notes in her "Two American Pioneers," 1927, that Letter IV., dated March 8, 1839, was also reprinted with changes in "My Thirty Years," pp. 134-147, there dated Nov. 6, 1831, and signed by Joshua Downing instead of John Smith. The preface of the latter work is signed by Seba Smith.

SMITH. The Keepsake, or Token of Remembrance for 1848. Dewdrops of the Nineteenth Century. . . . Edited by Seba Smith. New York: John Levison, 196 Chatham Square. [1848.] 12mo, pp. 216. 10 plates, five of which are colored plates of flowers.

B., NYP. 84146

From the stereotype plates of the 1846-47 issue of "Dew-Drops of the Nineteenth Century," with three colored plates omitted, and a mezzotint frontispiece, and four line engravings added, two of the latter being by J. B. Neagle, and one each by O. Pelton, and J. I. Pease. The title page is on different paper from the rest of the book, having been substituted in place of the earlier title. The colored plates are of different flowers from those described in the book.

Dedicated to Martin Van Buren. Miss Wyman, who has made an extensive examination of newspapers of the period, states that the interest aroused by the publication in July and August, 1833, of Downing letters by Smith and his imitators, in the "Cincinnati Daily Gazette," led to the publication of this edition containing six Smith and six Davis letters, as well as nine of the other imitations, several of which had already appeared in New England and western newspapers.

B., NYP. 84148

Contains letters published originally by Mr. Smith in his paper, the Portland "Daily Courier," the first being dated at Portland, Jan. 18, 1830, and the last, Washington, Oct. 20, 1833. His interest in the meantime had changed from state to national politics, the imaginary Major Downing having become a self appointed adviser to President Jackson. The letters were reprinted in many newspapers, and finally by 1833 a number of imitators appeared also using the pseudonym of Jack Downing, the most successful of whom, Charles Augustus Davis, wrote a series published in the "New York Daily Advertiser" from 1833 to 1835.

In the preface, signed and dated, "Major Jack Downing. Boston, Nov. 14, 1833," the author states that he made the book because he "couldn't help it . . . And in the next place, I made it so as to get my letters all together, out of the way of the rascally counterfeits, so that folks might know the good eggs from the rotten ones. . . . I see the New York Daily Advertiser says they are going to print a book of the counterfeit letters somewhere there or at Philadelphia . . . they are welcome to print as many letters as they are a mind to, if they will only jest put their own names to 'em. But he that will print his letters and put my name to 'em, I think would steal a sheep."

The "Appendix. In which are published some of Major Downing's letters, that he never wrote," contains six imitations, four of which are found in the collection, "Letters of J. Downing, Major," by Davis which had originally appeared in the "New York Daily Advertiser." The accompanying editor's note criticises the imitators as forgers, and states that most of their compositions are inferior in quality and that others with "some ability," are "often deformed by low blackguardism, indelicacy, or profanity, qualities which it is believed are not to be found in the writings of the genuine Major," but that a few of the best specimens follow.

The wood-engravings are by D. C. Johnston, sometimes called the American Cruikshank. The Major mentions the fact in Letter LXXI. which first appeared in the third edition.

[SMITH.] The Life and Writings of Major Jack Downing, Of Downingville, away Down East in the State of Maine. Written by Himself. . . . Third Edition. Boston: Lilly, Wait, Colman, & Holden. 1834. 16mo, pp. (6), [ix]—288, incl. frontispiece and 9 wood-engravings, besides View of Downingville not in the paging. B., NYP. + Third Edition. Albany, N. Y. 1834. 16mo, pp. (6), [ix]—288. + Eighth Edition. Boston: Lilly, Wait, Colman, & Holden. 1834. 16mo, pp. (6), [ix]—288. 84149

The third edition, reprinted in smaller size, came out originally in eight monthly parts of 36 pages each, with printed front and back covers of yellow paper lettered "Major Jack Downing's Magazine," Part 1 dated Boston, January 15, 1834, and Part 8, August 15, 1834. Preceding the frontispiece in Part 1 was a leaf with heading, "Major Jack Downing's Magazine. Part 1. Boston, January 15, 1834. Vol. 1." This leaf, containing the publishers' announcement, and on the verso a description of the eleven engravings, was omitted from the completed volume, the paging of which shows its absence. Description from the Brinley copy (no. 7082), now belonging to the American Antiquarian Society.

The publishers' announcement states that the extraordinary demand for the Letters has led them to issue this reprint in periodical form, and that after "completing the first volume, should sufficient encouragement be afforded, the Major may, no doubt, be induced to continue his interesting description of public affairs, and other matters." The original illustrations, by D. C. Johnston, are mentioned as an important feature. An additional letter in this edition, dated Washington City, Dec. 28, 1833, gives an account of the Major's latest supposed interview with the President, in which besides discussing as usual the political situation, the "Gineral" expresses his interest in the progress of Downing's book, and particularly in Johnston's "picters" of himself. The postscript begins as follows: "I had a letter tother day from Mr. Lilly, Wait and Co. telling that two editions of my book was most all sold, and that they were jest agoing to work to sterrytype it; and they did n't know but they should want a little something to fill up two or three more pages. So if they should want any thing, I dont know but you had better let 'em have this letter to put in."

C., NYH. 84150

Copyrighted by Burgess, Stringer & Co. in 1845. The preface by the author, pp. iii-v, is signed and dated, "Major Jack Downing. New York, May 30, 1845." Another preface by the publishers, pp. vi-xxviii, is dated New York, June 10, 1845, and gives a sketch of the history of Downing literature, genuine and spurious. It describes Davis's entrance upon the field as follows: "But one individual at this time made a bold and systematic rush at the Major, and attempted to strip his well-earned laurels from his brow and entwine them round his own head. This was a respectable merchant, a heavy iron dealer, in Broad Street, New York. Violently seized with the mania a potu of literature, he sat down and wrote a Downing letter, giving an account of the arrival of the Presidential party in New York, signed it with the Major's name, and published it in the old Daily Advertiser."

Following the letters to Aunt Keziah, the second part of the volume, pp. 71-117, contains "Sketches from Life," upon the titles of which appears Seba Smith's name. These sketches are also reprinted in "Way Down East." For a later issue from the same stereotype plates, see "Jack Downing's Letters," no. 84144, above.

[SMITH.] My Thirty Years out of the Senate. By Major Jack Downing. Illustrated with sixty-four original and characteristic engravings on wood. New York: Oaksmith & Company, 112 and 114 William Street. 1859. [Verso of title:] Oaksmith & Co. Printers and Stereotypers. 12mo, pp. 458, advertisements (3) of publications by Oaksmith & Co. Frontispiece. C., H., NYP., WHS. + New York, Derby & Jackson. 1860. 12mo, pp. 458, including half-title. Frontispiece. C., H. 84151

With wood-engraved half-title: "Major Jack Downing's Letters." The wood-engravings are by J. H. Howard. In the preface, dated New York, February, 1859, and signed by Seba Smith, the author describes the situation in Maine politics, a deadlock in the legislature, which led to his writing the first Downing letters in the Portland "Daily Courier," in 1830. He tells of the letters becoming national in character, and how after seven years he sold the paper and moved to New York. After an interval of a few years he resumed the series again, publishing the letters in the "National Intelligencer," in Washington, also in various magazines, and continuing them till near the close of the administration of President Pierce. In January, 1857, he began publishing a reprint of the letters in their present form, both the earlier from the "Life and Writings," and the later ones from the "Intelligencer," in the "United States Magazine." The title given to the collection at this time, "My Thirty Years out of the Senate, or, A History of the Working of American Politicians for Thirty Years," was a parody of Benton's "Thirty Years' View; or, A History of the Working of the American Government for Thirty Years," 1854-1856. The magazine united with "Putnam's Monthly" and became "Emerson's Magazine and Putnam's Monthly," and the last Downing letter, dated January 21, 1856, appeared in the latter in June, 1858. In the complete volume, the reprint of the "Life and Writings" form pp. 13-245, letters from Jan. 28, 1847, and later years, pp. 248-456.

The name of Appleton Oaksmith, publisher, appears in the New York directories for 1858-59, and for 1859-60. According to Miss Wyman's book, Mrs. Smith had been interested in having her husband prefix the name of Oakes, a name from her side of the family, to that of Smith, but he had refused. She consequently used it as a middle name, being known as Elizabeth Oakes Smith, and had the children's name legally changed to Oaksmith. The publisher was the eldest son.

SMITH. New Elements of Geometry. By Seba Smith. . . . New York: George P. Putnam, 155 Broadway. London: Richard Bentley. 1850. [Verso of title:] *S. W. The publishers advertised the book as the most original and remarkable work on Geometry ever published in this country. On the other hand it was criticized as an ingenious but paradoxical attempt to overturn the common definitions of geometry. According to Professor David Eugene Smith, it is unscientific, and though "the crude work which he gives in geometry shows some native ingenuity . . . it doesn't contribute anything at all significant." Seba Smith had some correspondence on the subject with Auguste Comte, hoping to receive his approval of the work, but receiving instead a severe criticism. See Wyman, pp. 157-159.

AAS., B., C., NYP. 84154

Continued to Sept. 13, 1845, vol. 5, no. 26. Smith's name appeared alone on the title-pages of vols. 2 and 3, for 1844, the last number edited by him being that for January 11, 1845, vol. 4, no. 17. Mr. Labree then took over the editorship, and announced in the last number that as the name of Rover was not suited to an elegant magazine of polite literature, "this number concludes the present and last issue of the Rover, and next week we shall publish the first number of the New York Illustrated Magazine." The line engravings which were a feature of each number were by well-known engravers such as J. G. Chapman, V. Balch, Fk. Halpin, Durand & Co., A. C. Warren, M. Osborne, and others. A complete set of the magazine is located at the New York State library by the Union List of Serials, which also credits the American Antiquarian Society with vols. 1-4, the Library of Congress with vols. 1-3, and 5, the Boston Public Library with vols. 1-3 and part of 4, and the Brooklyn Public Library with a good though not perfect set of vols. 1-5. The New York Public Library has vols. 1-2 and a few numbers of vol. 3. The magazine under its new name was continued until 1847.

[SMITH.] The Select Letters of Major Jack Downing of the Downingville Militia, away Down East, in the State of Maine. Written by Himself. . . Philadelphia, Printed for the Publisher. 1834. 16mo, pp. xi, 212, incl. frontispiece. C., H. 84155

With Pennsylvania copyright by R. Withington and H. Davis. The book is an unauthorized edition made up mostly of Smith letters, originally published in the "Portland Courier," and collected in the "Life and Writings of Major Jack Downing," (the imitation letters from the appendix to that work being included also), and of ten or more Davis letters, which came out in the "New York Daily Advertiser," and were later issued as the "Letters of J. Downing, Major." The style of the preface, dated Jan. 30, 1834, is inferior to, and differs in dialect from the writings of either Smith or Davis.

SMITH. The Snow Storm, A Ballad, . . . as performed at the Concerts of the Hutchinson Family. The words by Seba Smith, music by L. Heath. Arranged for the Piano Forte by George Hews. Thayer & Co's Lithogy. Boston. Price 37½ cts. nett. Boston. Published by Oliver Ditson, 135 Washington St. Entered according to act of Congress in the year 1843 by O. Ditson in the Clerks office of the District of Massachusetts. Folio, pp. 5. NYP. 84156

This poem was printed under the title of "The Mother Perishing in a Snow-Storm," in Griswold's "The Poets and Poetry of America," 1842, p. 453, and has the following note: "In the year 1821, a Mrs. Blake perished in a snowstorm in the night-time, while travelling over a spur of the Green Mountains, in Vermont. She had an infant with her, which was found alive and well in the morning, being carefully wrapped in the mother's clothing."

C., HEH., NYP. 84162

An account of the diverse literary activities of Seba Smith and his wife, the claim to interest of the former based chiefly on his humorous writings under the pseudonym of Jack Downing, and of the latter not only on her poems, tales and sketches, but also on her lectures in the cause of enlarged opportunities for women. Miss Wyman has consulted beside printed sources, many letters and other manuscript material in the possession of the family. Of especial value in connection with Mr. Smith, and because of the many imitators also writing under the pseudonym of Downing, is the research into the question of just which publications under that name may be rightly attributed to him. Beside examining the collections of Downing letters in book form, Miss Wyman has searched through newspapers in the libraries of Hallowell and Portland, Me., Boston, Worcester, New York, Washington, Detroit, Chicago and Cincinnati. The work contains introductory chapters on the background of the two authors, and their early life and work in Portland. Others relate to the Original Downing Letters; the History of the Genuine and Spurious Downing Letters; the move from Portland to New York; Seba Smith as an Editor in New York; 'Way Down East and Other Books by Jack Downing; Mrs. Smith's work as an author and on the lecture platform; and Literary Friends and Activities of the Smiths in Later Years. The bibliography includes a few general authorities; lists of the Downing letters published in newspapers, distinguishing as far possible those written by Mr. Smith, by his chief rival, Charles Augustus Davis, and other spurious letters; lists of printed collections of Downing letters, similarly distinguished; bibliographies of the other books by the two Smiths, and also of their contributions to four prominent magazines.

Most of Mr. Smith's writings, which beside the Downing letters, consisted of poems, sketches and tales, appeared originally in periodicals, both in those edited by himself and in the leading weekly and monthly magazines. Many of them were not reprinted in the collections listed above. Miss Wyman gives a list in her "Two American Pioneers," of his contributions to "The Ladies' Companion," "Godey's Lady's Book," "The Southern Literary Messenger," and "Graham's Magazine," and also mentions his writing for "The Knickerbocker," the "New-York Mirror," Greeley's "The New-Yorker," Park Benjamin's "The New World," Colman's "Miscellany," and "Brother Jonathan." A series of tales, "The Ups and Downs of Lot Wyman," appeared in "The Ladies' Companion," from October, 1842 to April, 1843, vols. 17-18, and another series of articles relating to "The Religion and Superstition of the North American Indians," in "The Literary Emporium," vols. 3-4, 1846, pp. 87-90, 97-100, 129-133, 170-174, 230-233, 289-293, the latter showing a study of authorities such as Hariot, Charlevoix, Lewis and Clarke, Schoolcraft, Jarvis, and Jedidiah Morse. Selections by Smith were included in many gift book collections similar to his own "Dew-Drops of the Nineteenth Century."

Miss Wyman describes in her book Mr. Smith's editorial connection with a number of periodicals, including newspapers, weeklies and monthly magazines. He started his editorial career in Portland, Me., as assistant editor of the "Eastern Argus," his share of which he sold in 1826, and in 1829 he established the "Daily Courier," and the "Family Reader," which he afterward combined and carried on until 1837. Following the success of his Downing letters, he started the "Downing Gazette" in 1834, continuing it until 1835, and possibly till 1836. After moving to New York late in 1839, he was at different times editor of two short-lived periodicals, a "Young People's Magazine," and "Bunker Hill," and also of "The Rover" entered above. He also edited "Brother Jonathan" for a few months, and in 1844 was one of the editors of the daily, "The New York Citizen and American Republican," later called "The New York American Republican." In 1853 he was editing "The Budget." In 1854 he wrote "I have to do all the editing and furnish all the matter for the United States Magazine and United States Journal." Until 1858 he had at intervals editorial responsibility for the "United States Magazine" and its successors, "Emerson's United States Magazine," and "Emerson's Magazine and Putnam's Monthly." After the failure of these, Mr. Smith established in January, 1850, as apparently his last editorial venture, "The Great Republic Monthly," published by his son's firm, Oaksmith & Co., which lasted no longer than a year. In the spring of 1860, Mr. Smith moved to Patchogue, L. I., where he had bought a house, and remained there until his death in 1868.

There is no longer doubt that Seba Smith was the original Jack Downing, his name being signed to the preface of "My Thirty Years Out of the Senate," 1859, which contained a reprint of the first letters that came out in the Portland "Daily Courier" in 1830. For nearly four years, until November 1833, Mr. Smith continued these letters in his two Portland newspapers, many of them being copied by papers in other parts of the country. The question of the true author's name did not arise until early in 1833, when the "American Advocate" of Hallowell, Maine, in announcing that Jonathan Dow had been chosen Mayor of Portland, added that he was the reputed author of the Jack Downing letters, but a few days later corrected the statement by saying they were written by Mr. Seba Smith, editor of the Portland "Courier."

The wide interest which the Jack Downing letters created during the President's eastern tour in the summer of 1833, brought into the field many imitators, among whom was a rival whose success was even greater than that of Mr. Smith. This was Charles Augustus Davis, of the firm of Brooks and Davis, iron merchants of New York, who began in June, 1833, a series of letters addressed to Mr. Dwight, of the "New-York Daily Advertiser," under the signature of "J. Downing, Major, Downingville Militia, Second Brigade." To make matters more confusing, on the announcement of Mr. Smith's intention to reprint in book form at Boston the genuine Jack Downing letters, Mr. Davis addressed his seventeenth letter, dated October 27, 1833, to "My Old Friend of the Portland Courier," saying: "I see by the public papers you are about to print my letters to you—and you say I have written no other letters except those I writ to you. Why, my good old friend, if I had never quit Downingville, and never looked beyond your little Courier, I should never have been so great a man as I now be. . . . Now, if you want to print my letters in a book, you had better git my old friend Dwight to give you all the letters I writ to him too; . . . only I now tell you, that my letters to Mr. Dwight are, if any thing, a leetle better than my letters to you; . . . and if it warn't for them I might have been Major Jack Downing to be sure, but I would not have been J. Downing, Major, Downingville Militia, 2d Brigade."

Another Maine man reputed to be Jack Downing was James Brooks, who was the editor of the "New-York Daily Express," which did from 1837 to 1839 print a series of Downing letters; but these claimed to be, and some of them probably were a continuation of those published in the "New-York Daily Advertiser," by Mr. Davis.

The first collection of Jack Downing letters in book form was published at Cincinnati by J. A. James, in August or September, 1833, containing a selection from the newspapers of letters by Smith, Davis, and others. In November of the same year, Lilly, Wait, Colman and Holden issued at Boston the first authorised edition of the Smith letters. The first edition of the Davis letters came out at New York early in February, 1834, with the imprint of Harper and Brothers; and about the same time the unauthorised "Select Letters," by Smith, Davis, and others, appeared at Philadelphia, without publisher's name. As the entries under Davis, our nos. 18798-18800, Vol. 5, are unsatisfactory, and include two titles which we put now under Seba Smith, the editions of the Davis-Downing letters are given below, as are also several Downing titles by unknown writers or editors.

[DAVIS.] Letters of J. Downing, Major, Downingville Militia, Second Brigade, to his Old Friend, Mr. Dwight, of The New-York Daily Advertiser. New-York: Published by Harper & Brothers, No. 82 Cliff-Street. 1834. 12mo, pp. viii, (2), 240. Copperplate frontispiece and 6 woodcut plates. 84163

First edition in book form of the series by Charles Augustus Davis, published early in February, and containing twenty-eight letters only, the last one dated January 31st, 1834. There are two title pages, the first one reading "Major Downing's Letters," with a picture of Andrew Jackson as seen through the glorification spectacles, and imprint similar to the other title but undated. The frontispiece, a line engraving on copper of "Downingville Folks," J. Downing del., has also the faint inscription, A. L. Dick sc. The other plates are wood-engravings, several of them signed Mason, and apparently the work of A. J. Mason who was working in New York at the time. The plate added in the later editions is a "Political Portrait of Major Downing," his face hidden behind the "New-York Daily Advertiser" which he is reading.

The introduction contains a "Genuine Original Letter of Major Downing, about this Genuine Book," dated, Washington, 1st Jan., 1834, telling among other things of the demand that all his letters to the Advertiser be "printed in a book, for there's a good many kounterfits goin about," and asking Mr. Dwight not to print any of the letters he wrote before he started with the "Gineral on the Grand Tower; for I writ to so many folks afore that time, that I can't tell the giniwine from the kounterfits." A note signed by Theodore Dwight, Editor of the N. Y. Daily Advertiser, dated New-York, January, 1834, states that all of the letters which have appeared in his paper under the signature of "J. Downing, Major, of Downingville Militia, 2d Brigade," and which are here republished, are the work of one hand.

This edition has not been seen, but its existence is indicated by the paging of the appendix of press notices, 235-240, to follow directly after the close of the 28th letter on p. 234. Besides, the table of contents has only 28 letters.

[DAVIS.] Letters of J. Downing, Major, Downingville Militia, Second Brigade, to his Old Friend, Mr. Dwight, of The New-York Daily Advertiser. [Edition of 29 letters.] New-York: Published by Harper & Brothers, No. 82 Cliff-Street. 1834. 12mo, pp. viii, (2), 245, Appendix 235-240, list of books 9, (7). Frontispiece and 6 plates. The four added letters, xlii, pp. 368-378; xliii, pp. 380-383; xliv, pp. 384-388; and xlv, pp. 389-400; are dated October 10 and 18, 1834, December 6, 1834, and February 1st, 1835.

[DAVIS.] Letters of J. Downing, Major, Downingville Militia, Second Brigade, to his Old Friend, Mr. Dwight, of The New-York Daily Advertiser. [Edition of 45 letters, with binder's label

“Eighth Edition.”] New-York: Published by Harper & Brothers, No. 82 Cliff-Street. 1836. 18mo, pp. x, 400. Frontispiece and 7 plates. NYH. 84172

Dated one year later than the preceding issue, but otherwise unchanged. This copy was presented to the New York Historical Society by Mrs. Chas. Aug. Davis, and is inscribed by the author, on a slip inserted before the title, “From | J. Downing Major | Downingville Militia | 2nd Brigade | to his Wife & Darter.” |

[DAVIS.] Letters of J. Downing, Major, Downingville Militia, Second Brigade, to his Old Friend Mr. Dwight, of the New-York Daily Advertiser. . . . London: John Murray. 1835. 24mo, pp. (4), 215. 84173

A reprint of the edition of 29 letters. See note to the next following title.

[DAVIS.] Letters of J. Downing, Major, Downingville Militia, Second Brigade, to his Old Friend Mr. Dwight, of the New-York Daily Advertiser. Second English Edition, with three additional letters. From the latest New-York Edition. London: John Murray, Albemarle-Street. MDCCCXXXV. [Verso of title:] London: Printed by William Gloues and Sons, Stamford Street. 24mo, pp. (4), 223 verso blank, appendix [205]—215, (1), and printed cover. Frontispiece pasted inside of cover.

AAS., NYH. 84174

A reprint of the edition of 32 letters. No copy of the first London edition has been located, but a review recommending a reprint of the book by some London bookseller appeared in the “Quarterly Review” for April, 1835, so that it is improbable that it was issued before that time. The entry in the “London Catalogue” for 1814–1839 indicates that it also was published by Murray, and sold for three shillings. The collation may be inferred to be pp. 215, (1), as the incorrectly numbered pages of the appendix of the second London edition must have been the final pages of the first, both being evidently from the same stereotype plates, except for the added letters in the second.

This edition is prefixed by a “Notice” which consists of two extracts, one from “The Stranger in America,” and the other from the “Quarterly Review” article on the book. They call attention to the homespun humor, and the shrewdness of the political satire, and also state that this “must be allowed to be the most authentic specimen that has as yet reached Europe of the actual colloquial dialect of the Northern States.” The author is given as “Mr. Davis, of the respectable mercantile house of Brookes and Davis, New York,” who has “fairly established a formidable reputation among the politicians of the Western World.”

The copy belonging to the New York Historical Society, which was received from Mrs. Davis, is inscribed in MS: “Major Downing with the compliments of his London Publisher John Murray, July 29, 1836.”

[DAVIS.] Major Downing’s Advocate. Vol. 1, nos. 1–40; March 12–June 23, 1834. New York: Craighead & Allen. 1834. Sm. folio, tri-weekly, each number, pp. (4). c. 84175

Contains reprints of Downing letters written by Davis for the “New-York Daily Advertiser.” Continued by the following:

[DAVIS.] Major Downing's Advocate, and Mechanic's Journal. Number 1. New York, Wednesday, July 9, 1834. Price one cent. [New York:] Printed by Craighead & Allen, At No. 68 Spring Street. Sm. folio, pp. (4), four columns to a page.

NYP. 84176

Published irregularly, part of the time daily, and from Sept. 2, tri-weekly, the last number in the file in the New York Public Library being that for November 1, 1834, no. 64. Though making capital of the popularity of the Downing name, reprinting a few of Davis's letters from the "New-York Daily Advertiser," and including two other brief Downing paragraphs, the following quotation from one of the letters, in the number for July 17, would indicate that Davis was not the editor: "I see by some of the papers, some folks say I have gone to Portland, to print a newspaper there; and others say I have got a paper in New York . . . I aint got so far down in the wor[l]d yet, as to set up any newspaper for a livin . . ." It was an organ of anti-Jackson feeling, and the last numbers had the motto: "The State is in Danger—Whigs! To the Rescue!!"

The authorship of the following Jack Downing titles has not been determined:

The Life of Andrew Jackson, President of the United States. Illustrated with numerous cuts. By Major Jack Downing, of the Downingville Militia. . . . Philadelphia: Published by T. K. Greenbank. 1834. [Verso of title:] John Clarke, printer, no. 7, Franklin Place. 12mo, pp. (4), vii-xii, 263, with frontispiece on verso of half title.

B., H., NYH. 84177

This work often has been attributed to Mr. Smith, but the fact that incidents referred to therein are from the Davis series indicates that he could not have been the author. Miss Wyman says that the book is so inferior to Davis's letters that it is more probably by one of his imitators.

Jack Downing's Song Book. Containing a selection of upwards of two hundred of the most popular songs, many of which are new. By Jack Downing, M.D.M. Providence: B. Cranston & Co. 1836. 32mo, pp. 256, incl. frontispiece. + Third Edition. Providence: B. Cranston & Co. 1836. 32mo, pp. 256, incl. frontispiece. + Fourth Edition. Providence: B. Copyrighted in 1836, by the publisher. Dedication to Andrew Jackson, signed J. Downing, Major. The frontispiece is lettered "Presentation Plate."

Letters of Major Jack Downing, of the Downingville Militia. "The Constitution is a Dimmycratic machine, and it's got to be run as a Dimmycratic machine, or it won't run at all!"—Major Jack Downing to Lincoln. New York: Bromley & Co. J. F. Feeks, No. 24 Ann Street, General Agent. 1864. [Verso of title:] Lovejoy & Son, Electrotypers & Stereotypers, 15 Vandewater st., N. Y. 12mo, pp. 254. 8 plates. H., NYP. + Third Edition. New York: Van Evrie, Horton & Co., No. 162 Nassau Street, Printing House Square. 1866. [Verso of title:] Lovejoy & Son, Electrotypers & Stereotypers, 15 Vandewater st., N. Y. 12mo, pp. 254. 8 plates. NYH. 84179

Also issued in cheap form with printed paper covers. This collection of thirty Downing letters, which ridicules President Lincoln's policies during the Civil War, bears dates from Feb. 4th, 1862, to Jan. 30, 1864, and is preceded by an introduction stating that "It is now jest thirty years sence my first Book of Letters was printed by Harper and Kumpny." It could not be the work of Davis, however, as the attempt at a New England dialect is quite different. Words which are spelled correctly by both Smith and Davis, such as "says," "to," and "militia," are written "ses," "tu," and "milisha," and the whole effect is labored, while the letters are coarse and in poor taste. Smith's different attitude toward the war may be seen in his "Speech of John Smith." The letters appeared first in a Copperhead paper, the "New-York Weekly Caucasian," in 1862, and were continued in its successor, the "New York Weekly Day-Book" until 1864. The wood-engravings by Burr and Lusk are of little merit.

Major Jack Downing, of the Downingville Militia. London: Frederick Warne & Co. 1865. 16mo, pp. 256. BM. 84180

Title from the "Publishers' Circular" for Sept. 1, 1865, listed as of the series of "Yankee Fun and Frolic Books." A reprint of the "Letters of Major Jack Downing," 1864, no. 84179.

Major Jack Downing, of the Downingville Militia. With an Introduction by George Augustus Sala. London: Ward, Lock, and Tyler. 1865. 12mo. BM. + [Same imprint.] 1866. 12mo, pp. 100. 84181

Another edition of the same book. Title from the British Museum Catalogue, and the "Publishers' Circular" for March 15, 1866. One of the series called "Sixpenny Volume Library." This edition was also included in the volume of "Yankee Drolleries," issued in 1866 by the same publishers, as described below.

Major Jack Downing. (Northern Humour.) "The constitution is a dimmycratic machine, and it's got to be run as a dimmycratic machine, or it won't run at all!" Major Jack Downing to Lincoln. Author's Unabridged Edition. London: George Routledge and Sons, The Broadway, Ludgate. [1867?] [Verso of title:] Printed by George Levey, West Harding Street. 12mo, pp. xi, 100. NYP. 84182

In May, 1867, George Routledge and Sons announced new editions of two of the books included in the volume of "Yankee Drolleries," with introductions by G. A. Sala, published by Ward and Lock in 1866; and it is probable that this edition of "Major Jack Downing," which also has an introduction by Sala, came out about the same time, although it is not recorded in the "Publishers' Circular." The remainder of the edition, or the stereotype plates, soon passed into the hands of John Camden Hotten, who in March, 1868, issued a new edition of "Yankee Drolleries," with his own imprint in the general title, but with the Routledge imprints in the other titles.
